China Armed Camp

Congressman Louis-A. Frothingham, just returned from a trip to the Orient told a Boston Herald reporter in an interview last week that the troubles in China are not over by any means, and that drastic steps should be taken at the earliest opportunity, or more banditry and bloodshed would come. During his stay in China, the congressman went from Pukow to Pekin, using the same line that was attacked recently by handits, when a number of Americans were made captive and held for remson.

This is the line the bandits attackThis is the line the bandits attacked just before it crosses the Yellow river," said he. "This railroad has five trains of cars. They are painted blue, are spick and span, and were made in the United States. It has the best train in China and the best road. Part of it was built by the English and part by the Germans. That is shown by the type of railroad stations. You can easily tell where the English stopped and the Germans began in Shantung province.

and the Germans began in Shantung vrovince.

"The trouble with China is that there are so many different armies owing allegiance to various chiefs and over whom the Pekin government has no control. It is supping the whole energy of the country. Taxes are collected six months ahead, but very little goes to the central government. The consequence is that police, school teachers and other government officials are unpaid. The only way they will ever get any stability in China is to abolish all these various armies. and have one small army, subject directly to the central government, for the national defence and not for the valuglory of one military leader."

Naw Legislators Fight.

Asked to relate some of his experiences while in China the congressman said:

"I went into both houses of congress," ences while in China the congressman said:

"I went into both houses of congress, or parliament. The entrance to the gate was surrounded by soldiers, who inspected everyone and his pass carefully before he was permitted to go in. I hadn't been in there more than five minutes when a free fight broke out and spread all over the floor. While various members were pushing, gesticulating and talking on rostrum around the speaker, a member was carried out on a shutter, having been hit on the head with an inkstand. The speaker either had no power or inclination to stop it.

sither had no power or inclination to stop it.

"The thing to do is for the able men and business people of China to get together and insist on the adoption of a constitution and the election of a president and parliament, see to it that it is lived up to, and that the rule of the gun ceases, and law and order through the ballot is ratified. The Chinese people are peace-loving, hardworking citizens, and it is a calamity that this wonderful country, where the mass of the people are so hard-working and law-abiding, should be in such a state of chaos. When I left Pekin a state of chaos. When I left Pekin lest month, the troops under Chan-So-Lin were to the north and would probably clash with those under Wi-Fu, the south, before the summer is over. Of course such a thing is imminent at any time."

Police Party Stages Spectacular Raid on Island.

London, May 17,—(By Mail)—A

The pelice party approached the island in a native boat pulled by two Chinese boatmen, themselves hiding in the bottom of the craft. On getting mear the shore, they encountered another native boat in charge of two armed guards, who were keeping watch on behalf of the smugglers. These latwer did not suspect that the incoming boat contained policemen. The police a list of Queen Victoria's favorite authors sent to him by her in 1896.

Among English writers her favorite dramatist and poets were Shakespeare, Walter Scott, Tennyson, and Adelaide were all women—Jane Austen, Charlotte Bronte, Mrs. Oliphant, Mrs. Craik George Ellot, and Edna Lyall. The list is old-fashioned. Its range is restricted and even seems to have been arrested Money cannot count balanced against your child's health. Wisdom urges you to replace your ordinary refrigerator with a Barnet—and be safe. And the Barnet will pay for itself. It will save you that costly waste, due to foods spoiling too quickly in the cellar or in the ordinary refrigerator, and having to be thrown out. There is no substitute for the Barnet. It is in a class all by itself. Ask the "Barnet" dealer about it, or write direct to us for illustrated catalogue.
