PROTECTION FOR THE FOX INDUSTRY IN QUEBEC

Provisions of Hon. Mr. Devlin's Bill -- His References to the Business Here

Quebec, Nov. 27--Hon. Mr. Devlin's bill for the protection of foxes and other fur-bearing animals kept in captivity prohibits the sale of such animals for a period of not less than 30 days after the date of their capture, and in default of imprisonment not exceeding three months and not less than one month.

A heavier fine is fixed by the new law for anyone who shall pass within the enclosure where the animals are kept, who shall climb over or break or cut through the enclosure. For this offence the fine is fixed at a maximum of $100 and a minimum of $50 or imprisonment of not more than six and not less than two months.

The law also permits proprietors or caretakers of such farms to kill any dog which enters the enclosure annoying or terrifying the animals, providing, however, that such dog is not accompanied by its owner or in care of some person.

Mr. Devlin, in speaking on the bill, pointed out that numerous fortunes had been made in the fur farming industry in Prince Edward Island and in New Brunswick. The Hon. Mr. Dalton of the Prince Edward Island government, claimed to have made $40,000 a year out of a fox farm, and had given an option for $600,000 for its purchase. Absolute quiet and protection on private property from intrusion by strangers or dogs was necessary for successful breeding, and the provisions of New Brunswick had a special act providing for such protection.

There were several parties engaged in this industry in the province of Quebec, he mentioned a fox ranch at Plaisance, on the North Shore, which was owned by Mr. Bette, and valued at $200,000. The Hon. Mr. Bette had another at Lorette, Mr. Calhoun had another at Gaspé, and foxes were also being raised in captivity at Chambord, Lake St. John, in Maskinonge county, and elsewhere; mink at Lac Champlain, near La Macaza, and at Materville.

Tailors double their thread used to sew on buttons, and make a knot and hold the knot in the teeth while they twist the thread then they were it and that keeps it twisted.

THE FOUR KINGS IN THE BALKAN WAR

Of the four kings shown here, King Ferdinand, on the right, is a German by birth and King George of Greece at the other end of the line, is a Dane. King Peter is a King of Greece, a dynasty of a century's standing, but the real claim to the Balkan blood must be conceded to King Nicholas whose Petrovitch ancestry stretches back to the days of the prince bishops of Montenegro. This is an impressive sketch by an artist of the London School.

ART OF BREATHING IS MUCH NEGLECTED, SAYS EXPERT

London Report Says Exercise of Lungs Would Save Many Children From Disease

London, Eng., Nov. 27--George Newman, in a report on the children attending elementary schools in England and Wales, states that of the six millions of children examined 3,780,000 are suffering from disease.

This does not include the mentally afflicted. The question is, "What can be done to improve matters?" The first need of a child is that of a sound body--without which no brain works normally. If there fore appears to be a defect in the child's body, it should be framed with that object in view.

Experiments have been recently tried by the London County Council schools to teach children their lessons out of doors, but since the difficulty of concentrating attention upon purely mental work in the open air is recognized by every student. It is not surprising to learn that the school has not been attended by the best results.

If a system of breathing exercises be substituted, followed by some simple exercise chosen for the purpose, excellent work could be done.

One of the greatest preventives of disease is proper breathing, and very few people know how to breathe properly. The absolute control of breath is an art almost solely practised by singers and speakers.

The lungs are but seldom wholly used on account of defective breathing, and organs which fall into disuse become incapable of action, and are subject to decay.

The importance of training the young cannot be gainsaid. Habits early engrained in children of regularity, cleanliness, and order are never without good result, and so surely the first lesson in life should be "How to breathe."

Although it is possible to teach breathing without singing, students advocate the study of simple singing after, breathing has been mastered because a child will more readily apply itself to a study which presents some definite conclusion.

Montreal News. Montreal, Nov. 28--This morning's Gazette says:--

It is understood that the directors of the Canada Machinery Company have decided to retire the present common and preference stock and to give in exchange for it new common stock. The result will be that all the shareholders will be on an equal footing and the total capitalization will be considerably reduced. At present there is outstanding $608,800 seven p. c. cumulative preferred stock, $633,000 common stock and $400,000 six p. c. bonds.

The first shipments of gold from New York to Montreal in a considerable quantity were announced yesterday. It was said that the Bank of Montreal shipped $200,000 yesterday and would ship a like amount tomorrow. All $1,250,000 gold was said to have been engaged for Montreal account in New York yesterday. This shipment yesterday attracted some attention owing to the tension in the money market there.

The whole interest of the market this week centres in speculation as to what money conditions will be next week. Trading has been practically negligible. It has been demonstrated that there is no selling pressure in the market and that a large proportion of the market is held outright, or so well margined that holders are well content to wait, first an easing up in the money and secondly a clearing up of the war situation. With many of the banks ending their year on Saturday there is a disposition to believe in the raising of the "window dressing" period will be followed by a normal return of funds for stock market purposes although fairly tight money is looked for well into December.

Rumors are even current as to just what amount this or that bank will be able to set free on Monday. With New York closed today over the Thanksgiving Day holiday the market will probably be plunged into even greater dullness than has been the order recently.

Rate the Same. London, Nov. 28--The bank rate is unchanged. New York Closed.

New York, Nov. 28--Because of Thanksgiving Day the stock exchange is closed today.

TALKS ABOUT SUNDAY WORK IN THIS CITY

There was a discussion pertaining to matters of local interest participated in by the clergymen and others. Dr. Rochester said that Sunday construction work on the railways was not a necessary evil, but a social evil. With regard to the running of trains the matter was complicated. The alliance had studied the situation many times, and on branch lines stopped. On the trunk lines, if a freight train were made up after twelve o'clock on Saturday night, and started on its journey, the law allowed it to reach its destination. There was no bar to the operation of passenger trains on Sunday, if the train was for an excursion. The only leverage they had in connection with the running of Sunday trains on the I. C. R. was to write the minister of railways and point to communities along the railway where the introduction of Sunday trains was in opposition to the sentiment of the community. "We have said that the government should be an agent in the conduct of its business." The whole argument was not on a legal basis, but from a moral standpoint.

"I have received a letter from the minister of railways," said Dr. Rochester. "His answer is very definite. He said he must be governed by the business of the railway. He has made up his mind to have this service, and he has it. Personally, I am not hopeful that the service will be discontinued."

There was some discussion regarding the passing of a resolution disapproving of the running of Sunday passenger trains on the I. C. R. but no action was taken.

FOX RANCH IN CHATHAM

Chatham World--Collector Watt, Dr. Marven and Mr. King are building a fox ranch in Lobban avenue. It will have the usual wire fence, and, in addition, it will be roofed with wire, thereby preventing the escape of the foxes after a big snowstorm and the admission of small boys' sticks and stones at all times. The owners have ten foxes now in a warehouse, ready to place in the ranch as soon as it is completed. They are banking on the possibility of getting a black pup from their red foxes, and contemplate investing in black foxes after they have gained experience in the fox ranching business.

"YOU'LL SUFFER ALL YOUR LIFE"

"Fruit-a-lives" Cured Him

Chesville, Ont., Jan. 25, 1911. "For over twenty years I have been troubled with Kidney Disease, and the doctors told me they could do me no good, and that I would be a sufferer for the rest of my life."

I doctored with different medical men and tried many advertised remedies, but none of them suited my case. "Fruit-a-lives" I have been using this fruit medicine nearly all the time since, and am glad to say that I am cured. "Fruit-a-lives" the credit of doing what the doctors said was impossible. I am now seventy-six years old, and in first class health."

Was a Victim of Bronchitis.

HAD TO BE PROPPED UP IN BED.

Bronchitis is an acute inflammation of the membranes lining the air tubes of the lungs, and begins with a tightness across the chest, and a difficulty of breathing accompanied by a hard dry cough which later develops into the raising of a greenish or yellowish phlegm.

On the first sign of bronchitis you should check it immediately by using Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and thereby preventing it becoming chronic and perhaps turning into some serious lung trouble. Mrs. John Fawcett, Salisbury, N. B., writes: "A year ago I was a victim of Bronchitis. I was so bad I could not lie down, and had to be propped up in bed. As the doctor failed to help me much good a friend, who came to visit me, advised me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. The first bottle helped me so wonderfully I took five bottles in all, and was cured. I have not had an attack of it since."

Price, 25 and 50 cents a bottle. See you get "Dr. Wood's" when you ask for it. Manufactured only by The Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

WOMEN IN BATTLE

Some Notable Instances Of Many Which History Has Furnished

REGALLED BY BALKAN WAR

Persian Women in Men's Clothing in Fighting Line -- Career of Noted Woman in Boer War Stranger Than Fiction

(London Tit-Bits).

"Women and young boys were among the victims of the fighting in the Balkans. Women fell with rifles in their hands."

This extract from a war telegram from the Balkan states not only illustrates the fighting spirit with which the wives and daughters of the Montenegrins and Serbs are imbued, but it calls to mind the fact that since the days of Joan of Arc there have been women who have been gloried in the clash of arms and have won renown as intrepid fighters.

It has been said of the women of the Balkan states that they can handle a sword or gun as easily as they can handle a frying-pan, and to a very large extent is true; for there have been several occasions when they have defended their homes against a common enemy.

IN THE FIGHTING LINE

And less than four years ago the women of Persia showed that they, too, could take their place in the fighting line; for many of them put on men's clothing and took part in the battle outside Tabriz on November 29, 1908. And their share in the fighting is shown by the fact that there were sixty-seven women among the 2,000 dead.

Apert, however, from the warlike feats performed by troops of women, there have been some striking examples of late years of individual women who have proved themselves as brave and gallant under fire as any man. One of the most extraordinary instances was that of Xenia Kravtchikova, who, disguised herself as a man, left her native province, Perm, journeyed to the Far East, and served in the mounted troops against the Japanese. Neither the officers nor privates suspected her sex, and the intrepid female warrior, during her two and a half months' service, took active part in an engagement with the Manchus, carried two wounded comrades out of the range of fire, dressed their wounds, and defended them until the end of the campaign, when she was herself wounded. It was this brave deed which earned for her the Military Order of the Purple Degree.

In the same war another young woman, Helen Smolke, the daughter of a shopkeeper at Wilkowitz, Poland, joined the ranks of the Cossacks and took part in several engagements.

Stranger Than Fiction

An extraordinary career, which reads almost like a romance of fiction, is that of Mrs. Whitmore, who acted as lady dispatch runner during the South African War. Mrs. Whitmore, who was born in India, was the daughter of a British officer, and was married to a British officer. She was a very brave and intrepid woman, and was known to her friends as "Calamity Jane."

Her career reminds one of that of "Calamity Jane," the noted female heroine who inspired Bret Harte to write that popular story of all his stories, "The Luck of Roaring Camp." "Calamity Jane," who died in 1903, was really Mrs. Martha Jane Cannary, who was born in 1847, and was thrown on her own resources at the age of fifteen by the death of her parents, and determined to become a scout. Her only associates were soldiers and Indians, and she speedily adopted their ways. She donned the attire of a man, and was known to her friends as "Calamity Jane."

She was christened "Calamity Jane," in 1872, by Captain Egan, whose life she saved by her bravery. She was shot in the chest by an Indian, but the wound was not serious, and she recovered. She was then placed in the hands of a British officer, who placed him across her saddle and rode off to the fort under the fire of other Indians. During the war she was a scout, and was known to her friends as "Calamity Jane."

One who saw her in those days gave the following vivid pen picture of her: "A very bright, intelligent, intellectual, energetic little lady, with a red, with pale blue eyes, a freckled face, and light brown hair. She spoke Italian and French with great fluency, and wielded a remarkably fluent pen. She had a good seat in the saddle, which she sat in the orthodox feminine fashion. She smoked big cigars, and tackled a long drink like a man when she felt that way." She was generally mistaken by the French for Garibaldi's daughter.

Then, of course, there was Louise Michel, known through the terrible period of the Commune as the "Red Virgin," who shouldered arms and fought at the outbreak of the Commune. She was a very brave and intrepid woman, and was known to her friends as "Calamity Jane."

There was one Therese Figuer, a female dragon, who fought during the Revolution and the First Empire. The best known of the French fighting females were the Fenigs, whom General Dumouriez called his children. These young Amazons fought at Jemappes, and tried to turn the fortune of the day at Neerwinden by solving the cowardice of

THE MARVELLOUS VEEDEE

Demonstrators Remaining a Few Days Longer

Hundreds Calling Daily at 78 Charlotte Street for Free Consultations

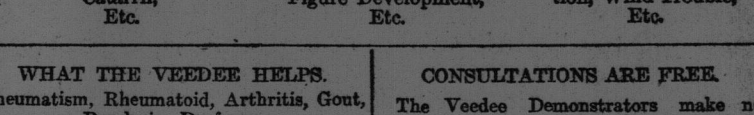

So numerous and so pressing have been the requests received within the last day or so by the Veedee Demonstrators asking them to stay a little while longer, that it has been decided to keep their offices at 78 Charlotte street, corner of Princess street, open for a few days longer.

The local press during the present week have devoted columns of their space to descriptions of the Veedee Lecture Demonstration witnessed by hundreds of people at the Keith Assembly Hall, when wonderful results were obtained on the platform by the application of the marvellous little machine on the large number of sufferers anxious to test the power of the Veedee Blood Circulator. The extraordinary results were effected before the eyes of the astounded and applauding audience.

But even more astonishing feats are performed every day at the Demonstrators' private offices at 78 Charlotte street, St. John, where a large number of sufferers are daily coming from far and near to consult, and purchase the famous Veedee Vibrators for home use.

Many are calling daily for trial and treatments. Fully nine out of every ten who are treated by them are immediately benefited and eventually cured; the greatest number only requiring a few treatments.

With morning skill the Veedee is placed to work upon the seat of pain, and in a few moments, almost before you have had time to realize what has happened, those pains have disappeared.

Cataract, Cold in Head, Catarrh, Etc. Lung Trouble, Asthma, Figure Development, Etc. Indigestion, Constipation, Wind Troubles, Etc.

WHAT THE VEEDEE HELPS.

Rheumatism, Rheumatoid, Arthritis, Gout, Paralysis, Deafness, as well as the following: Liver Troubles, Stiff Joints, Insomnia, Kidney Diseases, Catarrh, Swollen Glands, Indigestion, Eye Weakness, Constipation, Asthma, Throat Troubles, General Debility, Contracted Limbs, Neuralgia and Stammering. If, however, you are beyond relief, or improvement, the Demonstrators would

REFUSE TO SELL A VEEDEE

If they did not feel certain its use would be beneficial to you. The medical testimony which supports the Veedee is marvellous in its volume and in the fact that hundreds of well-known doctors actually use and prescribe the Veedee in their practice.

NOT A CURE-ALL

It might be thought from the number of cases cured that in the Veedee, at last, there has been found the Philosopher's Stone, but the Veedee Demonstrator when questioned upon this point, smilingly said: "No! but the reason it can relieve so many cases of a nervous and functional nature is due to the fact that it is a purely natural treatment."

THE VEEDEE CURES IN NATURE'S WAY

By sending large increased blood circulation (and so nourishment) to the affected organs. It cures by stimulating the nerves and blood.

Would You Have Taken Such a Cure?
