IN THE MARKET.

"I have talked with hundreds of people in the last week," said a business man to the Times today, "and I can tell you they are against any more delay over the distribution system. They are asking if there must be more public meetings, more delegations to City Hell, or another plebiscite before they get what they have already voted for three times. There is a feeling of alarm. People are asking if after all the Power Company is going to put the Motion picture exhibitors are naturally very much exercised respecting the proposed bill for doubling the amusement tax in New Brunswick. The opinion was expressed to the Times that "the probably effect upon the motion picture business throughout the province at this rather critical period would be almost disastrous."

It was declared that it would be impractical for the exhibitors to absorb the tax, while such an increase as proposed might very possibly turn sufficient patrons from the theatres to create business chaos.

Doubtless, it was said, the government would make no change without careful deliberation with these business men, to whom it is not only a matter most vital, but they are, in turn, it is contended, representing approximately one hundred and seventy-five thousand interested New Brunswickers.

It will also be contended by the motion picture men that the new schedule would work out a definite loss in net all proposed in the erratic members for the group of farm products in the city to go ahead, and if player on the city market the last two weeks.
