IRISH DEADLOCK IS DANGEROUS. (Continued from page 1) The Ulsterists take Ireland and the Government's Ireland Act of 1920, which gave them the six counties. This they regarded as a final settlement and the Belfast Ministers refused to become a party to the Treaty of 1921, which the British Government considered was a final settlement. They are understood to be agreeable to minor adjustments of the frontier line, but beyond this they will not go. The Free State Government, on the other hand, stands by the treaty and nothing but the treaty. Assuming that this move will be an amending act to compel Ulster to appoint a boundary commissioner the West Minister Gazette says that a matter might pass the House in three successive sessions.

This is a picture of the members of the first Dominion rifle team to compete at the matches of the National Rifle Association of Great Britain, shot at Wimbledon, England, in 1873. It recalls men outstanding in New Brunswick's life in their day.

The picture was taken on the lawn of the "Star and Garter" at Richmond, Sussex, England with other guests at a luncheon given by the Canadians by the "Canadian Club" of London, of which Sir Allan McNab was then the president and host at the luncheon.

In the photo are shown several other guests who presumably were members of the club and possibly ex-Canadians. These in uniform were members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of London. At the time this team sailed for London at 6 a.m. July 1st and proceeded to Alton, a suburb of Liverpool for a two weeks' practice on the ranges of the Lancashire regiments, and then proceeded to London and detained at Putney Station, and then to Wimbledon Common where they were met by Sir Peter Tait who was then president of the National Rifle Association to look after the Canadians while at Wimbledon.

The Canadian quarters were very elaborately laid out within an enclosed camp, profuse with flowers, trees and shrubs, with a large marquee for the reception of visitors, as many were most kind in calling.

Karl Ducie, Commandant at Wimbledon H. Q. at Windmill Cottage had officers of the Canadian team at dinner each week and at one of the evenings, he had the honor of dining with Mrs. Mary of Teck, the mother of the present queen of England and other royals, including the Princess Louise and the Marquis of Lorne.

After the close of the Wimbledon meeting the team dispersed, returning home at their pleasure, many visiting friends or relatives in England. Major Otter attended the Autumn manoeuvres, while Colonel Peters and the present Lt. Colonel Loggie, the present Lt. Colonel Loggie, I. S. O. The late Surgeon Vail of Sussex, N. B., a noted rifle shot of the time, was among the members and Ensign Andrews at that time a resident of Montreal, was later on a resident of St. John, and is now Captain Andrews, retired, of Winnipeg. Another notable is Major General Otter who commanded the Royal Canadian Rifles in South Africa and now is retired.

He was also a past supreme chancellor.

Judge Hanson was for some years a trustee of Calais Academy, and of the Coburg Classical Institute in Waterville, Me. He was the first president of the men's class of the Second Baptist church.

Before the war, he was president of the Red Cross for Maine, and during the war he was chairman of the Eastern Washington County Chapter of the Red Cross. He was appointed associate justice of the Supreme Judicial Court of Maine by Governor Plafie on July 6, 1911, and reappointed by Governor Millikan in 1918. Judge Hanson was honored with the degree of Doctor of Laws by the University of Maine in 1914.

In 1888 he was united in marriage with Miss Elizabeth Wainwright of Milltown, Maine, who survives him with three daughters—Mollie, at home, Mrs. George Barrows, a teacher in English in the Walton High School, New York, and Helen, a lawyer in Calais. There also is a grandson, George Hanson of Calais, and a daughter, Mrs. George Shirley, aged eleven, and Donald Cameron, aged twenty-one. He leaves also two sisters, Mrs. Katherine Hamilton of Dorchester, Mass., and Mrs. Ashley St. Clair of Calais, and a brother, William Hanson of Milltown.

JOHNSTONE'S HOTEL MAY BE ONLY ONE BOSTON BOAT

While no definite instructions have been received from Boston regarding a second steamer for the Boston-St. John route of the Eastern Steamship Co. Inc., A. G. Currie, local agent for the company, expressed the opinion this morning that the low amount of freight offerings would compel the company to confine the service to one steamer, the "Governor Dingley," which will leave Boston on the first trip of the season on May 19, arriving here, May 20.

The reason for the poor freight business, Mr. Currie declared, was the existing high tariff which barred out products from the Maritimes. Passenger travel, Mr. Currie predicted, would be rather heavy this year.

Regarding the steamship service for Grand Manan, Mr. Currie said that the Grand Manan Steamship Co. Ltd. was carrying on as usual, no definite decision having been reached yet by the Federal Government with respect to a new steamer.

GOOD THINGS COMING TO THE THEATRES OF ST. JOHN. ELINOR GLYN FILM IMPERIAL MONDAY. The eminent English novelist, Elinor Glyn, has written a series of love stories with elaborate scenic and social surroundings, as is shown in Monday's extraordinary feature at the Grand Theatre, her newest novel, "Six Days" is an Anglo-American romance in which the principals travel from New York to London, thence to Paris and the Belgian battlefields, take in the sights of Europe, wander and dine at the grandest hotels and in a general way it is most interesting story. A penniless American mother strives to look her daughter upon a night in the Paris opera. The dramatic scenes in the collapsed German dugout whilst the youthful lovers are sightseeing are most gripping.
