An excellent programme of music, readings, addresses, etc., was given first. Mrs. G. A. Fenwick was mistress of the occasion. The attractive feature of the affair was that formed by the "Cobwebs," giving to it the name of "Cobweb Social."

Many strings of considerable length were woven into shapes resembling cobwebs. At the end of each was an empty long box, and at the other a prize. After paying a fee, any person was at liberty to select a reel, and wind away until the prize was secured.

Daniel Fleming of St. John Had His Pocket Picked.

(Portland Press, Monday.) Daniel Fleming of St. John was on the way to Boston on the Pullman train Sunday morning. At the Union station he was met by a man who evidently saw that Fleming had money when the man pulled his pocket book out to buy a ticket. The colored porter on the train saw the man put his hand in Fleming's pocket and heard change drop on the floor. The porter notified Officer Emery and gave him a description of the man, but before the officer reached the waiting room the man had disappeared. Fleming claims he was robbed of $140. Officer Emery and Night Watchman Stevens and Mr. Thompson, the night operator, searched the vicinity and went as far as the old transfer station. On their return Officer Emery went to the Jefferson hotel. There he found a man who answered the description. The room was searched and $135 found in the bed. The man was arrested. Fleming's bank book was also stolen, but was not recovered.

The police think that the bank book was thrown away in the vicinity of the station. Fleming continued on his way to Boston, but a telegram was sent after him telling him that his money was in the keeping of the police.

The man would not talk. He is about 25 years of age, of this person was a Portland laundry check of February 2.

The prisoner gave his name as John Maloney of Chicago. Yesterday he was recognized as the robber by Fleming and the colored porter.

HOW THEY FOOLED THE BOERS. (Western Gazette, England.)

The Australians and Canadians have lately taken to playing possum, and pretending to be dead. Four scouts were out patrolling, and seeing a Boer, they tried to stalk him; but do what they could they could not get up to him. At last they separated and surrounded him on a kopje where the Boer could shoot without being seen. They advanced to within 500 yards, and then, after a short council, turned to ride away. Immediately a shot rang out, and one scout fell off his horse in a heap. The other three wheeled round; there was another shot, and another scout lay on the ground. The remaining two immediately started galloping in opposite directions. Two more shots and the remaining two were lying on the ground. The Boer, greatly elated at his marvellous shooting, came out from behind his rock and commenced dancing a wild fandango. Four shots rang out simultaneously, and before the Boer had time to even learn the rules of the game he was incapacitated from taking any further part in it. The four scouts mounted their horses and returned to camp.

A story is told of a soldier at the Modder River fight who had half a crown in his pocket. A bullet struck the pocket and "buried itself in an unusually thick coin; but it shows how useful a little pocket-money may be!

SUSSEX.

Some Facts Concerning the Life Work of This Highly Respected Son of Kings County.

SUSSEX, March 21.—All that was mortal of Nelson Arnold was laid to rest this afternoon in the family lot in the Episcopal burying ground at Upper Corner. The remains were first conveyed from his late residence to Trinity church by his four sons, J. Willard Broad, a son-in-law, and two grandsons, Mr. Isaac Woodward, and Mr. Isaac Woodward, Jr. The service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Neales, the rector, assisted by Rev. Mr. Schofield, rector of Hampton. The hymns, "We Love the Place, O God, and Hark, My Soul, it is the Lord, selected by the deceased, were sung by the choir and congregation. The casket, a very handsome one, bore a number of floral gifts from relatives and friends.

Mr. Arnold was born Sept. 14th, 1816. The registry of his baptism on January 12th, 1817, is the first on the extant records of Trinity church, Sussex, and he was the fifth child and third son of the late Thomas Oliver Arnold, eldest son of the Rev. Oliver Arnold, first rector of Sussex, by his wife Anne Vail, a sister of the late J. C. Vail. He received his education in the common school of Sussex, and in May, 1835, entered the crown land office with a view of becoming a deputy land surveyor. The Hon. Thomas Baillie was then the commissioner of crown lands and surveyor general, and John A. Beckwith was deputy commissioner. His first knowledge of surveying was gained under the late Isaac Woodward, Forest, D. L. S., in the neighborhood of what is now Red Rock lake, Charlotte county. In March, 1836, he had made such progress that he was sent by the surveyor general to lay out a large timber berth on the South West Miramichi, the being near the village of Miramichi. He was engaged in this work about four feet deep, all being snow-shoes and slept in a brush camp where- ever night overtook them. At the close of their work they returned on foot to Fredericton, a distance of about 60 miles.

In May, 1836, having been appointed D. L. S. and selling officer, he was sent to inspect the lumber interests of Kings and Westmorland counties. Shortly after this he was directed to lay out a large lot of land on the Tobique river, near the village of Jernigan, and he was confined nearly all summer.

Returning to Sussex, he resumed charge of the government timber inspection, which occupied about three months in the year, the remainder of his time being given to surveys of private lands in Kings and the adjoining counties of Queens, Westmorland and St. John. In the fall of 1842 he purchased from the late Matthew Humphreys the residence near Sussex station, afterwards owned by the late Sheriff Freese and Mrs. McLean, and destroyed by fire in October last.

In February, 1851, he married his cousin, Matilda, daughter of the late John C. Vail. She died shortly after the birth of their son Percy in February, 1852. On the 16th of May, 1854, Mr. Arnold was taken sick, and died on the 21st of the same month. He was buried in the cemetery of St. John, a few rods from the residence of Thomas Smith of St. John, a retired merchant of that place. He was by birth an Englishman and his wife was a sister of the late Sir Thomas Fenwick Williams of Kara.

About 1857 the act was passed settling the claims of the late Sir Thomas Fenwick Williams of Kara. The act gave a grant of 100 acres and pay therefor at the rate of 60 cents per acre by labor upon public roads. Mr. Arnold was afterwards appointed commissioner for the county of Kings to lay out and superintend the roads. These allotments were made under this act until the year 1857, after which they became fewer. In 1853 there were 146 applicants for grants under this act, for each of whom it was Mr. Arnold's duty to examine a separate allotment of land. These allotments were scattered throughout the parishes of Sussex, Studholm, Havlock, Waterford and Hammond.

In 1853 he made a survey of six thousand five hundred acres of government land on Stone brook (now Dunscombe), laying off the same in 100 acre lots, all of which he subsequently sold at prices varying from the government upset price of 60 cents per acre to $2 per acre.

In 1857, during the construction of the Atlantic line, Mr. A. R. from St. John was employed by the railway commissioners (of whom the late Robert Jardine was chairman) to survey all lands taken for railway purposes between Roddrey and Sussex. This included making a written description of the lands, and the necessary searches in the railway and registry offices for titles and descriptions, occupied Mr. Arnold's time until January, 1876. During this period he surveyed and furnished plans of all the station grounds on the line excepting St. John and Moncton.

In March, 1857, he was appointed a J. P. for Kings Co., and from that time until the Municipalities Act came into force he took an active part in the business of the county sessions. In 1866 he was appointed a justice of the court of common pleas and was sworn in July 30th. In 1870, on the passage of the act providing for the removal of the shire town of Kings Co. from Kings to a more convenient place on the I. C. R. (for which site the late, governor afterwards selected Hampton) he was appointed by the sessions chairman of a committee of DEATH TO LET GO.

Until a consumptive be actually in the grasp of the Grim Reaper it is foolish to give up the struggle and let go. In these sad cases Shiloh's Consumption Cure has wrested afflicted people out of Death's grasp and restored them to health and hope.

Never ceasing vigilance is the price paid by consumptives for health. Diet, Clothing, Exercise etc., must be closely watched and if there is sufficient lung structure left on which to start a small foundation Shiloh will do the building. If proper care be exercised generally and Shiloh's Consumption Cure be taken faithfully as directed the building will be sure, there will be no failure. This grand restorer is guaranteed not to fail. The whole purchase money is returned if it does not fulfil our promises.

Aurora, Ontario, Feb. 20, 1899. S. C. Wells Co., Toronto, Ont. I have been cured of Shiloh's Consumption Cure and can thoroughly recommend it for Consumption. I have taken one bottle and am able to get out of bed. I would advise all suffering from that disease, or any lung trouble, to try it and be convinced. Yours truly, Mrs. Harbry Tamm. Sold in Canada United States at 50c, 50c and $1.00 a bottle. In Great Britain 1s 6d, 2s 6d and 4s 6d.

five to carry out such removal. The other members of the committee were Sheriff Freese, Robert McCall, George Barry and J. D. M. Keator, of whom only the latter survives. Under this committee the substantial granite jail at Kingston was taken down and rebuilt at Hampton, and the brick court house at Hampton was erected at a cost of over $12,000.

Mr. Arnold's son, Percy, has resided at Pasadena, in California, since 1874.

By his second wife the deceased had seven children, who are all living except Annie, the eldest, who died July 19, 1887. The survivors are: Fenwick 19, resident in St. John; Herbert, of Oxford, N. S.; Mary S., wife of Conductor Willard Broad of Moncton, Albert Edward, at home; Henrietta, widow of the late Dr. Brown of Fredericton, and Charles M., of Moncton.
