stponed

FitzPatrick said. "And

on't want it to take more taking this matter lightly.

ture of the Station. It's at had to bring this coming of our structure particular way," he said.

finally getting our reement with former er Jeff Whipple signed, ertified, but this has

y Sekulich as Station

HSR. The Employment

al, states that if two plying for a job are ed, preference will be the conditions of nce, Bhaird requests that:

I ask only that, should incer

of mortality due to breast BRUNSWICKAN PHOTO

E

MAT

rt with:

leaning

big workloads

ing of the Board." lelay, FitzPatrick said that

October 25 • 1996

200 graduate, new President installed, Ilsa Shore remembered

Tomorrow's leaders addressed at Fall Convocation ceremony Sunday

GORDON LOANE

THE BRUNSWICKAN

Graduates must learn to be leaders in a world in which a sense of community is breaking down, the President of the University of New Brunswick says.

"As tomorrow's leaders, you will find that there is a second element in leading a principled life: community," Dr. Elizabeth Parr-Johnston told some 200 graduates attending Fall Convocation ceremonies at UNB Fredericton last Sunday.

In an address after being installed as UNB's first female President, Parr-Johnston said New Brunswickers are learning that the foundation of our future economic and social development lies principally not in our governments but within ourselves. "We must each consider how we can contribute to a greater good, how we can participate in achieving a common goal, how we can give rather than

"This is the essence of community,"

The UNB President told graduates that much occurring now in the world suggests that communities are breaking Parr-Johnston referred to the ascendancy of individual rights over the collective good, the emergence of adversarial structures, the threatened separation of Quebec and the actual disintegration of some nations as example "that seem to prove that we e spinning apart, not closer together."

"Which is why I think community is all the more important," she said.

The 200 graduates, gathered for convocation

"Ultimately, nothing will be solved, graduates they have been part of an nothing will last, if we don't do it together, acknowledging our reached decisions by consensus. rences, but giving precedence to "The academic community is not the benefits of co-operation, perfect. It is susceptible to the same collaboration and shared vision," said Parr-Johnston.

Referring to the academic community, Parr-Johnston told institution that for centuries has intolerance, political machinations and selfish manoeuvring as is the rest of "Nonetheless, I believe the university is one of the best examples of amunity we have and I hope that, having been immersed in it for some period of time, you will keep with you its best qualities and take them forward into the communities you will lead," UNB Chancellor Frederick Eaton raised Parr-Johnston's appointment as UNB President. "She is eminently qualified to lead this university into the 21st century and I am pleased to welcome her officially on the occasion of her installation." Professor James S. Murray of the Department of Classics and Ancient History was presented with the 1996 Allan P. Stuart Award for Excellence in Teaching.

One student in the Arts 1000 course described Professor Murray's lecturing ability as "phenomenal", while a colleague describes him as "without any doubt, the finest classroom lecturer I have ever heard."

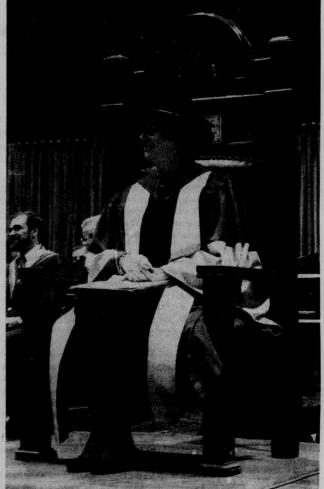

PAT FITZPATRICK PHOTO

Two retired UNB professors were honored with the title of Professor Biologist Michael Burt became known, in his thirty-three years at UNB, as an internationally known researcher in parasitology.

He has published well over 100 articles in journals around the world. In addition he has taught 19 different undergraduate courses and supervised over 50 graduate students.

Dr. Burt served as chairman of UNB's Biology Department for 11

Lieutenant Governor Margaret McCain

PAT FITZPATRICK PHOTO

Fredericton-based Engineering firm

He supervised the design and construction of many buildings on the UNB Fredericton campus and the Playhouse on Queen Street in the John Dean, a native of Campbellton.

Also honored was Professor Jules Picot, a founding member of UNB's

Chemical Engineering Department. Professor Picot has been described as an outstanding teacher, a skilful administrator and a remarkable researcher during his 39 years at UNB. Dr. Picot has well over 100 publications to his credit and is an cknowledged international expert in

He holds the Canadian and US patents for a liquid atomizing apparatus for aerial spraying and has President and CEO. contributed to the control of the spruce

Ivan H. Crowell was awarded an honorary Doctor of Letters degree. Mr. Crowell, a 92 year old craftsman and Southeast Asia. and a native of Caledonia, Nova Scotia honor-the Order of Canada.

and Chief Executive Officer of the John Dean, both of Fredericton.

graduated from UNB in Mechanical Engineering in 1950. He has since worked for NB Power

ADI Limited.

and over the past 25 years has been associated with ADI Limited in Fredericton, where he has served as

Under Dean's leadership ADI has grown to over 200 employees with operations in North and South America, the Caribbean, Europe, India

Also in attendance at the graduation is a UNB alumnus and one of ceremonies were representatives from Fredericton's distinguished citizens. He some thirty other universities across has received Canada's highest civilian Canada. They were here to bring greetings on the occasion of Dr. Parr-Awarded Honorary Doctor of Johnston's installation as Presiden Science degrees were Ottis Logue and Among those in attendance was the current President of the University of Ottis Logue, a UNB alumnus, was a Waterloo and former UNB President founding partner and later President James Downey.

Newly-installed University President Elizabeth Parr-Johnston

Great Campus Special Medium Pan

GRECO

2 Items $8.99 GRECO

Add a Loonie

for 8" Garlic Fingers with sauce or stuffed crust

Only Greco Guarantees

in 30 minutes or FREE FOOD After 5.00p.m. conditions permitting

Greco Student Number

454-3030 We also deliver Free*

Donairs, Oven Subs Garlic Fingers, Chicken Wings Mozza Sticks * Minimum Order $8.00 * Except other specials

PAT FITZPATRICK PHOTO

Corner of King & Regent

Carrying a full line of fresh fruits & vegetables, including ethnic and specialty items

Oriental produce delivered every Friday

The Place Open 7 days a week

our pumpkins 7:00 a.m. - 7:00 p.m.

Delivery Available

Fruit baskets and vegetable trays by order

Ilsa Shore remembered

THE BRUNSWICKAN

Ilsa Shore, first woman chair of the experiences we have shared and the UNB Board of Governors is being work we have accomplishedremembered this week by many students, administrators, faculty, alumni and friends.

Shore died on the eve of UNB's Fall Convocation last Saturday in Toronto after a long battle with cancer. House and made many, many close She was 46.

UNB Chancellor Fredrik Eaton told those assembled for fall graduation ceremonies last Sunday of Shore's tremendous warmth, generosity and "Were she here with us today—as insist that we think about the good times, the conversations and together-for the good of UNB" "UNB was an essetial part of Ilsa's life," said Eaton.

"It was the place where she earned four degrees, served as Don of McLeod friends."

"After her last graduation in 1979, she remained faithfully and actively involved in the life of this institution."

"You who graduate today could find no better model to emulate in the service of your alma mater than Ilsa Shore," Eaton concluded. A moment of silence was observed at Fall Convocation ceremonies in Shore's honor. Shore, a native of Moncton, graduated in Arts and Education in 1971 and taught school for several years in both Moncton and Oromocto. She obtained an Administration

Diploma in Education from UNB in 1975 and a year later entered the Faculty of Law, graduating in 1979. Shore served as Don of McLeod House during her law studies. She joined the law firm of Borden and Elliot in Toronto, rising to partner and specializing in commercial real estate. She was predeceased by her husband, Toronto rheumatologist Abraham Shore is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mendel F. Greenblat of Moncton; a brother Marvin Greenblat of Calgary; and a sister Pauline Greenblat of Ottawa.

Funeral services were held last

A memorial fund is being established at UNB in honor of Ilsa Shore. Contributions can be sent to the Office of Development and Public