

I am interrupted—Good God . . . have only time to add farewell; a long, perhaps an eternal farewell . . . my beloved friend and guide . . .
What I have written is . . . Think not . . .
I beseech you . . .

Handwritten text, mostly illegible due to fading and bleed-through from the reverse side. The text appears to be a continuation of the letter or a separate page of writing, containing several lines of cursive script.

P
forw
with

I
nicat
lars.
ed de
teer
The
perm
guar
fects;
O. an
farew
mone
desir
you a
and m