PRACTICAL FARMING.

Farming is no longer the blind drudgery of a simple clod, who merely believes in the primeval promise that every "seed shall bring forth fruit after its kind"—"that spring-time and harvest shall continue to the end of time." And that it is only necessary to sow the seed and wait patiently and confidently for autumn to return it, increased by many hundred fold. As the world increases in population and the consumers of bread multiply it would seem impossible to produce a sufficient supply of breadstuffs without other than manual aid—hence farming, like every other occupation or calling, to be successful must be carried on in accordance with well-defined rules and legislations, and in no country perhaps do farmers require to study the value of time more than in a country like this, where the winters are so country like this, where the winters are so long and the spring-time and autumn so short, and where the whole work of planting and gathering have to be crowded into

of a few weeks. 4 To enable the farmer to take advantage of the existing circumstances and assist him to accomplish the task of harvesting his crops in the most expeditious manner possible, with ease and efficiency, the now world-renowned I. X. L. Reaper and Mower was invented and perfected, without the aid of which no farmer can expect to save his crops or rank among his fellow-farmers as a practical farmer. The I.X.L. Reaper and Mower is manufactured by Reaper and Mower is manufactured by Crawford & Co. at the Globe Works, London, Ont., and is without doubt the best reaper in the world, which its record on farm fields throughout the universe demonstrates and practically substantiates. While the price of this celebrated reaper and mower is within the reach of every farmer, Catholic farmers will receive great bergains in these machines during the farmer, Catholic farmers will receive great bargains in these machines during the month of July by calling at the Works and leaving their order for them, or by addressing a letter to Crawford & Co., London, Ont. Messrs, Crawford & Co. de-London, Ont. Messrs. Crawford & Co. desire to place one of their I.X.L. machines in the hands of every Catholic farmer in Canada, and in order to do so have placed the price of the machines at a very low figure for such an excellent and valuable Reaper and Mower. It is an honest machine, sold at an honest price. Don't felt to call and see it or send in your order fail to call and see it, or send in your order for one, and you will find it just what you
