Truro District Meeting.

The Truro District Meeting will be held, by the divine blessing, at Wallace Harbour, N. S., on Wednesday the 12th day of June, to commence at 10 o'clock, A. M.

THOMAS H. CHAMBERLAIN, Chairman.

Few persons who had the opportunity of sitting last Sabbath under the ministrations of the Rev. Mr. Boyce, will easily or soon forget the pleasure and profit they derived therefrom.

With undiminished energy, notwithstanding an eight days' tour of continuous travelling, averaging between fifty and sixty miles each day, closed last the preceding evening, he preached on Sabbath morning last in Brunswick Street Chapel for upwards of an hour, from Jer. vi. 16, afterwards administering the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper.

In the afternoon he gave a most interesting sketch of the establishment of the Wesleyan Mission in South Africa, and his own missionary labours there for more than fourteen years in the evening he again preached in Argyle Street Church.

The international commission, promising a reduction of the taxes and a remission of all arrears. It further grants the right of free religious conviction to all Christians.

The Christians are to be allowed to have bells on their churches. The international commission arrived here yesterday. A great fall has taken place in the value of money.

Spain, Cadix, May 17.—The batteries of Tangiers are yesterday says—The batteries of Tangiers are yesterday says—The batteries of Tangiers are yesterday says—

TURKEY, Constantinople, May 16.—The International Commissioners have arrived here from Beyrout, and will commence negotiations for the government of Syria. Omar Pacha has left for Beirut with a clear conscience.

COMMERCIAL.—The efflux of gold from this country to America prepared the monetary and commercial world for the advance in the Bank of England discount, which was made on the 10th of April, to 6 per cent. at which it was fixed on the 11th of April, to 6 per cent.

His death has been for some time daily looked for, he sank tranquilly to sleep in death at the close of a life of ripe genius and devotedness, yet will continue to live in the memory of thousands—say, "in everlasting remembrance."

Editor's Table. We have received from the publishers through the hands of E. G. Fuller, Esq.—the following valuable periodicals:

THE WAR IN NEW ZEALAND.—The Gazette

resolves a despatch from General Pratt, dated March 10th, which says—"We are at this date within two hundred yards of the Pahs, and the Norwood has arrived at Auckland with the mortars and guns, which I expect to reach here by the 13th. I trust that my next despatch will announce the capture of the enemy's stronghold and position, to which they, from some traditions, attach great importance. General Pratt says that he has received accounts from the Governor at Auckland to the effect that dissatisfaction prevailed, generally, throughout the land, that a general rising was contemplated, that the enemy threatened an attack on Auckland, and that the militia were being called out to the extent of 25,000 rank and file.

FRANCE.—The Minister of the Interior, in a circular to the prefects, draws their attention to the fact, that a considerable number of Frenchmen have recently gone into the states of King Victor Emmanuel to seek for military employment, though no intention exists there of engaging foreigners, and that such of them as have no resources available to be sent home. He therefore orders that no Frenchman shall be allowed to leave France for Italy without passports, and that none shall be given to those who cannot prove that they possess means for paying the expense of their journey and return.

PARIS, May 17.—Paris papers publish the following telegrams, dated Constantinople, May 17:—"Omar Pacha left today for Rousteig, being the bearer of a conciliatory proclamation, promising a reduction of the taxes and a remission of all arrears. It further grants the right of free religious conviction to all Christians. The Christians are to be allowed to have bells on their churches. The international commission arrived here yesterday. A great fall has taken place in the value of money."

ROME, May 17.—A letter from Rome states that the Emperor of Russia has written to the Pope, to beg him to issue a brief to the Polish Catholics.

Ex-Governor Banks of Massachusetts has been ordered to take command of the Norfolk district.

Wheeling and Parkersburg congressional districts in Virginia have given a majority of forty thousand for the Union.

Western Arkansas is strongly in favor of the Union.

Four hundred fugitive slaves now at Fort Monroe say that a negro obtained by the Federal Government, which was a victory obtained by the Federal Government.

It is expected that the border states will follow the war terminates be entirely depopulated of their slaves.

All fugitive slaves are deemed contraband of war.

Rebel desertions from Harper's Ferry are constantly taking place.

Senator Douglas, (he has been ill for some time past), is suffering fast; little hope of his recovery. He is sinking from typhoid fever.

By Telegraph to the Express. BOSTON, June 3, 1861.—The Federal troops who had penetrated four miles into Fairfax County, Virginia, on the 29th ult., and a company of Dragoons made a desperate dash on the Rebels, killing many and capturing a number of prisoners.

A number of prisoners sentenced to be hung, were rescued.

A slave insurrection hourly expected, and great consternation exists among the white population.

Harper's Ferry completely captured, and it is supposed that the rebel forces will be compelled to retire or be taken by Government forces.

Over seventy thousand Federal troops occupy several important positions in the West. Ohio troops advanced into Western Virginia, and Gen. McClellan has issued proclamation to the people of that section of the State.

Rebels fortifying Manassas Junction, which keeps open communication with Harper's Ferry. Washington considered safe against any attack by rebels.

The Commercial. ARRIVAL OF THE "AMERICA." The steamship America arrived at this port, from Liverpool and Queenstown, on Thursday morning. We are in possession of English papers of the 18th.

The weather continues very fine for the crops, and vegetation has made great progress.

The debate in the House of Commons respecting the Budget, terminated in the same manner on the 16th, by the second reading of the bill, without a division.

In the House, on the 17th, in reply to Lord John Manners, Mr. T. G. Baring said, that an additional battalion of troops with that country in Canada to replace the force that are on the footing on which it stood formerly. This step was taken in consequence of the representations of the Governor.

The European Times says— "The Bank of England, true to the instinct of self-protection, has advanced the rate of interest from five to six per cent., in consequence of the drain of bullion which the present state of things in America is producing. How far this operation will remove the cause, a little time will show, but the Bank will go forward in the same direction, if circumstances warrant it. This increase in the value of money is an important step at all times, but perhaps less important at the present moment than any other, in consequence of the injury, more or less serious, which the export trade must necessarily suffer so long as the civil war in America is threatened or continues. Add to this the certain deficiency in the receipt of cotton, with diminished employment in the manufacturing districts, and a condition of society appears to be glooming in the distance that can hardly fail to seriously affect the commercial public. The most serious element is the want of cotton—a want which must be keenly felt in a little time, however the spinners may husband their resources. An effort, it is said, will be made by the Government to push to completion the great lines of railway which are to connect the cotton growing districts with the sea-board, even if it be necessary to have recourse to a loan for the purpose. This we think is very probable, but while the grass grows the steel straws." The difficulty is, how to manage in the interval, and this is a point with which the character of accidents this necessarily, have much to do.

The young Prince of Wales, it seems, to be brought up to the military profession, for we are assured that he will visit Ireland in the course of a few days, with a military escort, and that Curragh of Kildare the military manoeuvres which can be performed by an efficient soldiery on a large piece of ground as smooth and level as a bowling-green for the purpose.

The subsidy to the Galway line of steamers has been withdrawn by the Government.

The Times states that no orders have yet been received at Portsmouth for the outfit of any fleet of gunboats for service on the North American coast, as has been reported.

Major-General C. A. Windham, C. B., has arrived in London on six months' leave of absence from his command in India.

Major Teiverton is placed on half pay, and has been removed from the effective list of the regiments of artillery.

One of the naval Armstrong guns, 100-pounder, similar to the one supplied to the "Invicta," at Woolwich, under orders for the coast of the Sultan's Government by the Challenger, at Sheerness, likewise ordered for the coast of America.

The death of the Duke of Bedford, brother to Lord John Russell, in his 73rd year, is an event which excites interest beyond the ordinary, and noble family of which he was the head. He was a man of no mark or ability as regards personal talent for public life, but he made his influence felt in the House of Commons, and by his own rule, England for that quarter of a century.

There seems to be no doubt that the French troops will evacuate Syria in the early part of the next month, according to agreement, but measures will be taken to prevent the French population from being the victims of their old enemies, should the latter attempt to recommence the slaughter of last year. Mr. Hilliard has made a remarkable speech in the French Senate on this subject, in which the Emperor's policy is clearly foreshadowed. It is evident from the contents of this Minister's speech that the withdrawal of the French troops is not voluntary, but compulsory, and in this acting Napoleon is making political capital—that is, he is re-establishing his character for truthfulness and sincerity, which many persons were inclined to think had lapsed. When the French troops go, an English, French, and Russian squadron is to cruise in the waters of Beyrout, so as to be prepared for any emergency that may arise. Mr. Hilliard hinted at the adoption of "other measures" if necessary, the correspondent of a London morning contemporary explains this to mean a very extreme step—the seizure of Constantinople by France, in the event of the Sultan's Government being unable to keep down the murderous propensities of the Syrian Mahomedans. An act like this would cause no little consternation, and might lead to a general war, of course, and we should encourage and applaud it, but it could hardly fail to produce a rupture between England and France, and therefore we disbelieve it in the present state of the political chess-board.

It is now ascertained that Count Teleki was not assassinated, as had been rumored, but committed suicide, probably to avoid the responsibilities which he had incurred as the leader of the national party. There appears to be no improbability in the relations of the Hungarians with the Austrian Government. The latter will not concede all that the former ask, and there must be an appeal to the sword, sooner or later. General Teleki has addressed a very noble letter to the Polish General Mikolajewski, dated Geneva, May 1, in which the writer declares that the time for commencing the struggle on behalf of oppressed nationalities approaches, and that they must be always ready to rise against their oppressors (Garibaldi, in his own emphatic way, "what I tell the Italians. We must have the money ready for the purchase of a million muskets. The brave Poles who, during the massacre at Warsaw, proved that they can sacrifice their lives for their country, will sacrifice a portion of their lives for their country, and we will give them arms, and your friends were ready to give arms as much for Poland."—I and mine will do these, it is not to be wondered at that the Austrian ruler hesitates to strike down his Hungarian subjects.
