

TRAGIC DEATH OF MR. J. JOHNSTON

Well Known Local Baker Killed in His Factory.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH.

The Unfortunate Man Was Caught in Mixer and Dragged to Doom.

To Mr. John Johnston, well known local baker of Lawrence street, caught in one of the arms of his bread-mixing machines, death came yesterday afternoon with shocking suddenness and unexpectedness, the accident casting a pall of gloom over the entire region of the city, where he was widely and favorably known as a man of upright and honorable character, a pleasant business man, a congenial friend and a devoted husband and father.

After mixing a quantity of dough, Mr. Johnston had evidently been cleaning the arms of the mixer, still in revolution, when his right hand was caught tightly in one of them, and almost dragged from its socket. The unfortunate man was drawn far into the machine, another arm descending over his body and crushing him badly.

The discovery of the catastrophe was made by Mr. E. Cutmore, commercial traveller, when between 3 and 3.30 yesterday afternoon he visited the bakery at 14 Lawrence street for the purpose of obtaining an order. The lower floor was deserted, and Mr. Johnston was seen, and by dint of reversing the motion of the arms of the mixer, the body was extracted. Dr. Wiley judged life to have been extinct for at least an hour, which would mean that Mr. Johnston met his death shortly after two o'clock in the afternoon.

Death was found to have been instantaneous, due to the injuries received by the deceased. The right arm was horribly lacerated, while the body was also severely crushed. The head, although drawn very close to the machinery, bore no evidence of injuries. While Mr. Johnston had been in poor health for some time, and was known to suffer from a weak heart, the cause of death is believed to have been a fatal injury received, and not shock at finding himself caught in such a position.

No Inquest

Coroner Dr. Hicks was also summoned to the scene, and after an examination of the body and the surroundings, decided that it was a clear case of accidental death. With no responsibility attaching to any one, there would be no necessity for an inquest.

The late Mr. Johnston was known and esteemed by a very large circle of friends and acquaintances in every walk of life, who will unite in extending sincere sympathy to the bereaved family. To mourn the loss of the deceased there are left a sorrowing widow, two sons and a daughter; one son residing in Toronto, and one, Mr. John Johnston, on Campbell street here; the daughter, Mrs. Hammond, residing on Lawrence street, very near her parents.

Commencing October 15th, passengers for Camp Borden can make connection on C. P. R. train 3 from Toronto, 6.40 p.m., and arrive at Camp Borden at 9.05 p.m. (Hincey), Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the prairie provinces of Canada, will produce 167,432,600 bushels of wheat this year, according to the crop estimate of the Northwest Grain Dealers' Association.

CROSS FEVERISH CHILD IS BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without gripping. If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleaning" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for a 50 cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages, and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

DEEP INTEREST

Is Still Maintained in the World's Baseball Series.

Brooklyn Supporters Still Have Confidence in Their Favorites.

By Courier Leased Wire.

New York, Oct. 11.—Interest in the world's series showed no signs of flagging to-day as the crowd gathered for the fourth game of the series and the second on the home ground of the National League champions. In fact the occasion was given an added zest to Brooklynites, their favorites having broken into the victory column and needing but to capture to-day's event to even up the series. The throngs started towards Ebbets field at an early hour to-day, their numbers indicating that the stands would be more closely packed than they were yesterday when numerous gaps were observable in the upper stand and the attendance fell some 5,000 short of the park's capacity.

Hope not unforgotten with confidence was the prevailing sentiment in the Brooklyn camp as the preparations for play went forward. Undismayed by their defeats on single run margins in the two clashes in Boston, Robinson's men had gone into yesterday's encounter determined to put the margin on their side.

To-day they went into the struggle with the feeling that they could do it again. They apparently had found themselves, for not only had they swung their bats to good effect but had steadied their fielding play, giving their pitchers faultless support while showing all around good judgment in the field and at bat, and on the bases.

From the Boston viewpoint, however, the situation was virtually as satisfactory as before the Red Sox victory of yesterday. For although there had been some hope that Carrigan's men would clean up the series without suffering a reverse, one game on the Brooklyn side of the account had been freely figured into the speculation as to the outcome of the struggle. There was no loss of confidence by the Red-hosed players themselves or by their flock of adherents in the trustworthiness of their machine or in ability of the men to make the superiority they felt as a baseball unit, count with due effect in the long run.

Comment on the features of yesterday's game played a leading part in the talk of the probable outcome of the day's encounter. There was both praise and sympathy for the veteran, Jack Coombs, who skillfully held the present world's champions at bay for five innings only to feel himself slipping and to ask shortly afterward that for the good of the team he be relieved. Ivanilson was another Brooklynite, who figured as a hero because of the crashing three-bagger he contributed in yesterday's fifth inning, giving the Superbas a lead which finally proved sufficient to win for them.

Jake Daubert, hitless in the first two games in Boston, also found himself reinstated in the good graces of the Brooklyn baseball population through his stick work of yesterday, all the more because the fruits of the longest drive had been lost through a close decision at the plate, at which the local supporters were not slow to express their disapproval.

The Boston luminaries had not, as a rule, shone with their customary lustre in their most recent appearance, but one of them at least, third baseman Larry Gardner, had joined the home-run clan, while both Short and Hooper had shown their prowess with the stick and compelled renewed admiration for the effectiveness of the upper half of the Boston batting order.

Because of the unexpectedness of some of the previous managerial moves, there was much doubt before game time as to the probable pitching selections. Manager Carrigan had something of a list to choose from. It included Leonard and Shore. With Foster rated as a good cool weather pitcher, not necessarily scratched because of the three innings of good box work through which he breezed yesterday. The probabilities seem to point to Shore, if the weather remained cool, as seemed likely, and to Leonard if it warmed up a bit.

For the Brooklyn, Manager Robinson was expected to pick between Cheney and Marquard, figuring in the case of the latter that he would be good for a victory before the home crowd and with the kind of support that the Robins gave Coombs and Pfeffer, and that their friends expect them to show during the remainder of the series, now that they have proved themselves able to go through a game without a case of rattles.

The probable line-up for to-day's game is as follows: Brooklyn—Myers, cf; Daubert, 1b; Stengel, rf; Wheat, lf; Cutshaw, 2b; Mowrey, 3b; Olson, ss; Miller or Meyers, c; Cheney or Marquard, p. Boston—Hooper, rf; Janvrin, 2b; Shorten or Walker, cf; Hoblitzell, 1b; Lewis, lf; Gardner, 3b; Scott, s.; Carrigan or Thomas, c; Leonard or Shore, p.

ARE THE PRIZES NOW GIVING AN EFFORT

If you are a hard fighter. If you make your struggle for the prize warm and interesting, people will want to help you. They will feel that it is their campaign as well as yours. The normal man likes a good fight and you can make him feel that it is an active, important, perhaps determining factor in a real man-size prize for the winner.

If you are a leader, a thinker, an organizer, a worker, you can elicit out the nomination coupon from this paper, send it in, get busy and come out on top.

Now Time to Get in and Win! The contest is yet young, many a just beginning to realize what it means to procure a handsome touring car for a few week's work. The offer really marks the start of a campaign proper and gives an excellent chance to make a good get-away. No one has as yet accomplished very much in the way of vote getting, but soon all your rivals will get busy as you can't afford to loaf. Make a strong start now and you will have no one gaining an advantage over you. The working days of this contest are more than dancing away and you have neglected to call on a one you had better make a point to see them at once, or some other candidate will secure the subscription. Right now is the time to realize, if some of your promises and get the all into votes. If you can't land the all to-day, get right out to-morrow and keep at it until you have secured every possible subscriber. Don't let anything else on your mind, but to great content.

Go to Your Friends and Ask Them to Help. Remember that you have just many friends and just as good chance to succeed if you get at it the right manner. You can't fail if you try. Instead of asking your friends for a favor you are doing them a favor when you get them to take The Courier. Go to the business men, professional men, mechanics and men in all walks of life. They are not going to try to get ahead without the paper that prints all the news. Tackle everybody you meet. See what a big vote you can roll up. There are many important things about this campaign that the management would like to talk about but the opportunity period of the present is so overwhelmingly shadowing, it is blinding out eyes, other considerations temporary. There is really nothing else as important right now as a proper consideration of this grand opportunity. If you improve it you have caused rejecting, and if it is properly re-jected by you, you will probably regret it when the final count is made. Never again will it be as easy to votes, and this chance to make a should not be overlooked by any candidate.

For the benefit of the candidate, the contest department of The D. Courier will be open until 8 o'clock as this department closes for a day at this hour. Bear in mind, the contest manager will be in office until 8 o'clock each evening.
