

FATHER JUDGE LAID AT REST.

Impressive Ceremony Concludes a Noble, Self-Sacrificing Life.

Incidents of a Well Spent Life—Devoted Himself to his Fellow—Built a Mission—Comes From a Devout Family.

All Dawson mourns the death of Father Judge. Scarcely a man in the entire community who at some time or other has not come into personal contact with the work of that noble priest, who, on Friday morning, amid the solemn services of his church was laid to rest beneath the edifice which stands as a lasting monument to his efforts as a philanthropist.

At an early hour groups of sorrowful mourners began to arrive and long before the hour for the funeral, the large church was crowded to overflowing. The sides and ceiling of the church were beautifully draped in mourning, as were also the pillars which support the roof.

Before the altar, in the centre of the broad aisle was the beautiful casket containing the remains of the departed father. Surrounding the casket were tall standards bearing lighted tapers which threw a soft light upon the peaceful features of the dead.

The solemn and impressive requiem mass of the Catholic church was performed by Rev. Father Gendreau, who succeeds Father Judge as pastor of St. Mary's church, assisted by Fathers Desmarais and Corbett. At the conclusion of the ceremonial portion of the services, Father Desmarais addressed the assembly with touching words.

Since his confirmation as a priest important duties had been assigned to him and all were fulfilled in a most worthy and creditable manner.

His work as a missionary at Circle City and Forty Mile was spoken of with great feeling and many an old timer went back in his memory to the days when Father Judge was ministering to the spiritual wants of the miners in the lower country.

Father Desmarais dwelt at length upon the work of the deceased since his arrival in Dawson. Almost through his own unaided efforts St. Mary's church was founded and in connection with it Father Judge realized a long cherished wish when he found himself enabled to proceed with the construction of the hospital.

Through his untiring energy and zeal the accommodations at St. Mary's hospital were extended until its present capacity was reached, but the accomplishment of the heavy tasks he had set himself proved too heavy a drain upon a naturally weak physical organism.

With a touching tribute to the dead, and a rehearsal of his own intimate relations with him Father Desmarais concluded his address. Father Gendreau, successor to Father Judge as pastor of St. Mary's, then spoke briefly in reference to the many virtues of the deceased and spoke of his own feeling of responsibility in taking up a work begun by such able hands.

The audience was then invited to pass up the aisle and view the remains while the choir from the balcony filled the church with the sweet harmonies of "Nearer My God to Thee." The music throughout the ceremony was beautifully rendered.

The sudden end of the much-loved Rev. Father Judge on Monday last, as chronicled in our last issue, was not only a distinct shock to the community but an irretrievable loss, also. There are good men in the world, plentiful enough, but there is no one here can take up the father's good work with the disinterestedness and unselfishness of Father Judge, or can, in less than a decade win such individual trust as all felt for this physically feeble, yet charitably strong old man.

He was born in Baltimore 49 years ago in a well-to-do and piously-inclined American family. While yet a young man he showed the bent of his mind by entering the brotherhood. After several years his health proved inadequate to the exertions upon it, and he followed the calling of an architect for 12 years in Baltimore. His health having improved he returned to the Brotherhood and in time became a teacher himself. Three sisters joined the Sisterhood about the same time and one brother became a priest.

In August of the year 1890 the father arrived at the Holy Cross mission, located on the Yukon about 300 miles from its mouth. He labored among the natives and few whites at various pioneer posts, and in '93 was sent among the Deneh Indians on the Shaegalkuk river. With one white assistant he built and established a mission, and for two years worked faithfully with the natives.

The father's whole-souled disinterestedness and charity can be best shown by illustrative anecdote. While at the mission he had founded among the Deneh he learned of the misfortune which had happened to three explorers. Winter had caught them attempting to cross from the mouth of the McKenzie to the Yukon and they were not only frozen in but from frosted feet had been rendered helpless.

The constantly recurring rumor of the drowning of "Jakey" Kline on his outward trip has been traced to a dozen different sources and the rumor wished to say that, so far as can be learned the stories have no foundation in fact. Every arrival from up-river for the past month has been interviewed and none knew of the supposed accident.

The Regina Club whist players played a return match with the P. U.'s on their own grounds over the Bank building. The visiting Reginas were royally entertained and feasted and that the contest at duplicate whist was close and interesting as the following tables will show:

Table with columns REGINA and P. U.'s. Rows include De Gex, Allen, E. C., Lithgow, Kidley, Harper, Nurse, Willis, Davis, Wilson, Peltz, Woolrich, Heath, Barwell, Golden, Lowenstein, Judge Davis.

The majority was five in favor of the P. U.'s and one half the claim was stand-off, showing very even play and few mistakes.
