Wins Eagle Endge—Another Rewarded for Saving Life. Flint Mich., Sept. 24.—The highest service honor that can be awarded to a Boy Scott, the issuance of an eagle scout badge, was conferred upon Ver-mon Hawkins, 1527 Lyon Street, Monday night, at the first meeting of the year of the Court of Honor. The court doubly because of an eagle

The court doubly honored five other Scouts, awarding life scout and star scout badges, besides presenting Or-ville Hale, former scout and now a scout leader, with a letter of commen-dation for his act of heroism on June 28rd, 1921, in saving Miss Philomena Arndt from drowning.

Hale was swimming in the old gravel pit in South Flint when he dived into deep hole. While under water he a deep hole. While under water he felt something grab him, and battling his way to the surface discovered that young woman was clutching him. ith great effort Hale brought Miss With Arndt to shore. The fact that ne was taken utterly by surprise, combined with his coolness in bringing Miss Arndt to safety is held by scout offi-cials as most unusual. The letter of memordation, a lithographed manucommendation, a lithographed manu-script, was sent here by the National Court of Honor and bore the signa-ture of Daniel C. ### NORRIS FERGUSON, OF JUNETOWN.

The death of Mr. Norris Ferguson, which occurred Thursday afternoon, September 13th, came with such sud-denness that the countryside was shocked and deeply grieved. He had appeared in his usual health when he left the house about endown when the left the house about an hour before for a load of corn, but when he did not return his wife went to look for him, and when she found him he was lying on his face beside his load of corn. She could not realize that he was dead, and she spent some time in trying to revive him before running some distance to the house to call the hybridian and come neighbors when physician and some neighbors, who, upon their arrival, found that he was dead. Deepest sympathy is felt for his grief-stricken wife, who is pros-trated at the shock of finding her husband dead when he had left her only a short time before, happy and in the best of spirits.

During the days following his death hundreds of friends called to view the remains, where he lay, as if peacefully sleeping, in a casket of dove grey vel-vet surrounded by a wealth of floral tributes.

Norris will be greatly missed not alone by his own immediate relatives alone by his own immediate relatives, but by a host of friends whom he had won during his life by his unfailing cheerfulness, his kind, neighborly ways, and was always ready to join with those that sorrowed as well as those that were happy.

Moved by C. B. Howard, seconded Thos. G. Howorth, that the council now adjourn until the 27th of tober, or sooner if called by the ve_-Carried
