Serious Accident at Marysville--Scott Act Arrest.

Measles Prevalent--A Happy Event--Other Items.

Shawl Found.

The lady, who advertised in last issue, a shawl as having been lost, can have the same by calling at the GLEANER counting rooms.

Measles at Marysville.

Measles are extremely prevalent at Marysville. Old and young alike are afflicted with the epidemic. Thirty-six employees out of one room of the cotton factory are down with them.

The Parliament Buildings.

The legislative halls are being put in order for the opening of the House on March 1st. The Waterhouse Electric lights have been hung in the corridors and the assembly room. Two lights are hung in the assembly room.

The Council Meeting.

Owing to the unavoidable absence of several of the members of the Marysville town council, the regular monthly meeting could not be held on Tuesday evening, and the town officers have not yet been appointed for the ensuing year.

Merchants vs All-comers.

The curling match yesterday between merchants and all-comers resulted in an easy victory for the merchants, the score standing, merchants 73, all-comers 56 Four rinks played on a side. The rinks to go to St. Stephen next Thursday have been selected.

The Marysville Carnival.

Scarcely anything is talked about at Marysville than the coming carnival, and the attendance of Marysville people promises to be something immense. Nearly everyone is busy preparing costumes, and many of them are going to display originality that will be hard to beat. Marysville is bound to have the prizes this time.

Northern and Western.

In consequence of an accident to the new Russell snow plough yesterday, the regular train for Chatham over the Northern & Western did not leave Gibson until nearly eleven o'clock this morning—nearly three hours behind hand. When it did leave it had to go without the plough. Two engines, one passenger car, and a flanger made up the train.

Sunday School Anniversary.

Special services will be held in the Methodist church on Sunday in observance of the anniversary of the Sunday school. The Rev Mr. Tippit, of Hampton, will preach in the morning to the children, and in the evening Rev. Mr. Dobson will preach to the parents and Sunday school teachers. In the afternoon special exercises will be held in the Sunday school.

Women's Missionary Society.

As a result of Miss Palmer's recent visit to Marysville, a branch of the Women's Missionary Society has been organized at that place with Mrs. Fred. Williams president. The other evening they held a most successful social entertainment in Mr. Gibson's hall, from which they realized nearly $20. An orchestra under the leadership of Prof. Cudwallider furnished excellent music. The society proposes repeating the entertainments frequently.

A Serious Accident.

An eight-year-old son of Mr. Albert McDonald, of Marysville, met with an accident on Tuesday, which, it is feared, will result seriously. He was trying to fire off a gun cap by striking it with an axe, when a piece of the cap flew up and entered the ball of one of his eyes. Dr. Sharpe was called and advised the father to send the boy to a specialist in St. John. Mr. McDonald however brought the boy to the city, where an attempt was made to cut it out. It is feared that the sight of the eye is destroyed.

Customs Officers in Trouble.

It is understood that the government have ordered to Ottawa Messrs. O'Keefe and Bonnes, of the customs department, to explain their conduct in reference to a seizure by them in Madawaska of a lot of goods, which, our informant says, were shipped by a prominent dry goods house in this city to certain parties in the place above mentioned. A portion of the goods, it is said, were sold and the remainder were confiscated to be disposed of in a like manner. The inquiry into the circumstances of the seizure will be heard in Ottawa, where the two officers now are.—Globe.

Excessive Economy.

A case of excessive economy in horse feeding has been reported to the S. P. C. A. from Kingsclear. The secretary accompanied by Detective Roberts, drove up to look into it Tuesday evening. They found the owner of the steed busily engaged in her house hold duties. She kindly gave the officers all the necessary information concerning the animal, declaring that it received hay, oats and water three times a day regularly, and hinting that there was something wrong with its digestion organs, which accounted for its miserable appearance. The officers took it all in, but left orders for better attention before it was driven to town again.

A Series of Arrests.

Wm. White, Scott Act violator, of Gibson, who has evaded the office of the law for some time past, was arrested on the streets Saturday afternoon by officer Vandine and Wright and committed to jail. He was arrested on a warrant of commitment for second offence. Several Scott Act convictions have been hanging over his head, including one for third offence. He was released from jail last night on the fine of $105.05 being paid, and this morning as he was leaving on the western train for Boston he was arrested for debt by Officer Roberts whom he defiantly resisted. He was successful in securing bail and was again arrested and again bailed. Roberts then had him arrested and fined for resisting, which he paid, and took the train on his way to Boston this afternoon.

Nuptials on Keswick.

A very interesting social event marked the winter serenity of Smith's Corner, Keswick, at an early hour yesterday. The occasion was the marriage of Dr. Sherman W. Boone, of Presque Isle, Me., formerly of Fredericton, to Miss Lizzie Bird, eldest daughter of Coun. Frank Bird. The happy event was celebrated at the residence of the bride's father, the ceremony being performed at 7 o'clock, by Rev. Thos. Pierce, the resident Methodist clergyman. The bride was very beautifully attired and looked more charming than ever as she appeared at the altar. In accordance with the prevailing custom of the times, the service of attendants was dispensed with. The marriage ceremony was witnessed by a large number of guests, including a number from this city. A special feature of the occasion was the beautiful collection of bridal presents, including a very handsome marble mantle clock the gift of the University class of '83, of which the groom was a popular member. After the wedding breakfast had been served, the happy couple took their departure on the morning express for Presque Isle, Me., amid a shower of rice, old slippers, and good wishes.

"THE DRUNKARD'S WARNING."

Its Production in St. Dunstan's Hall Tuesday Evening.

St. Dunstan's hall was packed to the doors Tuesday evening, when Taylor's celebrated temperance drama, "The Drunkard's Warning" was presented by the members of St. Dunstan's T. A. society, and it would be safe to say that if the entertainment were repeated this evening, the attendance would be equally as large, if not larger, so delighted were all with the manner in which the drama was presented. The drama itself is a highly interesting one, and, while it is full of funny and witty sayings, has much about it to inspire and elevate, and serves as a grand temperance lecture. Its production was certainly most creditable to the performers and to all concerned, and, if possible, was an improvement upon the manner in which they presented "More Sinned against than Sinning," and "Diamond Cut Diamond." St. Dunstan's T. A. society can claim the distinction of having in its membership the most talented amateur actors in the vicinity; at least they have shown themselves capable of giving dramatic entertainments which throw all other attempts entirely into the shade. The young ladies who assisted were perhaps a little weak for the male performers; but their parts were rather difficult, far more so than in the two other dramas previously mentioned. The character of Louisa Mordaunt, taken by Miss Taylor, was exceedingly difficult, and was as well sustained as could be expected. The other female characters were also difficult, and were, under the circumstances well taken. The character of Edward Mordaunt, by Mr. George Clinton could not easily have been improved upon. The audience manifested their appreciation of his acting several times by loud applause. Mr. Clinton is undoubtedly the "star" of the troupe. Mr. James Farrell made a good Mr. Granville, Ed. Mordaunt's father-in-law. Mr. Wm. Broderick, as George Seymour, Granville's clerk, took his part admirably; while Messrs. T. C. Doherty and W. J. Perks as "Smasher" and "Tipton," confirmed instbrutes, brought down the house with the amusing way in which they represented their characters, which certainly afforded them a chance to display their ability in low comedy. Mr. E. A. O'Brien, as Mr. Howard, a temperance landlord, acquitted himself well. To be short the drama was put on admirably, and except in the case of the female characters there was hardly room for improvement. The new band recently organized, furnished excellent music during the evening.

W. C. T. U. AND THEIR WORK.

To Make a Temperance Scientific Experiment at Hospital.

Mr. Parkin on Temperance Hospital Work.

Labors of the Union During the Year--Officers' Reports.

The assemblage in the Temperance Hall last evening at the W. C. T. U. anniversary was not as large as was expected, the heavy storm preventing the usual large attendance The exercises however were of a very interesting character, and those who ventured out were amply repaid for their trouble. The president, Mrs. Steadman, presided and several of the officers of the union occupied seats upon the platform. Lady Tilley was among the number in attendance. The choir of union furnished some excellent temperance selections during the evening, Mrs Tibbits presiding at the organ. "For God and Home and Native Land" was beautifully rendered by the choir, after which Rev. Wm. Dobson opened the exercises with scripture reading and prayer.

The President's Address.

Mrs. Steadman, president of the union, then read her annual address which was as follows:

A review of the year's work will be presented by our secretary. When ones steps are taken slowly, sometimes in the dim twilight, sometimes in the darkness, and again with sure and certain tread, bearing the words of the master: "this is the way, walk ye in it;" we do not take time for a backward look until the year is ended, and then as we take a retrospective view we are constrained to say, "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us."

New departures have entered into our work. The women all over the land have come to feel that formation, rather than reformation is the better way. That it is better to build thoroughly, and fortify against a strong current, than to wait until an overflow has carried destruction in its march, sweeping everything before it. In other words to educate against the evil, that it will not be necessary to build prisons and almshouses, to care for those who have been swept along by the current.

So now the children in the loyal legions are taught that not only does the drink make drunkards, but the why, what it does to the brain, the stomach, the heart, the nerves, etc. Had the children been taught these things years ago, as now, we feel confident that the newly enfranchised electors in Westmorland county to-morrow would be better prepared to judge intelligently of the great issues involved, and hence, would cast their ballots against the repeal of the C. T. A.

We rejoice that scientific temperance instruction will soon be introduced into the public schools of this province, and we would just say in passing, that the first step towards this was taken by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Fredericton.

A few years ago we accepted this fact, as such it seemed to be then, that alcohol might be used as a medicine, and to be treated as any other poison. Now, science has demonstrated the fallacy of this pre-conceived fact, and tells us, not only, that it is not necessary, but the chances of recovery are greater where it is not used, and so we have taken the first step in this direction, by endowing a bed in the Victoria Hospital, following out in this small way, what is being done in a large scale in other places.

We sincerely regret this evening the absence of our Governor, Sir Leonard Tilley. But though we have not the substance, I have but to draw aside the veil which discloses the portrait of him who has been the tried and proved friend of the cause that needs assistance. And against the "Wrong that needs resistance." We are happy to-night in the possession of this added treasure to our temperance home and feel that in its possession we shall ever find an inspiration reaching out towards a consistent, and well spent life—a jewel of rare excellence.

The wish to remember with gratitude, the oft repeated and kind assistance of the Christian ministers of our city.

Our thanks are also due to THE GLEANER and Reporter for kindly mention of our work from time to time. Nor would we forget those who sing the inspiring songs of our order whenever present.

A fine large portrait of Sir Leonard Tilley adorns the wall of the building above the platform, to which the president alluded in her address, and unveiled it at the time.

Review of the Work.

The secretary, Mrs. Simpson, was then called upon and delivered the tenth annual report of the Fredericton W. C. T. U., being a review of the work done by the union during the year. The opening of the year 1887 was celebrated by providing a dinner for poor children, a number of which entered the ranks of the Loyal Legion. At the first regular meeting, the election of officers resulted in the return of nearly all the old staff, a few necessary changes only being made. The treasurer of finance committee reported amount paid on account of hall $1,365.65; monies received $1,363.191 balance due treasurer for hall $2.46.

During this month committees visited the several wards for the purpose of urging the newly enfranchised women to exercise their right to vote at the coming civic elections. Reference was also made to the public anniversary held last February.

Two exhibitions of the Broom Brigade in the city hall netted the sum of $72.25.

A social and literary entertainment was held in March for the benefit of the students of the Normal School and University, when the White Cross movement was prominently forwarded by Mrs. Turnbull of St. John.

In accordance with a resolution passed in the convention held at Windsor, N. S. letters were sent to all the clergymen of the city, asking them to preach on the subject of temperance on Sunday, May 8th.

A sale of home cookery was opened, which soon developed into a stated business in the hands of an efficient saleswoman, and is intended to be the beginning of a trade in connection with a coffee and reading room.

By permission of Capt. Duncan, a bracket was placed in the Woodstock boat, which was kept supplied with good literature during the season. Steamboats running to St. John were also attended to in this way and brackets placed in railway stations, factories, etc.

The union sent a copy of the Canada Citizen containing medical opinions on alcohol as a medicine to all the physicians in the city and county.

The review also referred to the refreshment tent controlled by the union on circuit day; the picnic at Beechmont; Mrs. Barney's visit and addresses on gospel temperance; the readings given in the interests of the union by Miss McGarry, elocutionist from Montreal.

In October the stated visitation of the jail was taken up. Meetings were appointed to be held on Sunday mornings at ten o'clock. Books and papers are furnished the prisoners, while prayer and praise had subdued stout hearts, which would not all be lost.

A visitation of the public schools was undertaken in November, the object being to ascertain how many teachers gave stated lessons on the subject of alcohol; from the reports given it was found that instructions in a general way was often given, but there was no systematic teaching on the subject.

In response to the call of the National Union for a week of prayer a service was held on Saturday Nov. 12 and a gospel temperance meeting Sunday evening; the World's petition was presented and largely signed; the usual entertainment for Normal and University students was held on Nov. 22nd.

Among the closing efforts of the year were, a petition to Col. Maunsell for abolishing the sale of liquor in the canteen, and a deputation to Hon. A. F. Randolph to secure his consent to allow himself to be put in nomination for mayor.

A large number of Christmas letters were sent forth on the 25th of December, which found their way into the barracks of the soldiers, the camps of the lumbermen, and the homes of aged and infirm ones.

The union now numbers 84. There were 51 regular meetings held during the year.

The treasurer reported there had been received during the year from subscriptions and other resources, $147.54; expended $113.63. The treasurer of finance committee received $592.20; paid out $553.75

Temperance Hospital Work.

The reading of the reports was followed by some excellent musical renditions after which Mr. Geo. R Parkin was called upon to deliver his address on the London Temperance Hospital. In opening his remarks Mr. Parkin expressed his surprise at the cool matter of fact way that both the president and secretary of the union had referred to the union's effort in endowing a bed in the Victoria hospital for the treatment of patients without the use of alcohol. This grant of $200 a year meant a thousand dollars in five years. It was a matter of great concern to the public and showed that the women of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Fredericton had the courage of their convictions, in that they were willing to have this scientific investigation of the treatment of patients without alcohol put to the test. While in London attending the temperance congress, he was invited along with the other delegates to visit the London temperance hospital. This was a scientific experiment and a great one which was attracting widespread attention. What was being done in London on a large scale the W. C. T. U. proposed to do on a small scale in Fredericton. the result of which will be watched with particular interest. A noble and once solid undertaking had been accomplished here in the erection of the Victoria hospital, the outcome of a Christian effort to do good to others. In connection with this philanthropic movement, the W C. T. U wished to link another Christian effort in the carrying forward of this benevolent work. It was an important move and to his mind one of the most important steps ever taken by a temperance body in New Brunswick. It had to say the least common sense involved in it. The most important question in this great temperance movement was the scientific side of it. The union were willing to put their trust in this great scientific investigation, and the experiment was about to be made on a small scale. While we here can only support one hospital, the experiment is as large in proportion as the one temperance hospital among the scores of others in London.

Whoever is sent to the W. C. T. U. bed at the Victoria Hospital will be treated without alcohol. He understood that nearly every physican in the city had agreed to this, and while it might not only serve as an educator for the public, it may be the means also of moulding medical opinion in this city and hereabouts. He held that the investigation would not involve any personal sacrifice. The physicians ought not only to consent to it but heartily welcome the chance of doing it. There was an immense weight of argument pointing in favor of the change.

The London temperance hospital was founded in 1871 on a comparatively small scale. It was now a large and important hospital. Since its establishment up to their visit in 1886, 3, 844 patients had been treated and 22,790, that were called patients; treated by the hospital staff out-side of the hospital, had been treated. During the 13 years the report showed that alcohol had been used in but 3 cases and the whole staff affirmed that there was no necessity whatever for it in these three cases. The relative value of hospitals is adjudged by the number of successful treatments. In the temperance hospital the percentage of deaths was 5.2 being smaller than almost all other hospitals in England. In 1884 a special report was made concerning the cases of typhoid fever treated, in which alcohol is used quite freely by physicians generally. In the temperance hospital 53 cases were reported and 49 treated successfully. It was found also in cases of fever and other diseases, that total abstainers were placed at a great advantage. It was a remarkable fact that in the British hospitals 7 shillings per head was spent for alcoholic medicine, in 1875 and in 1882 it had dwindled down to 1½ pence per head This scientific temperance work being done in the hospitals was important, and the step taken by this union here would awaken interest in this important scientific investigation.

The remaining exercises included a paper read by Mrs. Randolph, a violin solo by Miss Bailey, several songs by the choir, after which the interesting and profitable anniversary meeting was brought to a close by the benediction pronounced by Rev. A. J. Mowatt.

A BASELESS CHARGE.

New York Gentlemen Who Brand

The Charges Made by the Angler Against Mr. Bramble

As an Absolutely Unfounded Imputation--Steps to be Taken.

Whatever doubts, if any, may have been entertained in the minds of any of our citizens, with regard to the serious charge preferred by the New York Angler against Mr. Chas. A. Bramble, of this city, will be entirely eradicated by the following communications from New York which have followed quickly the reckless assertions made in the Angler. The gentlemen who brand the Angler's statements as libellous are representative sporting men of New York, and well known in fishing circles here. Their letters speak with no uncertain tone as to the falsity of the charges. The letters were received by Mr. Bramble in last evening's mail, among which was the following:

NEW YORK, Feb 12th.

Mr. Chas. A Bramble, Fredericton, N B.

DEAR SIR: I presume that you have before this seen that infamous article in the Angler of last week. I consider it my duty, as well as a pleasure, to say to you that I look upon that article as an outrageous, scandalous libel, and that such is the verdict of all with whom I have spoken on the subject. I being fully conversant with every step taken in the Remous affair can fully assure you that what you have done, was done with the full and free consent of Messrs. Harris and Pinckney, and if they had a grievance anywhere, it was against my friends Mr. Hurtzig and Mr. Storey. These gentlemen have in my presence said as much to Harris & Pinckney, and have also told them that it was a cowardly thing or act, to attack you, an innocent and defenceless man, and that they only did it, because knowing that they (Harris & Pinckney) had not a leg to stand upon, either in law or in equity. They dared not attack Hurtzig or Storey, they being on the spot, and being in the right were able to defend themselves. The Angler people seem to be in bad odor, and I am rather of the opinion that their enmity would here in New York, where they are known, be of more benefit to you than their favor. The last Forest and Stream hits them off about right when it says that Harris' opinion counts little, and is worth less." With sincere assurances of esteem, I remain,

Yours truly
ROBERT B. FORSYTH.
1700 Bathgab Ave., Tremont, N Y. City.

In a post script at the bottom of the letter Mr. Forsyth adds: What I say to you is not of a private nature, so you are at liberty to use it as you see fit.

Mr. Bramble is also in receipt of a lengthy letter from Messrs. Hurtzig and Storey from which the following self explanatory extracts are taken:

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.

DEAR BRAMBLE:—We were thunderstruck on Friday morning to see the dastardly attack on you in the Angler. We had both been there the day before, and had endeavored to make an appointment with them for an amicable settlement, but when we got there neither Harris nor Pinckney were present, and by the next day the paragraph was beyond recall. Had we consulted our own feelings we should have dropped everything with them, then and there, and sought to protect you and demonstrate your entire innocence of anything but the most fair and straightforward dealings with them, in other and more influential quarters. But we considered that it might be best that in the source from which it emanated, an exoneration from imputations the paragraph contained, should be publicly acknowledged

* * * We will see that your entire innocence of their scandalous and utterly indefensible charges will be openly demonstrated.

* * * We have, we believe, reached such a point and have so far acceded to rapacious demands far in excess of any claim either in law or in equity that they may have against us, on the express understanding that in next week's issue they remove this cruel and absolutely unfounded imputation.

The letter in conclusion says: We of course recognize that they are simply striking at us, through you, whom absence has rendered defenceless, because knowing that they had no ground to stand upon, they dared not attack either of us. We have answered them, even if assurance is necessary that you had nothing whatever to do with our change of plan as concerned them, and that you stood in precisely the same condition as you always did, getting neither more nor less, and that you had in fact no more to do with their cause of grievance, if any they had, than the man in the moon.

The letter is signed E. Hurtzig, Fred D. Storey.

It would appear as if the Angler people needn't be concerned just yet about the want of an extradition treaty.

A TRAMP WORTH THOUSANDS.

The Business Transactions and Wealth of Daniel Hustler

Who Was Killed on the N. & W. Railway Last Week.

Full Report of the Inquest Further Particulars of the Fatality.

It seems that the unfortunate man, Daniel Hustler, who was killed on the Northern and Western Railway on Thursday night last, belonged to Minimingash, Prince County, P. E. I., and had relatives there, with whom he corresponded. For some time past Hustler had made his head-quarters at Chatham and Newcastle, and although he did all his travelling from station to station on foot, sometimes walking fifty to sixty miles to reach his destination, and was, generally classed as a tramp, it would appear from papers found in his pockets, that he was carrying on an extensive business, buying up all kinds of produce and shipping it to Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. A book, found in his pocket, contained a memorandum showing that he had business transactions with J. R. Walker, commission merchant of Montreal; J. M. McGoldrick, St. John; Jack and Bell, Halifax; D. Rogers, Summerside, P. E. I.; and several other business men in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. The memorandum showed the amounts paid and due him. He had several notes in his pocket made in his favor, ranging between thirty and a hundred dollars, some of them falling due this month Among other things found in his pockets was a woolen glove tied up with a string. Upon opening it, it was found to contain a wallet with $192 00 in cash. A Stanley correspondent, who was present at the inquest on the body say that the deceased had a bank account at Newcastle amounting to over $3 000. The papers and the money are at present in the possession of Dr. Moore, who telegraphed to John Hustler, Minimingash, yesterday. He has not received an answer yet.

Our Stanley correspondent sends us the following full report of the inquest which was held the morning after the fatility at Cross Creek station by Coroner Moore. The following comprised the jury: James McLaggan, foreman; Samuel Blair, Wm. Fisher, Benj. Coughlan, Alex. Coughlan, Alex. Bair, and Thos. Coughran. After the coroner had examined the body, Driver Wm. D. Dennison, sworn, testified as follows: I reside at Gibson. My occupation is engineering. I drive No. 3 engine on the Northern & Western railway. I have been railroading for ten years. I left Gibson at a quarter to eight, standard time, Thursday night. We had a locomotive and flanger car bound for Chatham Junction. When about seven and a half miles from Cross Creek we were going about eight miles an hour. I was looking out of the right side of the window, and saw some object on or near the track. I whistled on breaks and reversed the engine and stopped. I told Thomas Scott that we had struck something. Scott was on the flanger car. He took his lantern, went back a distance and returned, and told me he saw nothing. Coming back on the left side of the train he came round to the front of the engine and tender. He cried out, "My God! Bill, here is a man." I got out of the engine and found what he said to be true. The body was lying with the feet in the direction we were going. I moved the engine back about ten feet, in order to get the body out. The head was caught under the tender truck. Mr. Scott had to shovel away some snow before the body could be removed. The body was placed in the flanger car and taken to Boiestown, and given in charge of the station agent. We arrived at Boiestown about one o'clock.

Train Manager Scott was next called to give evidence. He corroborated Dennison's testimony. He added that when taking up the body of the deceased, he felt the hands and feet beside his socks. He had no mittens on his hands. His head was bare.

Coroner Moore in reviewing the evidence and addressing the jury, stated that the man's hands had been frozen before the accident occurred.

The jury returned the following verdict:—That Samuel Hustler came to his death on the night of February 9th, from injuries received from engine No. 3, of the special train on the Northern & Western railroad, bound for Chatham, while on the track in a benumbed and perishing condition from frost and hunger, and we further consider the Northern & Western railway company and their employes absolutely free from any censure blame or reflection in the matter.

The remains were interred in the parish of Stanley, the funeral services being conducted by the Rev. H. T. Parlee.
