CHOOSING A HUSBAND.-If a man wipes choose a Hysans.—It a man wipes his feet on the door-mat before coming into the room, you may be sure he will make a good domestic husband.—If a man' in sauffing the candles, snuffs them out, you may be sure he will make a stupid husband.—If a man puts his bandkerchief, on his knees whilst taking his tea. you may be sure he will be a prudent husband.—In the same way, always mis-trust the man who will not take the last piece of toast or Sally Lunn, put prefers vaiting for the next batch. It is not unlikely he will make a greedy, selfish hus-band, with whom you will enjoy no "brown" at dinner, no crust at tea, no peace whatever at home.-The man who atches the kettle and prevents its boiling over, will not fail, my dears, in his married state in exercising the same care in always keeping the pot boiling.—The man who doesn't take tea, ill-treats the cat, takes snuff, and stands with his back to the fire, is a brute whom I would not advise you, my dears, to marry upon any consideration, either for love or money, but most decidedly not for love.-But the man who, when the tea is over, is discovered to have had none, is sure to make the best husband. Patience like his deserves being rewarded with the best of wives and the best of mothers-in-law. My dears, when you meet with such a man do your utmost to marry him. In the severest winter he would not mind

MOTHER. - As the infant begins to discriminate between the objects around, it soon discovers one countenance that ever smiles upon it with peculiar benignity. When it wakes from its sleep, there is one watchful form ever bent over its cradle. If started by some unhappy dream, a guardian angel seems ever ready to soothe its fears. If cold, that ministering spirit brings it warmth; if hungry, she feeds it; if happy, she caresses it. In joy or sorrow, in weal or woe, she is the first object of its thoughts. CONSUMPTION.

Among the numerous discoveries Science has made in this generation to facilitate the business of life—increase its enjoyment, and even prolong the term of human existence, some can be named of more real value to menkind, than this contribution of Chemistry to the Healing Art. A vanturial of its virtues throughout this bread country, has preven beyond a doubt, that no medicine or combination of medicines yet known, can so surely control and cure the numerous varieties of pulmonary disease which have bitherto went. Indeed, there is now abundant reason to believe a Remedy has at length them found which can be raised on, to cure the most dangerous affections of the lungs. Our space here will not permit us to publish any proportion of the cures effected by its use, but we would pissent the following:—and refer further enquiry to my American Almanac, which the agent below manned, will always be pleased to furnish free, wherein are full particulars, and indisputable proof of these statements.

DEAR SIR—I have much pleasure in landing by you a testimonial of the efficacy of your Medicines. A person in this neighbourhood, with whom I am well exquinited, was affected for a long time with violent spasmodic pains in the stomech and liver, aring from frequent colds, smells of paint, and the effects of a stooping position, which he was obliged to essume in his business. The apaims were of an alterning character, and frequently left him in a weak and debilinged condition. At length he beard of the saluting affects of your invaluable fills, and was induced to give them a trial. The first does gave him considerable relief, and by following them up in accordance with your directions, they have acted so wonderfully in cleaning the digestive organs, that he has been relatived to the enjoyment of good health.
