Mr. Borden intimated that their would be a heart to heart conference among the Conservatives at which all these matters would be thrashed out.

INDIANS FLOCK TO HAZELTON.

Imprisoned Braves Draw Many to the Town—Precautions Taken.

Hazelton, B.C., Nov. 9.—The Indians concerned in the trouble on the Klappan valley road appeared before Magistrate Allan last evening and were remanded to the next week. The members of the tribes at outlying points have been notified by runners and are moving in from all points. The town is full of tribal friends and relatives of the imprisoned braves, but no serious trouble is anticipated, as the authorities have taken every precaution to forestall any attempt to free the braves. No disorders of any kind have been reported and all citizens have every confidence in the ability and determination of the police to cope with any situation that may present itself.

Fearing the possibility that an organized attempt may be made by the Indians of Klappan and other nearby tribes to rescue the prisoners, Friday night, the police authorities at Hazelton have erected barricades and other temporary defenses to assist in the defence of the place. Several trenches are being dug today, in which guards will be posted.

The people of Hazelton are fearful for the safety of the ranches scattered throughout the country, which may be pounced upon and killed in revenge for the capture of the prisoners. Recently an Anglican missionary was surrounded by the Indians and was forced to make preparations to move out. Before this was accomplished his house was set on fire and what was not burned was stolen by the natives.
