The Price of Coal

Dear Mr. Editor.—It is indeed time that some one should take the defence of these down-trodden coal merchants, and it is positively refreshing to read such a frank exposition of their wrongs from a "Lover of Fair Play." He will have no objection therefore in correcting the selling price of N. S. which is $7.20, not $7.00. This of course means another 20 cents profit! And also he will inform the public with equal candour what rebate or discount the principal coal firms obtain when they pool their orders. Mr. L. O. F. P., the public await your answer!
 Yours truly,
 A CONSUMER.

Timely Sermon.

Rev. J. Pippy celebrated last Mass in St. Patrick's Church yesterday and preached a sermon in the course of which he deprecated the fact that young people of both sexes and hardly in their teens are to be seen until a late hour at night parading the streets and often indulging in talk and conduct which shocked those who heard it. He blamed the parents of children for this condition of affairs, showed what a great responsibility rested upon them in the training and care of their offspring and denounced those who do not see to it that their children are off the streets at night, and who neglect to give them a good moral training. Father Pippy's discourse should have the effect of making parents and guardians more careful.

Capt. Keane Appointed.

Mr. Joseph Keane has been appointed captain of the S. S. Portia, succeeding Capt. Fitzpatrick, who has accepted a Government position. Capt. Keane went in the ship on Saturday and knows the S. W. Coast well. His duties as commander does not come into effect until May 24th.

A FEW WORDS

Stafford's Liniment.
 This is one of the very best Liniments that can be bought in Newfoundland, and hundreds of bottles are being sold every week. It is one of the strongest and most penetrating Liniments that has been placed on the market and every person who has used it can testify to its good merits. It has been proven a fine preparation for Rheumatism, Lumbago, Neuralgia, Facerache, Toothache, and all kinds of aches and pains, and testimonials were published to this effect a few weeks ago.
 Remember, when speaking of Liniments, the words "Stafford's Liniment" should come before any other, and always be sure you obtain the bottle with "Queen of Liniments" printed on the wrapper.
 You can purchase this Liniment at any outport merchant's store, and in case they happen to be out of it when you require a bottle, you can send twenty cents in stamps to Dr. F. Stafford & Son, St. John's, Nfld., and they will very promptly mail you one in time.
 Every person in the outports should have a bottle of "Stafford's Liniment" in their home, and the price is within reach of everyone.

First Express.

The first express to arrive from Port aux Basques since February 7th, last, came in at 5 a.m. yesterday in charge of Conductor Gaul. Quite a number of passengers came and the train hands though expecting a clear rail say that there are yet mountains of snow up the country which, however, is now quickly melting. The express brought a large mail.

"The Bells."

Amongst the special theatrical offerings that gave the late Sir Henry Irving his pre-eminence in the world of stage folk has always been prominently counted his "presentation" of "The Bells!" In view of this fact, and realizing that our local theatre-goers would appreciate a production of this very enthralling drama, Mr. Selman decided to include it in his repertoire. It is a particularly good show, and the leading role—that of Mathias, the inn keeper, stricken with remorse at the knowledge of a heinous crime he has committed—will introduce Mr. Selman at his best. Mr. P. S. Barrett, who was prominently identified with the play throughout its successful run in the United States, has been directing the rehearsals and guarantees a most satisfactory performance. The scenery in the show will be absolutely new. The setting showing the interior of the "Merry Andrew" Inn is particularly good, and the two closing tableaux are excellently arranged. The company are all happily cast, and the entire production promises to be a very fine one.

Proceeding "The Bells" Miss Corwin and Mr. Geo. Montserrat will appear in a one act play entitled: "The Trust Magnate!" This little play has been featured as the headline attraction in nearly all the large American vaudeville houses, and the two performers mentioned have been playing in it continuously for the past four years. Miss Mackenzie will introduce new vocal numbers, and a mammoth bill is promised.

The Bruce at Sydney.

The s.s. Bruce, which arrived at Sydney at 2 a.m. yesterday, had heavy ice nearly all the way along, and left again at 5.45 a.m. She arrived back at Port aux Basques at 2.10 p.m. yesterday bringing these passengers: Miss E. R. Bell, E. Pike, Mrs. H. J. Earle, Miss A. Vardy, L. and Mrs. Green, J. O. Croke, B. Buffett, A. M. Himmerman, C. N. Hall, T. R. Jenkinson, and J. J. Wheatley.

C.L.B. Parade.

Avon Battalion under command of Lieut.-Col. Rendell attended Divine Service at the C. of E. Cathedral yesterday morning and a large turnout of members was in evidence. The service was conducted by Rev. Canon White who delivered a very impressive sermon. After service ranks were reformed and the brigade, headed by the brass band, which rendered beautiful airs, returned to their armoury via Gower Street, Prescott Street, Monkstown Road, Allandale Road and Parade Street.

THE TENDENCY OF EVERY MAN IS TO LIVE UP TO HIS NAME.
 Wherever you find a good name you will find some man trying to live up to it. Character follows reputation or more quickly than reputation follows character. No one ever lost his good name except through folly.
 What the world thinks of a man is the very best moral tonic that is sold under the label of philosophy.
 And it is the same with merchandise as it is with men. The nameless thing is dreaded everywhere, while the thing with a good name is usually good because you expect it to be.
 Men grow proud of their products. You will find a manufacturer saying "This shoe has got to be good because it bears my name." You will find a canner saying, "I cannot use any more than I can tell a lie." You will find a clothing manufacturer saying "If I am 'all wool,' my clothing must also be all wool."
 And so it goes with every single product that carries a brand or a name. Whenever a man sets a standard, he strives to live up to it; and whenever the world sets that stand-

SPRING POETRY.

By WALT MASON.

I was sitting by my gate weeping o'er an unkind fate. Everything was wrong that day, for my chickens wouldn't lay, but just loafed around the coop; and old Dobbin had the croup, and the cow had gone insane—she had suffrage on the brain—and the cat was having fits, and the dog, a lovely Spitz, seemed to have the babies bad, and my heart was sick and sad. So I sat there shedding brine from these china eyes of mine, weeping like some stricken deer till the yard was full of tears. Then an optimist came by; he had sunshine in his eye, and he slapped me on the back till I heard my wishbone crack. And there came this cheerful spasm from the large and yawning chasm: "Do not worry! Sing and dance!" So I slew him where he stood, with a chunk of wet elm wood. For I've found that when I'm sore optimism is a bore, and I do not care to hear people utter words of cheer. If you murmur and condole I can stand your rignarole; if you come and help me cuss I'll enjoy the little fuss. When all things are going right and I'm reeking with delight, then the optimist may come, making sunny language hum.

 Which simply means, if you want the best, you must ask for the best. And every time you ask, you make it better.
 There is hardly one of you readers who does not know the name of every good product on the market. From clothing to sugar and from hoisery to baking powder some good name is indelibly fixed in your mind, yet when you ask for an article, most of the time you do not use that name. And every time you fail to do so, you discourage the maker, you lower the standard for yourself and you allow some inferior thing to gain in strength and capacity.
 Let this go home in your mind: You set the standard of merchandise. The maker follows your ideals. Advertisements creep in through your laxity. Whenever you ask for any old thing, you get it.
 While you are reading the advertising news in this paper to-day, make up your mind to ask only for what you know to be good; to learn what is best and demand it and to have no parley with the nameless things of trade.
