Any method of canning must take bacteria into consideration or it will be a failure.

When preparing a creamed vegetable, the vegetable can be cooked in the lower part of the double boiler and the sauce in the upper.

Vases of ferns or green leaves are among the prettiest flower decorations in hot weather.

It is said that green peppers can be canned very well by the cold water method. They are good for slaw or meat fillings in winter.

OCCUPY ISLAND.

ROME, To-Day. A midnight official statement issued last night says the Island of Pelagosa in the Adriatic Sea, important on account of its strategic situation, has been occupied by Italian naval forces.

FINED FOR DEMONSTRATING.

LONDON, To-Day. Telegraphing from Amsterdam, the Morning Post's correspondent says the city of Antwerp was fined $50,000 for a popular demonstration held here on Belgian Pete Day.

BOMBARDMENT CONTINUED.

PARIS, To-Day. A Havas despatch from Athens says: The bombardment of the Turkish position inside the Dardanelles was continued for the past three days, the object of the Allies being to destroy the enemy's positions on the Asiatic shore. Negotiations with the British Government on the subject of the search of Greek ships are said to have reached a satisfactory conclusion, the British Government having agreed to recognize Greece's full rights in consideration of rigorous measures taken by Greece to prevent the shipment of contraband.

SHOCKS AMERICAN OFFICIALS.

WASHINGTON, To-Day. The torpedoing of the American steamer Leelanaw is a shock to American officials, who see on the incident a further aggravation of the situation between Germany and the United States, although they hesitate to-day in the absence of details to construe the act as coming within the warning of the last American Note which pointed out the further violation of International Law in detaching American citizens was to be regarded as deliberately unfriendly. The view taken was that Germany in effect had ignored the earlier note in connection with the sinking of the American sailing ship William P. Frye by the German cruiser Prinz Eitel Frederick. In that communication the States vigorously asserted the position even though an American ship carried contraband of war it was peculiarly protected from destruction by the stipulations of the Prussian-American Treaty of 1825. Flax, which was being carried by the Leelanaw, was declared absolutely contraband by Germany on April 13 in retaliation against the British contraband declaration. While precedents of International Law in recent years, supported particularly by the Declaration of London, have recognized this, the right of a belligerent to sink a neutral vessel carrying contraband in ship, certain of condemnation by Prize Court, the action has been limited to extreme cases of necessity when the taking of a prize into port would involve danger to the vessel making the capture.

BULGARIA AND TURKEY.

LONDON, To-Day. The reported cession by Turkey to Bulgaria of the Turkish portion of Dedeaghat railway has created considerable discussion in England, but the Bulgarian Legation in London insists it has no confirmation of such arrangement. It is stated in circles professing to understand the situation it would have effect on Bulgaria's neutrality, although this of course is debatable. By a treaty signed at Constantinople Turkey granted Bulgaria the free use of the line for ten years, but this privilege is contended, has been frequently revoked of late, Turkey repeatedly stopping freight traffic. Bulgaria protested against this and finally a fortnight ago forbade the movement of Turkish consignments across her border. The remedy of this situation appears to be the immediate object of Turkey's present move.

SUCCESS ON EUPHRATES.

LONDON, To-Day. Official despatches concerning the operations along the Euphrates River in Asiatic Turkey announce that the British forces, after rushing and capturing the Turkish advance and main entrenched positions, occupied the town of Nasiriyah on the morning of July 25, a British gunboat having shelled the city. The previous night the Turks disorganized and retreated northward. The British in the course of their advance captured eleven guns, two machine guns, and several hundred prisoners were taken. 500 dead Turks being counted in the main position. British casualties numbered between 300 and 400.

CREW EXPECTED AT DUNDEE.

LONDON, To-Day. All the crew of the American steamer Leelanaw are expected to reach Dundee to-day, when it will be possible to obtain a full account. The London evening papers telling of the incident employ in some cases suggestive captions, such as "An unfriendly act," but because the American Note laid such a stress on the demand that American lives on merchant ships should not be jeopardized without warning, it was difficult for the English mind to determine whether the sinking of a ship after the crew was taken off constituted what America would regard as a repetition of acts she insists must cease.

NORWEGIAN SCHOONER ATTACKED.

AMSTERDAM, To-Day. The Norwegian schooner Harboe was attacked and set on fire on Sunday by a German submarine. The crew were saved.

BRITISH CASUALTIES.

LONDON, To-Day. The casualties in the British Army and Navy have reached a total of 330,995, according to a printed statement issued by Premier Asquith. The naval casualties up to July were 2,106, and military casualties to July 18 were 321,889. The naval losses were divided as follows: Men killed, 7,240; wounded, 787; missing, 274. Premier Asquith announced in the Commons on June 9th that the total British casualties including naval divisions had been 258,069 up to May 31, in killed, wounded and missing. This shows the casualties in the army alone were 250,829 on May 31 and July 18. Great Britain is the only one of the Powers engaged in the war which announced from time to time her total losses.

RUSSIANS MORE CHEERFUL.

LONDON, To-Day. There has been a clean sweep from the Russian War Office of men responsible for the shortage in ammunition, according to the correspondent at Petrograd of the Daily Mail. He reports the existence in the Russian capital of more cheerful feelings at the courageous resistance which the Russian armies are making to the Austro-German advance. He adds that the frank admission by the authorities, is now made for the first time publicly, that no large Russian counter-offensive is possible until the mobilization of infantry bears fruit in largely increased supply of munitions.

ITALIAN GENERAL KILLED.

UDINE, Italy, To-Day. General Antonio Cantore has been killed in battle on the Isonzo front. He is the first officer of that rank lost by Italy.

ITALIANS OCCUPY ISLAND OF PELAGOSA.

ROME, To-Day. In announcing that the Island of Pelagosa had been occupied by the Italian naval forces, the official statement issued last night says: The object of the expedition was to deprive the enemy the use of the islands nearest the Italian coast from which they could easily watch the movement of Italian ships and vessels. The occupation of the Island was accomplished by a force of destroyers and auxiliary cruisers.

SHADOWED BY SUBMARINE.

LONDON, To-Day. After being shadowed by a submarine, which it is believed was subsequently sunk by a British ship, the Baltic arrived safely at Liverpool at nine o'clock this morning from New York. When passengers reached London they were all full of the submarine story. Only one, however, ago from Plaskidd, New York, asserted that he actually saw it.

REVOLUTION AT PORT AU PRINCE.

PORT AU PRINCE, Hayti, To-Day. A revolutionary movement against the Government of President Cull-laume broke out in this city at day-break. The rebellious troops of the Government attacked the presidential palace and continued firing upon it for two hours. A number of casualties occurred. President Cull-laume was in the palace resisting the attack of the rebels. The building itself is in flames.

FIXING THE FEE.

The newly-rich hostess was trying to engage a celebrated prima donna to sing at a reception. "What shall I be expected to pay you for a couple of songs?" said the hostess to the singer. "One hundred guineas," was the nonchalant reply. "What will be the selections that you will sing?" "I would like to sing the 'Liebster' from 'Tristan and Isolde,' and the 'Ah Perfidio' of Beethoven." "Oh, ridiculous!" said the lady. "My guests would not care that sort of thing at all. I shall have to ask you to sing a couple of ballads." "In that case," said the singer, "I shall charge you one hundred and fifty guineas. I enjoy singing good music. It is painful to sing bad." The lady, vexed, but agreed. Nevertheless, she felt that as she had been bested in a bargain she might as well insult the singer. "You will not be allowed to mingle with my guests," said she. "In that case," replied the singer, with perfect self-possession. "I shall charge you fifty guineas less."

Life Saving by Method.

A peculiar "business" venture has been in operation in Paris for some years and whose aim is to save the lives of the innocents. So far the scheme has paid a dividend of three per cent on the capital invested; but what is still more interesting is the fact that the company's efforts at saving the lives of poor children have been crowned with the most remarkable success. The company does not profess philanthropy. The initial step taken was to try and house the very poor in something like decent dwellings, and then attention was given to improving the milk supply, providing medical attention, etc. The first big tenement was erected by the company five years ago in Montmartre, Paris. No tenants were taken unless they were blessed with large families—the larger the better. Clean rooms were provided and the rents ranged from thirty-two to sixty dollars a year. Scarcely was the tenement erected before there streamed to it the poor from all quarters of the city. Those who could make the best showing in the number of offsprings were allowed the first choice to rooms. When the rooms were all taken attention was immediately turned to the problem of reducing the death rate among the little ones. To this end the rule was made absolute, that there must be the utmost cleanliness; officials saw that the rooms were properly ventilated; the medical inspectors not only gave attention to the drainage, and other matters pertaining to health, but prescribed to all of the families and noted their general health. Nurses took care of little patients and mothers were given concise instructions as to the care of the young. This is, indeed, life-saving by method.

SMILE IN COURT.

At a recent trial one of the witnesses was a green countryman, unused to the ways of the law, but quick, as it proved, to understand its principles. After a severe cross-examination, the counsel for the prosecution paused, and then, putting on a look of severity, exclaimed: "Mr. Kilkins, has not an effort been made to induce you to tell a different story?" "A different story from what I told, sir?" "That is what I mean." "Yes, sir; several persons have tried to get me to tell a different story from what I have told, but they couldn't." "Now, sir, upon your oath, I wish to know who those persons are." "Well, I guess you've tried 'bout as hard as any of them."

FANKER KILLED IN DARDANELLES.

It is officially announced that Captain C. de Fallot, of the Sixth North Lancashire, died of wounds at the Dardanelles, on July 15th. He graduated with honours at Toronto University, and was in New Brunswick at the outbreak of the war, when he immediately enlisted. Captain de Fallot was on the staff of the Canadian Bank of Commerce here. Enlisting with the Canadians he was afterwards offered a commission in Kitchener's Army, and just a few months ago was gazetted Captain. He was an old Marlborough boy.
