

Predestined to Succeed

Nearly one million people live in Montreal and suburbs. More travellers and tourists pass through, and stay there, in one month, than stay in any other Canadian city in six months. It is also the coming Convention City of Canada.

Yet there are less fireproof hotel bedrooms in Montreal than in one hotel—The Biltmore—New York. Less than one thousand, in fact, whereas Cleveland has 5,000, Buffalo 2,000, although neither Buffalo nor Cleveland are ocean ports or railroad terminals.

Then, remember, that the Hotel will be operated by the United Hotels Company of America. This company has made a financial success of every hotel it has managed. It turned the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, from a losing proposition into a profitable enterprise for investors.

Consider these facts, therefore, in the light of making an investment in the 8% Convertible Debentures of The Mount Royal Hotel Company, Limited, at par and interest, carrying a 30% Common Stock Bonus.

CHEER UP, IT ISN'T REALLY.

"My life is a failure," she said, and not least, she has a wonderful self discipline which makes her endure serenely and cheerfully circumstances which would make nine women out of ten irritable and resentful.

Unqualified Success.

Shouldn't you think that woman would have every reason to feel as if her life were an unqualified success? And yet in a moment of despondency she said to me "My life is a failure."

That is the way the blue glass of despondency can distort and color facts. Of course there is seldom such a wide discrepancy between the truth and the way it looks as there was in this particular case, but at least it suggests how easy it is to go to the extreme of self disgust in one mood, just as we go to the extreme of self approval in another.

As I intimated before, I don't suppose there is anyone worthwhile in the world who has not said at some time "My life is a failure."

Do you remember St. Paul's "For what I would that I do not; but what I hate that do I." If we do not realize how far we were from the ideal we aim at we should be fools and blind. But there is some comfort in knowing that others have felt the same way and yet have been accounted good, and even great, by mankind.

Legislative Council.

MONDAY, April 3rd.

The House opened at 4 p.m. Following the reading of the minutes the acting leader of the Government, Hon. M. G. Winter, tabled the report of the Select Committee on the Delinquent Children Bill.

The Bill "An Act to amend Chapter 75 of the Consolidated Statutes entitled 'Of Sufferers from Marine Disasters'" passed the third reading without amendment.

A Bill "An Act to regulate the Importation, Exportation, Manufacture, Sale and Use of Opium and other dangerous drugs," and a Bill "An Act to amend Chapter 22 of the Consolidated Statutes entitled 'Of the Customs,'" were given final reading. Slight amendments were made to these bills when in committee and the House of Assembly was notified accordingly.

The House went into Committee on a Bill "An Act for the Disposal of surplus funds collected for Hospital Cots." When the clerk read that an endow a cot owing to having an hospital in Jerusalem, Hon. P. Templeman took exception to the vote. He said he did not think that we were so well off here that we need send money as far away as Jerusalem, and he wanted to know the explanation.

Hon. Mr. Winter who had charge of the Bill, stated that such allocation of the surplus funds was desired by Sir P. T. McGrath, whose participation in many phases of war work brought him in contact with the work of the Ambulance Corps, explained that after the capture of Jerusalem by General Allenby, it was proposed that all the dominions should endow for all time a bed in the military hospital. It was made possible for this Colony of their contract and exemption from surplus to the credit of our cot fund.

Sir Patrick regretted that the Bill had gone through the Lower House without any comment on the great effort made by the Ambulance Corps during the war. Altogether $130,000 had been raised for cots for the wounded, and of this amount $118,000 had been expended, and it was a portion of the balance that was being set aside to establish and endow in perpetuity the cot at Jerusalem.

Hon. Dr. Campbell agreed with the view expressed by Hon. Mr. Templeman. He thought that every dollar in Newfoundland was needed here. There were a large number of our own soldiers who needed constant hospital treatment and the money could be used in that direction. Hon. Mr. Templeman again stated that he would not support the Bill. He thought it was uncalculated for, and would not be agreed to by those who subscribed to the fund, some of whom had to borrow the money. "It is absurd, scandalous and ridiculous to send money to Jerusalem for an hospital cot when people no farther away than Bonaville were dying because they could not get hospital treatment," said the speaker. "We are not fit to handle money at all," he concluded.

Sir P. T. McGrath regretted that hon. members were taking a wrong view of the matter and would lead one to believe that he had taken sole care of our soldiers in hospital. This he said we did not do, and could not do. It had cost Canada and Australia millions of dollars to care for its wounded in hospitals. It took all our efforts to finance the pay roll. The British Government fed and clothed our men and it is also contributing a substantial amount to the pensions of the Naval Reservists. In view of these facts I don't see how this vote should be challenged, said Sir Patrick. The Bill comes up for a third reading tomorrow.

A Bill "An Act to amend the Law Society Acts," passed the Committee stage but not without some debate. The Bill makes it possible for a law student to enter the profession without a University course. Several of the members objected on the ground that there was already too many lawyers.

Hon. Dr. Campbell thought that the Law Society should be affiliated with some University that specializes in the training of law students, and that students should qualify and pass specific examinations before being admitted to the bar.

The second reading of Bill "An Act to amend the Act Geo. V. Cap. 6, entitled 'An Act to confirm a Contract between the Government and the St. Lawrence Timber Pulp and Steamship Co., Ltd.'" was deferred on request of the Minister of Agriculture and Mines. This company is seeking an extension of time for the fulfilment of the terms of their contract an exemption from taxation for a further period.

The House adjourned at 5:30 o'clock.

THE BOOSTERS.

Along the well-known, western coast the golden climate is men's boast. "Come here," they cry, with outstretched hands, "we weathered other lands! Come here where a spring forever dwells, and every breeze is wearing bells, where winter's cold and summer's heat are goods you are not apt to meet, where azure skies above, us bend, and human comfort has no end!" And now along this shining shore, for many weeks, and many more, a wet and weary rain has poured, and snow has swept, and gales have roared; and here where a spring forever dwells, and every breeze is wearing bells, where winter's cold and summer's heat are goods you are not apt to meet, where azure skies above, us bend, and human comfort has no end!" And now along this shining shore, for many weeks, and many more, a wet and weary rain has poured, and snow has swept, and gales have roared; and

"FLU" NEARLY KILLED HER

"I was so weak that I had lost interest in everything."

Because Mrs. McGregor let herself become run down, read what happened. "Like a great many other people who got the 'flu' a few years ago," she writes, "it left me in a weakened, run down condition. Nothing seemed to bring back my old strength and energy. I was tired all the time. I had no appetite. I suffered agony with headaches. I was despondent and took no interest in anything. I was nervous. I was irritable and was always looking for slight. I was losing weight. I was in such a nervous, weakened, run down condition, that last spring I got pneumonia. My family didn't think I would live and the doctor told me afterwards that it was only because I had a strong heart that I managed to pull through. By the time I was out of danger, I was so weak and tired that I had lost interest in everything. I tried several preparations to build me up but none of them did me any good. One day a friend who had been very ill called in to see me, looking the picture of health. I asked her what she had been doing with herself to look so well and fast. She said that Carnol had done wonders for her and advised me to try it. As the evidence of what Carnol had done for my friend could not be denied, I decided to follow her advice. Today I think Carnol the most wonderful preparation in the world. It has made me a happy, healthy, contented woman."

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, "I haven't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money."

when a man steps down the street a cloudburst lifts him off his feet, and drags him through a yellow flood, and slams him in a bank of mud. "And now," mused the booster, "the booster will surely feel like fourteen cents; all chilled by frost and soaked by rain, they'll cease their glad and wild refrain. I'll chase me down to their retreat, and note their cold and clammy feet." And lo, the boosters cried "Odsfish! What more could any mortals wish? These showers that soak the lea and wold are worth their weight in minted gold. The frost and snow will prove, gee whizz, how versatile our climate is! Oh, hither come," the boosters cried, "where every weather course is tried! We spring some feature every hour, a squall, a snowstorm or a shower!" I sighed, while jogging back through town, "You cannot keep good boosters down!"

A Child's Guide to the Professions.

"THE POLITICIAN."
He is a very wily bird.
My child, he has to be.
He must do things that seem absurd.
Perhaps, to you and me.

His talents must be versatile.
If for success he strives:
He has to have a pleasant smile.
For other people's wives.

He must not mind if he's abused;
His skin must needs be thick;
He always has to seem amused.
Although he's rather sick.

He must know how to use his tongue.
And talk for many hours;
He never hears his praises sung—
Though always singing ours.

He must at all times be prepared
To share his hard-earned pay;
(If there's enough left to be shared)
He can't say voters, Nay!

He often has to turn his coat
A dozen times a week;
And if he wants to earn a vote
He must be very meek.

A politician's life is hard.
Avoid it like the plague;
My child, all thoughts of it discard.
Or, let them still be vague.

FAMOUS COMEDY STARS AT THE NICKEL.

What was considered one of the finest high-class comedies seen in a long while, was witnessed at the Nickel Theatre last night. The picture is entitled "Twin Beds" and it is starred by Mr. and Mrs. Carter De Haven, formerly well known vaudeville artists of Broadway fame. To the fine acting of these leaders, to careful attention to atmosphere on the part of Lloyd Ingraham, the director must be attributed the exceptionally good entertainment provided by "Twin Beds." The picture as a whole is developed along pleasing comedy lines and will add to the two stars' growing reputation. It makes a favorable appeal and affords excellent entertainment. To those who like good comedy, they will get it in abundance in this feature. The other attraction is of course the current interesting chapter of "King of the Circus" featuring Eddie Polo, the king of aerial stars. To-night the show will be repeated.
