John T. Forbes, 10 con., Bosanquet has bought from his father, Thos. Forbes, the homestead, consisting of 50 acres, which adjoins his own farm and will move there next spring. Thos. Forbes is spending the summer in California.

The prices of Ford cars have dropped so low that insurance agents are reported to be refusing to insure them. No doubt the next thing we'll hear is that some garage man has refused to stable one for the night with out payment being made in advance.

James McFarland, 54 years old, of Ailsa Craig, was painfully injured when he was struck by a Woodward avenue car near Detroit city limits. He stepped from behind an automobile parked at the curb, and was pushed over by the step of the street car. His right wrist was broken, and he may be injured internally.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Spearman, who are moving to Forest shortly were made the recipients of fine tokens of esteem on Friday evening last from the Jura Methodist congregation and other neighbors, when they were presented with a complimentary address, an electric lamp and some nice pieces of silver cutlery. Frank Clemens read the address and Mrs. Jas. Moore and Miss Lily Catt made the presentation. Del Malott and his brother Roy of Kingsville were leading a colt behind a buggy when the colt became frightened and jumped onto the buggy, smashing it down. This frightened the horse drawing the buggy and it ran away, dragging the two men along the road a considerable distance before they managed to free themselves from the rig. The hands of both were badly bruised and torn. The horses were not seriously hurt.

At a picnic held at Oakdale in the township of Dawn recently a farmer tied his horse to a tree with a stout rope about the neck. When the picnic was over the farmer went to get his horse and found the animal making frantic efforts to free itself and swollen in every part from the stings of yellowjackets. The horse had disturbed a nest of the insects near the tree to which it was tied. A vet was called and said the horse could not live.

Ronald Wilson, 11-year old son of F. W. Wilson, painter, who attends the Essex Public School, secured a cap that is used in setting off glycerine, and at recess on Wednesday afternoon, tried to find out what was in it by striking it with a stone, with the result that an explosion followed. The lad's left hand was injured, the thumb and middle finger being badly lacerated, while the other fingers were also cut and bruised. His right leg below the knee was also lacerated.

F. Strangway, a young 10th line, Enniskillen farmer was arrested early on Wednesday morning on a charge of seducing Edith Pearl Stark of Enniskillen, a young girl under eighteen years of age. The offense it is alleged was committed on or about February 1st. The young man was brought to Petrolia by Chief Ferguson and lodged in the lock-up. Later in the day he was admitted to bail of $3,000, himself in $1,000 and a cousin and brother-in-law in $1,000 each.

The marriage of Thomas Byrns, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Byrns 10th con., Plympton, to Miss Jessie Brown, a former teacher in S. S. No. 16, and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Brown, took place at the home of the bride's parents, con. 2, Moore, on Wednesday, Aug. 21st. Rev. Mr. Johnson, of Warwick, officiated, assisted by Rev. Mr. McEachern, of Bridgen. About 45 guests were present. The bride wore a gown of white embroidered crepe de chine, with tulle veil and orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses. The happy couple took a camping trip up the lake and returned here Tuesday evening. They are residing with their parents.

A demonstration of the latest development in farm machinery, as applied to the harvesting end of it, was given at Downview on Wednesday of last week, when there was shown at work, in a field of barley, a Massey-Harris machine that cuts and threshes the grain in one operation. The machine, drawn by a tractor and operated by a 27-horsepower motor cuts a 12-foot swath, forces the cut grain into a miniature threshing outfit, and pours the cleaned, threshed grain into one bag and the screenings into another.

A SMILE OR TWO

A negro who had an injured head entered a doctor's office.

"Hello, Sam! Got cut again, I see?" "Yes, sah! I done got carved up with a razor, Doc."

"Why don't you keep out of bad company?" said the physician, after he had dressed the wound.

"Deed I'd like to, Doc, but I ain't got 'nuff money to git a divorce."

The story is told that in General Butler's early days a Yankee obtained his legal opinion how to recover the value of a ham which a neighbor's dog came along and ate. He was advised to prosecute and recover for damages. "But the dog was yours," said the sharp Yankee. Butler opened his eyes a little, asked him what the ham was worth, was told five dollars, and then said: "Fortunately that is exactly the price of the legal advice I have just given you."

Willie's birthday presents included a compass. Not quite understanding what it was, he handed it to his teacher, who explained the cardinal points.

"Now, Willie," she began, "you have north on your left. What have you behind?"

Willie looked very thoughtful for a moment, then suddenly scowled.

"I knew you'd see it, teacher," he exclaimed angrily. "I told mother when she sewed it on that everybody would see it, but she wouldn't take no notice."

Just as two Irishmen were in the middle of a large field, one of them turned and saw an angry bull making for them.

With a yell of warning he bolted, and just managed to clear the hedge. His companion less nimble ran wildly round the hedge to find an opening.

Twice he went round without escaping. Then as he passed his anxious friend for the third time he shouted: "Tell my missus my insurance policy is in the bottom drawer. This is my last time round."

Among the regular visitants to the consulting room of a Philadelphia physician is an elderly extremely garrulous lady. On one occasion the doctor had patiently endured a lengthy recital of her troubles and had written out a new prescription. She got up to leave and was about to pass the threshold when suddenly she turned and said:

"But, doctor, you haven't looked to see whether my tongue is coated." "My dear lady," wearily replied the physician, "one doesn't look for grass on a racetrack."

A Negro employed at one of the movie studios in Los Angeles was drafted by a director to do a novel comedy scene with a lion.

"You get into this bed," ordered the director, "and we'll bring in the lion and put him in bed with you. It will be a scream."

"Put a lion in bed with me!" yelled the Negro. "No sah! Not a-tal! I quit right here and now."

"But," protested the director, this lion won't hurt you. This lion was brought up on milk."

"So was I brought up on milk," wailed the Negro, "but I eats meat now."

Mabel was telling Isabel of the shy young man that had been for some months "gone" on her, but whose suit had languished because he simply hadn't the courage to speak out. Finally, Mabel said, she decided that it was "up to her" to take decisive measures. Accordingly the next time he called she pointed to the carnation in his buttonhole and said: "I'll give you a kiss for that carnation." Whereupon the bashful suitor's color outdid the carnation in brilliancy, but the exchange was effected. Then the young man grabbed his hat and started to leave the room. "Where are you going?" demanded Mabel, surprised. "To the florists for more carnations." He called out as he shot through the doorway.
