

EXPOSITORY DISCOURSES ON THE EPISTLE TO THE EPHESIANS. By REV. D. B. CAMERON, Acton. Toronto: James Bain & Son. Price, $2.50. 1887.

This volume contains forty-six discourses originally preached by the author to his own congregation. Mr. CAMERON is well known throughout the Church as an able and faithful preacher, a man of substantial scholarship and withal of genuine modesty. Besides his work as pastor he has rendered valuable service to the Church in many ways. In the preparation of our Church Hymnal Mr. Cameron rendered valuable assistance, possessing as he did the qualifications of a master of the art of music and an enthusiast in its cultivation.

Those who have heard the author of this volume preach or who have enjoyed the privilege of his acquaintance, will need no assurance that these discourses contain sound doctrine, clearly and forcibly presented by one who thoroughly believes in the truths he proclaims, and who allows no mental idolence to prevent his working out patiently and laboriously the principles laid down by the sacred Writer whom he is expounding. The mode of construction employed in these sermons is what a recent writer in THE MONTHLY would call "doctrinal." All have very strong and robust frames. They belong to the vertebrate species. But there is far more in each discourse than the mere presentation of abstract truth, out of all relation to practice. Lessons for life and duty are carefully, and with not a little skill, derived from the doctrines delivered with no uncertain sound. The skeleton is seen to be one on which muscles and nerves grow and put forth their activities.

It would be absurd and unfair to give the readers of THE MONTHLY a specimen brick and ask them from this to judge this volume. It can be confidently recommended to those who wish to possess a far more than average specimen of the kind of preaching that is being done in the pulpits of our Church.

The arrangement of the discourses is clear and logical. The style is that of a careful, painstaking writer. No slipshod English, no slovenly constructions are allowed to stand. This volume furnishes young preachers and students an illustration of what can be attained to in the way of logical arrangement and neat expression of truth by honest hard work; and this attainment can be made in no other way. Terse, emphatic writing is the result of the greatest pains. But the game in this case is well worth the candle.

Why have we not more volumes of sermons such as Mr. Cameron has given us. It is certain that there are many preachers in our Canadian Church whose sermons, if printed, would be read with interest and profit by very many. The audience thus reached from the pulpit would be many times greater than those sitting before the preacher.
