Church Opening.

The new Presbyterian Church, Meaford. The new Presbyterian Church, Meaford, was opened for divine service on Sunday Jast. In the morning the Church was packed full in every part, many of the congregation having come from long distances in the country. The dedicatory prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Whimster; the sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. Caven, Principal of Knox College, Toronto, from John i. 29. In the afternoon Rev. Mr. Casson, of the Methodist Church, preached a very impressive sermon from Mr. Casson, of the Methodist Church, preached a very impressive sermon from Revelations vii. 9-17. In the evening the services was again conducted by Rev. Dr. Caven, his text being taken from John xvii. 5. The other Churches in the town had, in the spirit of true Christian brotherhoad and kindness, dispensed with their usual evening service that the new church might be filled to overflowing. The result was that the building was packed full from the pulpit to the door and scores had to turn away unable to find an scores had to turn away unable to find an entrance.

The tea-meeting on Monday evening was a grand ancess. The Church was so crowded as to be absolutely uncomfortable. The ladies, however, had exerted themselves nobly and were able to promptly supply all with a proinsion of good things. After tea, James Stewart, E-q, Mayor. was appointed chairman, and specenes were delivered by Rev. Mr. Tolmic, of Southampton: Rev. Mr. Somerville, of Southampton; Rev. Mr. Somerville, of Owen Sound; and Rev. Mr. Casson.

There was less of the intellectual entertainment tuan was expected; a considerable time having been taken up in the able time having been taken up in the financially more profitable occupation of receiving subscriptions towards the liquidation of the debt on the Church. The Mayor headed the list with $100, and it was quickly run up to over $1,100, other members of the congregation, and even outsiders subscribed with most creditable liberality. Among those unconnected with siders subscribed with most creditable liberality. Among those unconnected with the congregation we take the liberty of mentioning Mr. G. S. Brown's liberal offering of $50. The musical part of the entertainment was supplied by the Church choir, aided by several singers from the Wesleyan congregation, Miss C. Stewart presiding at the ergan. Mrs. Somerville, of Owen Sound, also sang two pieces very sweetly. The meeting was closed in the usual way, after thanks to the speakers, the ladies, the singers, etc. the ladies, the singers, etc.

In this connection we ought perhaps to say a few words regarding the building itself. Well, as our local readers know, the itself. Well, as our local readers know, the Church—pointed gothic in style—is placed on Nelson street facing Cook; its size is 40x65, with a tower and spire 120 feet in height. The plan was prepared by Mr. Law, and the contract let to the Law Building Company for $6,600, and they have done their work very creditably. The brick work and plastering were done by Mr. T. Aris; the outside painting by Bond & James; the inside and glazing by Mr. James. The Church is heated by one of Gurney & Co.'s furnaces, put in by of Gurney & Co.'s furnaces, put in by Butchart & Hunter, and so far it appears to do its work very efficiently. The seats are on the circular plan, and besides havare on the circular plan, and besides having a fine appearance are very comfortable, every member of the congregation directly facing the minister. The appearance of the Church inside is, on the whole, better than from the outside, owing to the low site. Still it is a credit to the congregation and the town, and a vast improvement on the old one, which, by the way is now in the possession of Mr. Cleland, whose generous offer to purchase it first encouraged the congregation to launch out in the undertaking, the completion of which was so dertaking, the completion of which was so happily celebrated on Monday night.

The amount realized from the soirce Monday night was about $145, from the collections on Sunday $94.—Monitor.
