

TWO SHIPS SUNK ANOTHER CRIPPLED

German Submarine's Guns
Accounted for Cadeby Off
Cornish Coast.

DANISH SHIP MINED

Ely Lost in Sea of Aland—Argyllshire Limped In—to Port.

LONDON, May 28.—The sinking of two more British steamers and the crippling of another by German submarines became known today. The loss of a Danish steamer which struck a mine was also reported.

From Liverpool came word that the Glasgow steamer Argyllshire had put into an unharmed port after being attacked.

The Argyllshire is a big steel twin screw steamer of 10,392 tons. She is owned by the Scottish Line, Limited. Her home port is Glasgow. Her length is 264 feet, beam 51 feet. She was built in 1911 in Glasgow and is equipped with wireless. Her captain is given in Lloyd's as W. Chisholm.

Sunk by Gun Fire.
Panama, Cornwall, reports that the British steamer Cadeby was sent to the bottom yesterday off the Cornish coast by a submarine's gun-fire. The crew of eighteen, four passengers and a stowaway, were landed at Newlyn, a fishing village, by a fishing boat.

The Cadeby was a 1,120-ton gross, 671-ton net, steel screw steamer owned by the Cadeby Steamship Company, Glasgow, under British registry from the port of Hull. She was built in 1899, and was 112 feet in length and 23.4 feet beam. Her master as listed by Lloyd's was M. H. Jones.

Danish Ship Mined.
Stockholm, Sweden, reports that the Danish steamer Ely, from Scotland with a cargo of coal, was mined and sunk in the Aland Sea yesterday.

The Aland Sea is around the Aland Islands at the junction of the Baltic with the Gulfs of Finland and Bothnia.

The Ely was a 1,747-ton steel screw steamer, owned by a Danish shipping firm of which Christian Andersen is manager. Her port of register was Esbjerg. She was built in 1888, was 160 feet long and 26.7 feet beam.

MEANING OF THE UNION JACK

Three Crosses Symbolic of Three Saints, Its Blue
Field, Union.

The Union Jack, like all emblems of heraldry, is full of meaning, briefly told yet strong in import. Its blue field represents the union, its three crosses, the crosses of St. Andrew, the cross of St. Andrew and the cross of St. Patrick. While the design is symbolic of three crosses, but two really show owing to the similarity of the cross of St. Andrew and St. Patrick. It is called the Jack after the French word Jacques, meaning the short jacket worn by medieval men of arms, upon which was emblazoned the cross of St. George.

St. George, the patron saint of England, was a soldier in the Diocletian army; St. Andrew, the patron saint of the Scots, was the brother of St. Peter, while St. Patrick is the patron saint of Ireland. St. Andrew is revered also in Russia, where the order of the good saint is the highest rank in knighthood possible for the czar to bestow, the order being restricted royally. Thus the splendid flag now being distributed to readers of The World is not only our national emblem, but also the heraldic legend of our union.

Warm praise is being received from all sides for the master-stroke accomplished by The World in securing a special allotment of handsome flag outfits for distribution to its readers on practically gift terms, and great numbers of flags have been carried away from this office already by enthusiastic citizens who declared that this was the very thing at exactly the right time.

The big flags are made from an especially strong, stout material carefully dyed in fast and brilliant colors. They are headed by Patent canvas with two brass rust-proof grommets for the halyard. The pole is well varnished and complete with eyelets, ball and window socket. The pole can be taken down in two pieces for packing and storing between times of use, and in a stout carton case. The distribution is being made from both the Toronto and Hamilton offices of The World.

While the value of the outfit is $4.00 this newspaper has, by combining with the leading dailies of other cities, been enabled to supply its readers with outfits on easy and convenient terms. Merely clip the coupon from another page of this paper and present it together with the small extension amount mentioned in another part of this paper for the complete flag outfit. Daily need for the flag to decorate your home should impel you to take advantage of this offer today.

RUSSIAN BATTLESHIP PANTELIMON SAFE

Russian Admiralty Make Categorical Denial of Turkish Claim.

PARIS, May 28.—The French ministry of marine today gave out an official announcement, which reads as follows:

"The Russian Admiralty denies categorically the Turkish official announcement, according to which the Russian battleship Pantelimon was sunk to the bottom in the Black Sea by a submarine. The day when this was supposed to have happened the Pantelimon was in a Russian port and no Russian ship was either sent to the bottom or wrecked."
