

for and nurtured through these years by His love, who enjoy the liberties of this land because of His work, who have been redeemed upon the cross by the incalculable price of His blood—what shall be said of those, who in the full enjoyment of His goodness have lifted their hand in rebellion to smite Him from His throne? My friends, the most pressing problem of this moment for you is the spirit of militarism that you hold against the authority of Christ. And I summon you to-night to lay down your arms of rebellion against Him. I summon you to yield to His will and to the Empire of that love whose bondage is the guarantee of your fullest freedom.

Psalm 57
