SPIRIT OF DANTE WALKS TORONTO

Women's Art Association Show Tableaux Drawn From Medieval Poets.

Characters and scenes from the medieval ages were delightfully shown yesterday afternoon and evening in a series of living pictures, under the auspices of the Women's Art Association, illustrating the Italian Renaissance with Dante, Giotto, Michelangelo and others of the world's masters as subjects.

The grounds of the club house with their terraced lawns and vine-covered arbors lent themselves as a beautifu setting, and the atmosphere was given by Lawrence J. Lugsdin, garbed in a classical robe of green and gold, who read sonnets from the works of the poets represented. The fairy music of an orchestra of eighteen pieces, under the baton of Mr. Von Kunits, and the figure of Farnham Barton, representing Dante, in a gorgeous gown of scarlet and velvet cap, helped to give reality to the pictures. Dante Mests Beatrice.

Miss Edith McLaren and Miss Madeline, as crimson-clad heralds, drew aside the curtains, revealing the first tableau, the meeting of Dante and Beatrice near the bridge, the colors and setting being according to The fine posing drew admiration from the audience and prepared it for surprises that followed. The second picture, which was produced by Mrs. Deeble, showed "Dante's Dream," by Rossetti, with Miss Phyllis Ross as an exquisite Beatrice. The "Salutation of Beatrice in Paradise" and the meeting of Dante and Beatrice with Miss Marjory Fraser as the tall, spiritual lady of the poet, and Ethel Taylor as Dante were amongst the most impressive of the pictures produced.
