

If Not, Read The World Tomorrow Next

WOMAN'S WORLD.

BEAUTIFUL THINGS.

Beautiful faces are those that wear, it matters little if dark or fair, whole-souled hearts written there.

Beautiful eyes are those that show, like crystal panes, where heart-fires glow.

Beautiful thoughts that burn below, like the etheric light of the soul.

Beautiful lips are those whose words leap from the heart like songs of birds, yet whose utterance prudence guards.

Beautiful hands are those that do good, that is earnest, brave and true, moment by moment the long day thru.

Beautiful feet are those that go down kindly errands to and fro, down humble ways if God wills it so.

Beautiful shoulders are those that bear with patient grace and daily prayer, the needful burdens of homely care.

Beautiful lives are those that bless, silent rivers of happiness, whose hidden fountains but few may guess.

TOILET ACCESSORIES.

It cannot be doubted that a woman as much more fastidious and much more careful of her appearance if she has the proper belongings on her dressing table.

To have to rush around looking for pins, to let the hair go half falling down because no hairpins can be found, to be unable to see the back of one's gown because a hand-glass is missing will result in a woman's business to look well.

It is her duty to be a rest for the eyes of men in general, men who are tired of looking at ugly things.

So while a woman need not make her toilet the work of her life, she can easily make it a success.

The quickest and best way to do this is to furnish the toilet table properly.

TO ACCORD WITH TRADITION.

MADRID, April 15.—The relics of our Lady in Santa Clara, the patroness of the Town of Tortosa, have been transferred to the palace chapel here, in accordance with the old tradition that they shall be under the same roof where the queen is delivered.

Elizabeth Dunsmuir, daughter of Sir Lieut. Colonel Dunsmuir of British Columbia, was married at St. Mark's Church, London, England, yesterday, to John Hope, Sir William's son.

A delightful audience witnessed a performance of "The Stoops to Conquer" last evening in the Margaret Eaton School.

Miss Gertrude Philp gave a charming and spirited impersonation of Kate Hardcastle, and George Fleming was the stammering, embarrassed young Marlow to the life.

Dr. E. K. Richardson, as Hardeastle, and George Fleming, as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Miss Birdie Luttrell as Mrs. Hardcastle, and George Fleming as Marlow, were the stars of the performance.

Unbounded Satisfaction

Is the UNIVERSAL EXPERIENCE of All Who Have Used

FOR SALE BY ALL FIRST-CLASS GROCERS. In Lead Packets Only.

Right Rev. A. E. Jocoyne, D.D., is staying with Canon and Mrs. Welch until Wednesday.

Mrs. Norreys Worthington, Sherbrooke, and Madame Bergeron are the guests of Mrs. H. H. Cook, Parkdale, this week.

Mrs. Walter Barwick and Miss Muriel Barwick arrived in Toronto yesterday, and are staying with Mrs. Ewart Osborne.

What to Do With Our Girls. Give them a course of six lessons in dress cutting and fitting. It will enable them to make their own dresses equal to any first-class dressmaker.

Mrs. Henry Nellich of 78 Chestnut Park-road, Rosedale, will receive today and again this season.

The multitude of friends of the Queen's Own Rifles and the Argonaut Club are evidently intending to give a great reception to the production of "The Pirates of Penzance," which will be on the boards at Massey Music Hall the latter half of the week.

At a meeting of the Ministerial Association yesterday a deputation from the Druggists' Association laid the matter fully before the ministers and asked them to educate their people on the subject not to do ordinary buying on Sunday.

At present the drug stores are open all day, and there is not much doing in the intention to keep open only on stated hours.

The association have signified their intention to co-operate.

8th Royals for Brockville. BROCKVILLE, April 15.—(Special.) The 8th Royals, Quebec, will visit Brockville on May 24 for their annual outing.

CHRONIC CONSTIPATION. Bileans a Certain Cure.

"I had chronic constipation for five years," says Mrs. M. O'Byrne of Agnes-street, Toronto. "It brought on headaches and dizzy spells and robbed me of health and vitality. I spent a lot of money in trying various useless remedies. At last I got the right one—Bileans—and they cured me."

One of the finest scientific papers in the world (Science Sitings) says of Bileans in this connection: "It generates constipation without causing griping, and does not cause after-constipation, as other purgatives do."

Bileans, debility, indigestion, biliousness, heartburn, headache and female ailments all disappear before a short course of Bileans, which is sold at 50 cents, or Bilean Co., Toronto, for price.

A PROMPT DENIAL. Toronto Electric and Electrical Development Are Not Going to Cut.

"The veriest nonsense" was Frederic Nicholls' comment on a report that, in view of the city establishing its own electric plant, the Toronto Electric Light Company would unite with the Electric Development Company, and the electric contract at $35 per horse power and the two companies would generate and distribute the 15,000 horse power already decided upon by the hydro-electric commission, as well as all future supply, at a maximum of $30 per horse power.

NOT PRACTICAL QUESTION. But Germany, Austria and Russia Will Permit Discussion.

ROME, April 15.—From the exchange of official communications between them, it is apparent that Germany, Austria and Russia are unanimous concerning the question of the limitation of armaments at The Hague conference, and that they will permit of a discussion of the question, but not participate in it, not considering the proposition a practical one.

THERE'LL BE AN INQUEST. Crown Attorney Will Probe for Causes of Chapeau Wreck.

Deputy Attorney-General Cartwright yesterday wired Crown Attorney McFadden at the Soo, to lose no time in holding an inquest into the C. P. R. wreck at Chapeau.

Dr. Struthers, the district coroner, had declared an inquest unnecessary, but referred the matter to Mr. McFadden.

Judges at the Horse Show. Orson Moulton, Batavia, N.Y., and George P. Hulme of New York, and Col. C. A. Pratt of Little Rock, Ark., a western expert have consented to judge the harness classes at the forthcoming horse show. Mr. Hulme has judged in Toronto a number of times, and always with the greatest of satisfaction.

What a mistake to use coarse Salt for cooking! Fine, pungent WINDSOR SALT adds such a daintiness to the food!

Buchanan's Wife

The Story of a Woman Who Dared to Meet Herself the Love and Happiness That Were Denied Her by Great Circumstances.

By DORIS MILES FORMAN and Published by Permission of Harper & Bros., New York and London.

"That's all I need say, I suppose. In April I shall write to you, and you will come. Till then it's waiting. Harry, the waiting will be long for me as well as for you. You must believe that."

"Go and see Allanor Trevor some-thing. The poor child is not very happy and she will be glad to have you to cheer her up. She says she is not going out at all this winter. I never tell you what a comfort she was to me at the Lodge and abroad."

"Good-bye, Harry! Don't call me names for all this—like Aunt Arabella—the blessing! Truly, it's the only thing to do."

Mrs. Crowley, after what she considered a discreet interval, returned to the drawing-room. The man was still bent over his letter.

"You've had time to read that twice over," she said, bitterly.

"Impossible," said Mr. Faring. "I've read it twice," said young Faring. "The old woman gave a short laugh of mingled tenderness and scorn."

"Of such insignificant value is a scrap of white paper scrawled with ink!" she said.

"Beatrice," said the man, without emotion, "refer to you as 'terragam'—a blessed old terragam!"

"Hat," said Mrs. Crowley, fiercely. "She doesn't, tho'?" she said.

"She doesn't," said Mr. Faring. "Of course," he admitted, handsomely, "she may be wrong."

"She is," said the old woman, as one who knows. "Les absents," quoted Mr. Faring, "ont toujours tort."

"It is that your own," she demanded.

"Well, not altogether," he smiled. "I don't think it matters. It's just as untrue as if I had made it. So Beatrice has fled again? Aunt Arabella will be a bridesmaid for us on the night of next April?"

"I will," said old Arabella, delightedly. "I have not been a bridesmaid for nearly forty years. I wore hoop-skirts on the last occasion. I will get them out to lend distinction to your wedding. No one who sees me in hoop-skirts on the night of next April will ever forget the occasion."

"No," said young Faring, with profound conviction. "No, it would be impossible. Never will there have been such a wedding. He rose and made his adieu."

"Good-bye, Aunt Arabella," he said. "I am going to make my own small preparations. I cannot wear hoop-skirts in the hoop-skirts, but I shall try to do my little best with what I have. The girls have been such a wedding. I promise you."

"Outside in the street he hailed a cab and had himself driven to his chambers. For four or five days he was an hour in which he might have found men whom he knew and liked and who would have been glad to have belonged to him. He felt a strong desire to be quite alone. There were things to be thought out and decided."

In his own flat and lighted a pipe, and sat down with a book in his hand. He had a letter on his knees, and he read it over and over again. It was the letter that he had written to Harry. Then he began to count the days going over, before each month, the little dog-eared lines about "Thirty days in September," and without the hoop-skirts, alas!—and little Allanor Trevor and the faithful elderly lawyer, who went there, with the kinswoman—Aunt Arabella, and the little grand-daughter, made up the wedding-party. For neither Beatrice nor Faring wished to have many people there.

(To be continued.)

that is in them, and they are completely lost to the world without.

BUCHANAN WIFE—GAL O'NEILL

It has been said that this is because they have no imagination, and doubtless that is true—at least, in part, for imagination is not equander their imaginations. They apply them to everything about—the "scheme of things" to idealize their own private lives.

where facts are most intimate and stubborn and realities most salient. All the imagination that the simple and direct soul of Faring's sort possess, however, he uses like pearls and jewels of price to draps and deck that relationship which most intimate and most precious to him, and that is the greatest romance of the world.

So young Faring looked upon his future dimly, thru that roseate yet upon which was wrought in golden characters, "April eight," and was troubled very terrible months ago, when that little party of men was preparing to attack that unknown country behind the Bolivian Andes, and go forth with them, but the thing was a months job, with great labor and by stretch out in years, and he was impossible. Moreover, he had been sorely racked, in his last adventure, with painful fever, and that by no means recovered from its effects. Tropical exploration was closed to him by this trouble for a long time to come.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes. It seemed to him that the coming months might not unprofitably be spent in putting these views into the form of a book, as he had more than once been urged to do.

He had, however, during the months in the upper Orinoco country, gathered a great mass of notes on certain Indian tribes of the mountains, and he possessed revolutionary views upon the origin of these tribes