WAS AGONCILLO A COWARD?

The Filipino Agent is Said to Have Shown Lack of Courage When the Labrador Struck.

London, March 5.—Passengers from the wrecked steamer Labrador who have reached town report that Agoncillo, the Filipino, was guilty of cowardly conduct during the shipwreck.

When the vessel struck on the rocks he rushed about the deck in a frantic manner, only partly clothed, and carrying part of his attire in his arms.

When among the passengers waiting to get into the boats he kept such firm hold on Captain Eskine's arm that he almost dragged the officer of the vessel into the sea.

DIES FROM BLOOD-POISONING.

The Countess of Sefton Meets With a Remarkable Accident Which Results Fatally.

London, March 5.—The Countess of Sefton has just met with a tragic death. On Thursday last week her foot caught in her dress, throwing her to the ground with such force that a bracelet was crushed into her wrist. So deeply did it penetrate that the effort to extract it caused blood-poisoning. She died Tuesday from swelling in the throat after tracheotomy was fruitlessly performed.

Ed Lenny will be given a chance against Sammy Kelly at the Olympic A.C., Buffalo.

THE GOVERNMENT AND ITS NEW POLICY.

Canada is a country of limitless possibilities. It is only the timidity of her own people that keeps it from jumping forward by leaps and bounds. The party that is at present responsible for the country's welfare is essentially timid. Its whole policy has been based on the assumption that the country's advancement depended upon our making some kind of a deal with the Liberals. The Liberals favored free trade because they believed Canada could not prosper unless Canadian consumers were able to buy in the cheapest markets of the world. The party has centered all its energies during the past 12 years in an endeavor to get some kind of a reciprocity deal with the United States. It has succeeded on the theory that our prosperity depended upon outsiders. The preferential trade arrangement with Great Britain is in line with this general policy of external dependency. The Conservative party, on the other hand, has worked on the idea that Canada's destiny lay in her own hands. While it, too, has been somewhat timid, especially during the last few years of the late Government's existence, it nevertheless followed a policy of self-reliance and laid the foundation for such success as the country has hitherto enjoyed. To the Conservative party belongs the credit of having built the Canadian Pacific Railway and of establishing protection as the settled policy of this country. Both these projects sent a chill down the backbone of the Liberal party when they were first introduced. Edward Blake emitted a groan of despair when alone the C.P.R. was decided on, and Sir Richard Cartwright and Sir Wilfrid Laurier have spent the bigger part of their careers as public men in cursing and bewailing the protective policy of Sir John Macdonald. These are the two big attempts that Canada has made to establish its commercial and industrial independence. And what has been the outcome? Did we make a mistake when we decided to construct a transcontinental railway? Did we make a mistake when we adopted a policy of protection to some industries? The facts speak for themselves. The C.P.R. has opened up what was hitherto a closed country. And as for the tariff, even Sir Richard Cartwright must surely admit that it has been a success after hearing, as he did on Friday last, from the representative of a Toronto company, that 2000 Canadian workmen were employed by the company in making the locomotives, not only for use in Canada, but all over the world.

If Canada has made any headway as a nation; if we have created an impression as an important part of the British Empire, it is all because in years gone by the Conservative party had a certain degree of confidence in the ability of this country to stand alone, to thrive on its own merits. The results of these two attempts on our part to stand alone have surely been decisive enough to incite us to further efforts in the same direction. If four millions of people, when the country was in swaddling clothes, had the nerve to do what was at that time the greatest railway system in the world, why should we hesitate now, when we have a population of nearly six millions, and twice as much wealth, to launch out on a policy of industrial independence, cutting our bridges behind us, and giving the world to understand that we have no reliance in our country and in our ability to build up a great and prosperous nation in spite of hostile legislation directed against us by rival countries? The timidity of the Liberal party has paralyzed this country during the past decade. Without a policy of its own it has nevertheless been a policy of its own in depressing the enthusiasm of the nation and in preventing the late Conservative Government from adopting an aggressive policy as it otherwise would have adopted. At last the Government at Ottawa gives us to understand, through its official organ, that a new national policy is in earnest and that it will soon be put in operation. But we have no great confidence that the Liberals will rise equal to the occasion. Never yet have they understood the sentiments of the people, much less led in the vanguard of public opinion. The party has been driven from its position to the present position without having had more to do in shaping their policy than their own political pretence. The Liberals pursued a 12 years' campaign in favor of commercial union and reciprocity with the United States. Public sentiment in the first place drove the party into a closer alliance with the Mother Country, and a little later drove Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

THE NEW MACDONALD CLUB

Held a Highly Successful Opening Meeting on Saturday Night in the Temple.

200 MEMBERSHIP PROPOSITIONS

Meeting Well Attended—Enthusiastic Speakers Talk Upon Politics and Organization.

The newly formed club known as the Macdonald Young Men's Liberal-Conservative Association is meeting with great success. At the opening meeting held in the Temple Building Saturday evening no fewer than 200 propositions for membership were received, and the officers and all connected with the organization are doing their utmost for its advancement.

Some of Those Present. Among those present Saturday night were: O. A. Howland, ex-M. L. A.; W. D. McPherson, Edmund Bristol, S. W. McPherson, H. C. Hocken, Dr. R. J. Wilson, W. B. New, some, E. F. H. Cross, T. L. Church, J. T. C. Thompson, G. D. Newsome and about fifty others.

President's Inaugural. The chair was occupied by the president, John A. M. Ferguson, who began his inaugural address by reviewing the life of Sir John Macdonald from his entry into the political arena up to the time of his death. He also eulogized Sir Charles Tupper for the great services he has rendered Canada, and then explained the objects of the association, and said that it would in no way conflict with any of the other clubs in the city.

Club's Usefulness. O. A. Howland, the next speaker, outlined the work the club might undertake and promised to all in his power to further its objects. He thought that the association, with the splendid debating talent it possessed, would shortly prove to be one of the strongest political factors in Toronto and should be an educator of the public on political questions. At election times the club would be able to furnish speakers enough to thoroughly cover the whole province, and the members not to be content with a mere cursory idea of public affairs, but to become acquainted with all details.

Get After the Students. W. D. McPherson said that he had often thought that it was not antagonistic to any other organization. In Toronto there was certainly room for such an organization, and he saw no reason why the members should not continue to assist in the work of the ward association, as after all it was that did such good work at election time.

Edmund Bristol, as President of the Toronto Conservative Association, said he regretted that it was not antagonistic to any other organization. In Toronto there was certainly room for such an organization, and he saw no reason why the members should not continue to assist in the work of the ward association, as after all it was that did such good work at election time.

S. W. McPherson dwelt on the work the club should undertake. Ald. Hubbard strongly attacked the Hardy Government, and referred to the revenue bill, which clearly proved that the people of this province were on the verge of direct taxation, and the poor people were going to bear the burden of the taxes imposed upon the banks, loan, insurance and other companies. He said that he was everlastingly at the disposal of the members, and that he would always be willing to sell Canada.

W. B. Newsome also spoke, and pointed out the splendid work that Sir Charles Tupper had done for Canada.

Next Saturday night the club will meet and adopt the constitution.

Dynamite Burton Out of Jail. Mr. R. E. Fleming, the well-known and popular Toronto representative of Messrs. Lewis & Sons, Cork Manufacturers, Montreal, writes: "I have been a convinced and disbeliever of the cure for catarrh of the bladder for many years, which only offered temporary relief. I tried Japanese Catarrh Cure about one year ago, and since completing this treatment have not felt the least symptoms of my former trouble. A few months ago I recommended it to a friend similarly affected, and he is now completely cured also. I can highly recommend it to any person troubled with this most annoying disease."

Japanese Catarrh Cure relieves cold in the head in one minute, and is absolutely guaranteed to cure any case of catarrh in the nose or throat, or money will be refunded. Sold by all druggists. Price 50 cents. A free sample will be sent to any person troubled with catarrh. Enclose 5-cent stamp. Address The Griffiths & Macpherson Co., 121 Church-street, Toronto.
