The premier had said to a farmers' deputation that the time for bonusing railways had passed. This was a most popular declaration, and he construed it to mean that the government had changed its policy in regard to bonusing railways.

Not Abgadoned Policy. The premier said the return would be brought down at the earliest moment. It would not indicate any ex-isting liabilities except those indicated in the public accounts and the financial statement. Beyond that, however, there were a number of railway subsidies which had not been earned and would never be earned. The policy of aiding railways, he said, had been the practice since 1871. It was the practice of the other provinces and of the Domi inion government. About 1885 the province ceased granting aid to railways in Gured Mrs. Edmond Brown, Inwood, Ont., the older parts of the province, but there had been no change of policy in regard to the development of the new
