Marshall, Spader & Co. say at the close:

Wheat—There was a firmness in the market to-day that was the natural result of a tendency in the farmers' deliveries towards confirming the expectations of much smaller receipts, which have been the chief buying motive during the recent accumulation of some considerable lines of long wheat.

It only needs small primary receipts we think, to turn wheat up, and while occasional days may show liberal run, the prevailing tendency will be towards a much lighter movement and a hardening in values.

Wheat—Ruled higher during most of the session, closing with half a cent gain.
Corn—There was only a moderate trade, mainly local, with tone rather firm and shorts doing some covering.

Dear Sir—The Belt I purchased from you has done me all kinds of good, although I had very little faith in it when I bought it, but in order to give it a fair trial I threw away all medicine and used nothing but the Belt, and it certainly did its work. I can now do as much work as ever without being tired out, and have only worn it a very short time. Yours very truly, CHAS. W. TOMLINSON.
