It is the statement that the company's Sunday income will be $3000. This truth is the fact that the people want the service, and the proof that they want it is that they will use it to the extent of $3000 each Sunday. An income of $3000 means that more than 75,000 people will use the cars on Sunday.

We don't pretend that the Railway Company wishes to run the cars on Sunday from disinterested motives. Its shareholders, no doubt, want to make money out of the service, but they wish to do it in an honorable way. They admit they are pecuniarily interested in the matter. But that is no reason why the public should deny themselves the public should deny themselves the Highlanders on the Jublice contingent that the company's Sunday income will be $3000. This truth its the fact that the people want the service, hat they send and appetizing.

THE QUESTION OF MOTIVES,

One great objection to a Sunday car service seems to be that the Toronto Railway Company will make money out of it. It is said the receipts on Sundays will be $3000, a large part of which will be divided as dividends among the shareholders of the company. The people must not have Sunday cars because the company's shareholders are avaricious. This argument is about on a par with all the other arguments of the par with all the other arguments of the oner. restrictionists. On the same principle not burn gas because the shareholders Items of Passing Interest Gashered in and of the Consumers' Gas Company draw big dividends. Rev. Dr. Burns, President of the Hamilton Ladies' College, Agrees With the Sentiments Expressed by Bishop Dumoulin,

HAMILTON, May 6. - (Special to THE WORLD.)-Hamilton people are as much interested in Toronto's struggle for Sunday cars as the citizens of the Queen City. A World reporter this afternoon interviewed Rev. Dr. Burns, President of the Hamilton Ladies' Wesleyan College, on the subject. The President, who is an M.A., LL.D. and D.D., remarked: "I read Bishop Dumoulin's statement in Wednesday's World and I agree with it. I have seen no abuse come out of our Sunday cars. No place in the world enjoys a quieter Sunday than Hamilton, not even Toronto, and I can speak with experience, as I lived there for some years."

Asked what he thought of the argument that Sunday cars would bring longer hours of labor, the President replied: "I think they will diminish labor rather than increase it. If a clergyman, for instance, had to go on an errand of mercy, he would simply jump on a car, instead of putting all the machinery in motion required to get a livery carriage ready. The only logical opposition I can see to Sunday cars," remarked the doctor, decidedly, "is from the livery men."

"Do you think Sunday cars would introduce a Continental Sabbath?" asked the reporter.

"The phrase, 'Continental Sunday,' is a very vague expression," replied the reverend President, with impatience. "At some places on the Continent it is observed too loosely, and at others you couldn't look over your shoulder without being fined for it. No, as long as the rights of the workingman are preserved and he is not forced to work seven days in the week, I can see no wrong in a Sunday service, It certainly does not hurt the churches in the matter of congregations, and as to noise-well, we have the Hamilton and Dundas line on one side of us and the city street railway on the other, but we are not troubled by them any more than if an occasional carriage rolled by the building."
