McDonald Wins From Magirl

Knocks Nebraska Out In The Twelfth Round—Details of Bout

Halifax Recorder—The present promoters of the boxing tournaments at the Arena deserve a lot of credit for the bouts they staged last evening. They first presented an eight-round bout between Patsy Hagan and P. C. Parker, which was the most amusing boxing burlesque ever staged in Halifax (even eclipsing their previous appearance), with not only the principals, but some of the seconds and the referee adding in the enjoyment, but the feature event, in which Roddie McDonald knocked out Art Magirl, of Nebraska, was one of the best bouts ever seen here, being devoid of clinching, both men being toe to toe almost throughout. There were some 700 spectators, and they laughed heartily over the many amusing incidents of the preliminary and immensely appreciated the main bout.

A CHANCE TO MAKE A MAN OF HIMSELF

A Second Joan of Arc
In a remote corner of Anjou lives a young peasant girl, Claire Ferchaud, whose name as a seer of visions has spread throughout France and caused her to be hailed in some quarters as a second Joan of Arc. She is a simple peasant girl, twenty-one years of age, destitute of vanity, respected by the neighbors, and of exemplary piety. She herself is very modest, disliking all the publicity now surrounding her, and saying that the current idea that it is she who will save France is exaggerated. All she asks is that people should pray for her rather than play the part of curious spectators. Still, the fact remains that there are in the little chapel near her parents' farm the photographs of more than 80,000 French "pious" which they have left or sent asking for her prayers for their safety, and that many thousands pilgrims have traveled many leagues to kneel at the same altar where Claire Ferchaud knelt and heard spiritual voices.

Sensational Results of Police Raids in Montreal—Two Houses Were Visited

(Montreal Gazette)

In two of the biggest gambling raids ever made by the police in this city, seventy-three men were arrested early yesterday morning by Lieut. Savard, whose small squad was reinforced by plainclothes men from three or four stations in the centre of the city. The first raid was made at 2:30 o'clock on 41 West St. Catherine street, where forty-three men were caught, and the second raid an hour later, on 315a St. Lawrence street, where thirty men were trapped. The prisoners were carted to police headquarters in patrol wagons from the East Craig street, City Hall avenue and Chenneville street stations. They were all locked up, but the majority were set at liberty during the morning, the alleged proprietors on bonds of $100 each and those charged with having been found in the houses by putting up $10 in cash. They were admitted to bail on orders from the clerk of the police court, who fixed the amount of the bonds to be furnished by each.

In the raid at 41 West St. Catherine street, of which Mack Martineau is charged with being the proprietor, the police secured crap tables, a roulette wheel, poker tables, cards, chips and a small amount of money that was overlooked by the gamblers in a drawer of one of the tables. The gambling outfit is the most complete that the police have seized in years, and Lieut. Savard said that they would have secured more money had they not had considerable difficulty in smashing down the door to get into the place. Four weeks ago, when the same place was raided and Doc Gillfoy, with thirty men were caught there, the door did not offer much resistance. It had been strengthened since then, with the result that the gamblers had time to gather up their stakes before the police could batter it down yesterday morning. The majority of those caught gave ridiculous names. There was one man, who said
