

MODERN TEACHING LARGELY TO BLAME

Tends to Continue War Spirit, Mlle. Clement Tells Canadian Club—Must Change System.

(Montreal Gazette.)
So interesting proved the address given by the Canadian Club at their luncheon yesterday at the Windsor Hotel by Mlle. Clement, of Paris, on "How Can Education Enforce Peace and Support the League of Nations?" that at the conclusion of her address Mlle. Clement was heartily cheered by the audience. Her main thesis was that in the past education had been all wrong with an undue emphasis on war and national hatreds, and that to prevent the recurrence of such a world catastrophe as the nations are now trying to recover from, it is necessary to begin with the children, and inculcate into the minds of the young the gospel of peace and forbearance. She at times made references to the manner in which early training had been taken advantage of by the Germans, since for many generations school children's minds had been poisoned by teachings of hate against France and other nations, and Mlle. Clement quoted some of the songs and other stuff taught the German children, full of the most bloodthirsty ideas toward the French.

It was Ladies' Day at the Canadian Club, a number of the executive of the Women's Canadian Club having seats at the head table. G. C. McDonald presided, and expressed the pleasure the Canadian Club had at hearing one of the daughters of France, which had suffered so greatly during the war, and borne itself so nobly. He also announced that there would be six more regular meetings during the present season, and that the speaker next Monday would be chairman E. R. Decary, of the Administrative Commission, who would speak on "Municipal Affairs."

Shifting Blame for War.
Mlle. Clement in opening said that since the peace all the nations were trying to shift the responsibility for the war onto someone else. Most people have an idea who precipitated the conflict, but she argued that many others were partly guilty, if not by sins of commission, then by sins of omission. One of the chief sins of omission was the failure of teaching children the horrors of war and bringing them up with a settled idea toward permanent peace. On the contrary, children were taught history which dealt chiefly with war heroes, campaigns and the glories of victorious wars, while even in their toys the little ones were given drums and trumpets, and she wondered that now they had not been supplied with poison gas toys. Therefore, she considered that modern education was to a large extent responsible for the continuation of the war spirit. Even the games played by the young were along the same line, with two sides opposing each other in sporting combat—fortunately in most countries with the ideals of chivalrous fair play. Mlle. Clement, while not deprecating fair sport, urged that more attention tion be given choral singing and other more intellectual and artistic forms of amusement. War had taught only devastation, she said, and anyone who visited devastated France would realize the remarkable perfection to which art had been carried.

All this should start with the text books in the schools, because the first lessons were the most enduring, and the present lessons all tend toward war. She considered that the future text books should be arranged so as to inculcate in the minds of the young ideals of peace and good will, and repulsion to the horrors of war, especially modern war. As an instance of the failure of modern text books, she instanced many French wounded soldiers, who were very anxious to visit the compound where captured Germans were kept, saying they had been at the front, fought and been wounded, but had never yet seen a German.

No Racism in France.
Mlle. Clement quoted from French text books to show the absence of racism.

"Then I used Cuticura, and when I had used four cakes of Soap and four boxes of Ointment she was cured. (Signed) Mrs. George Hiesler, R. F. D. 2, Box 44, Coopers Mills, Me., May 6, 1919."

Doctors Stand Amazed at Power of Bon-Opto to Make Weak Eyes Strong—According to Dr. Lewis

Guaranteed to Strengthen Eyesight 50%
In One Week's Time in Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home
Philadelphia, Pa. Victims of eye strain and other eye weaknesses, and those who wear glasses, will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope and help for them. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored by this remarkable prescription and many who once wore glasses say they have thrown them away. One man says, after using it: "I was almost blind. Could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without my glasses and my eyes do not hurt any more. At night they would pain dreadfully. Now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for 10 days everything seemed clear. I can read even fine print without glasses." Another who used it says: "I was bothered with eye strain caused by overworked, tired eyes which induced severe headaches. I have worn glasses for several years both for distance and work, and without them I could not read my own name on an envelope or the type writing on the machine before me. I can do both now and have discarded my long distance glasses altogether. I can count the fluttering leaves on the trees across the street now, which for several years have looked like a dim green blur to me. I cannot express my joy at what it has done for me."

It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by the use of this prescription. Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and let it dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation and redness will quickly disappear. If your eyes bother you even a little it is your duty to take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have saved their sight if they had cared for their eyes in time.

Note: Another prominent Physician to whom the Bon-Opto prescription is truly a wonderful remedy. His constituent hereunder is well known to eminent eye specialists and widely known in my own practice on patients whose eyes were strained through overwork or study. I can highly recommend it in case of weak, watery, itching, smarting, itching, burning eyes, red lids, blurred vision or for eyes injured from exposure to smoke, sun, dust or wind. It is one of the very few preparations I know of being printed on the package. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 percent in one week's time in many instances or return the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is sold in this city by Watson's Drug Store and other druggists.

cour they displayed, even against the Germans, and then quoted official songs taught the German children, teaching them to desire to kill, drown or get rid in any way of the "degenerate French." If the Germans should refuse to adopt a more sensible method of teaching their children, said Mlle. Clement, it was no reason why other nations should not, since the English had shown what could be accomplished by a nation brought up with ideas of peace when threatened by the war lords of other nations.

To secure such international friendships Mlle. Clement suggested the interchange of children during the summer vacations, interchange of correspondence and especially in flag ceremonies, the use of the flag of the League of Nations as a corollary to national flags. Her whole idea was that future peace could be won and ensured if only the children were trained with ideals of humanity and peace, instead of being taught to glorify war and conquest.

Easy to Make This Pine Cough Remedy

Thousands of families aware by its prompt results. Inexpensive, and saves about $2.

You know that pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several peculiar elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest. Pine is famous for this purpose.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup. To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pines (50 cents worth) in a 16-oz. bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar—more than you can buy ready-made for $2.50.

It is pure, good and very pleasant—children take it eagerly. You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose and rattling. Either way, a few drops of Pines and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pines is a pure, concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs. Ask your druggist for 25¢ ounces of Pines, with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guarantee to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pines Co., Toronto, Ont.

SKIMMED MILK AIRPLANE GLUE

Resists Weather Conditions to Which Machines Are Subjected.

Acroplane construction will be much helped by the new water-resisting glue made from skimmed milk. The result of important chemical researches by S. Buttermann, of the Forest Products Laboratories, which the United States Department of Agriculture maintains at Madison, Wis., undertaken at the instance of the army and navy, are now made public. They will prove helpful in the general progress of the art in aircraft construction, in the opinion of experts.

Although the Forest Products Laboratory has nothing to do with dairies, it did much valuable work in getting spruce for acroplanes during the war, and it was therefore asked to work out a good formula for putting the parts of the flying machine together. Mr. Buttermann describes the technical details for his fellow members of the American Chemical Society, in a publication of that organization, the Journal of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry.

The severe weather conditions to which acroplanes are subjected and the impracticability of covering all the glued joints with water glass or other waterproof coatings, caused the most exacting requirements to be made for water-resisting glues. The new glues are commercially available for other purposes as well, and with the aid of the formula now placed at the disposal of manufacturers may be employed by glue factories which serve all industries.

Caseln, the principal protein of milk and the basis of cheese, is combined in its natural state with lime, from which it is freed by precipitation. It has differed somewhat in quality, and the efforts of the government are being aimed at a standardization which will be very helpful in carrying out formula for the glue-making. The skimmed milk does as well, for the making of caseln, if not better than whole milk. Hence the product can be obtained cheaply, and the caseln which does not go into cheesemaking can be used for glue.

WHAT ORGANIZED LABOR THINKS OF PROHIBITION

Labor-leaders know the views of the workers as well as politicians know the wishes of their constituents, possibly better, for unionized labor makes its wants known in no uncertain manner. Consequently, when The Literary Digest wished to learn for its readers the attitude of the workman regarding prohibition, inasmuch as we could not ask the individual union worker because there are about four million of him, we asked their duly elected officials.

In this week's number of THE LITERARY DIGEST—March 13th—a summary of the very interesting replies is published. Approximately thirty per cent. of the 526 replies of labor-leaders inform us that a poll was taken on the question at the regular meeting. Replies came from every State in the Union, and they reflect a considerable sweep of opinion.

"Why don't you 'sick' the prohibitionists on the profiteers?" "No man has a right to dictate to another what he shall eat or drink, except the doctor." "There have been more deaths and murders in the period since prohibition went into effect than there were in the same period last year." are a few of the many replies against prohibition. "Money which formerly bought whiskey is now buying happiness for the workingman's family." "Men have more of the good things in life since the dry law went into effect." "Since prohibition is in force, the workers are capable of clearer thinking and do more of it," are typical expressions from the many leaders who favor prohibition.

If you would learn from first hand sources the real opinion of the workman upon the subject of prohibition, you will do well to read the LITERARY DIGEST this week.
