McLennan, and other members of the board of governors, the senate and faculty trooped upon the platform and there was a large attendance of students.

Lord Milner was presented by President Falconer and the degree conferred by Chancellor Sir William Meredith.

Sir Charles Moss next arose and presented the name of Right Honorable Earl Roberts of Kandahar, whose great public service and private worth made his name a household word throughout the length and breadth of the Empire, of which Canada formed a part.

VISCOUNT MILNER

Lord Milner was called upon to address the students which he did at some length, first expressing very sincere and heartfelt thanks for the honor of the great university had been pleased to bestow upon him.

"A great future is assured to Canada," he said, "but the next fifty years will be the most decisive in its history. They are likely to be formative years and determine your developments for centuries. The stream will flow in the direction and the channel you give it."

"This is a thing to be proud of and to rejoice at, but it is a growing responsibility for all Canadian men and women who are young today. The heaviest burden rests on them who have ten talents. Members of this and other universities who are brought in closest contact and have the opportunity to profit by the best learning of the age and country must be leaders of its intellectual and material development. They must be careful to lay deep and strong foundations of genuine learning and civic virtue on which the vast superstructure of the national prosperity could safely rest."

A banner presented by the Princess of Wales was then brought forward, veiled by the red ensign, and unveiled during the reading of Earl Grey's letter by Sir Mortimer Clark.
