POLITICAL FIRES BURN
FIERCELY IN ENGLAND

Little Was Heard of Referendum—A Suggested Remon-stration to the King Against House of Lords.

London, Oct. 18.—British politics are going to be interesting even to an outsider, for the next few weeks.
It is not possible to announce with any confidence what form the developments will take, but it is sure they will be unprecedented. The wise expectant of a referendum on the budget probably will not be adopted, although no sound reason against it has been forthcoming.

The latest report is that the Government intends to revive a procedure which has been in desuetude for more than two centuries, and to move in the House of Commons "a grand remonstration to the King against the House of Lords" if the latter body rejects the budget.

Two courses will be open to the King. He may either dissolve Parliament or merely acknowledge the receipt of the remonstration. Dissolution would follow in any event.

Much depends, no doubt on the result of the forthcoming election. This typical London constituency is now Liberal, but is more likely to go Conservative, and such a result would presage a Government defeat in a general election. It requires only one or two more reckless socialist speeches such as Chancellor Lloyd-George made at Newcastle a week ago to make such an event a certainty.

SACKVILLE.

meeting of the Sackville Board of Trade, Mr. P. B. Black was appointed Sackville representative in the council of the Maritime Board of Trade.

Rev. Howard Sprague resumed his lectures on Tuesday at the University after his trip to Toronto.

Miss Hester Wood, daughter of Senator Wood, is on her way to England to resume her studies in sculpture in London.

Senator and Mrs. Wood, left last Monday for Ohio to visit relatives.

The regular weekly meeting of the Eucharistic Society was held on Saturday.

Mr. Fairweather of St. John visited Sackville last week.

Rev. Dr. Campbell, St. John, preached at the Methodist Church here on Sunday.

The Amateur Athletic Association of Mt. Allison, held a very successful promenade concert in the residence of this evening and a fine programme of five numbers was rendered. Among the performers were Miss Mabel Windler, Miss Marion Harrett, Miss Lennie Crosby, Miss Bertha Bigney, and Mr. Peter Meek.

The first regular meeting of the Eucharistic Society of Mt. Allison has been held and the officers for the ensuing year have been elected. The new president is Mr. John S. Ashbury, 10 Shubenacadie, N. S., and the vice-president, R. B. Thomas, 11 of Halifax. The other officers are:—recording secretary, W. P. Ferguson, 11, Moncton; corresponding secretary, W.
F. Fraser, 12, St. Stephen; treasurer, W. T. Ruggles, 12, Bear River, N. S.; librarian, W. Kilcup, 13, Grand Pre; teller, P. Kline, 13, Bridgetown, N. S.

Twenty-five new men were admitted to full membership of the society.
Two St. John girls, Miss Madeline DeBarry, 10 and Miss Nellie Williams, 13, have been elected officers of the Alpha Beta Society of Mt. Allison.

Victoria, Oct. 18.—D. D. Mann, of

BRITISH PRESS
HAS AXE OUT
FOR ALFONSO

Policy of Spanish Administration in Demanding Ferrer's Death is Generally Deplored Throughout England.

WHAT THE LEADING
PAPERS ARE SAYING

London, Oct. 17.—The unanimity of the British press in condemning the execution of Professor Ferrer at Barcelona, all the more remarkable considering how fiercely the Uniolists, Radicals and Socialists are preparing for the great fight at the polls.
Politically, ill feeling never ran higher than at the present day, but in this matter they are united. I will just quote from a few editorials in the leading London and provincial papers of all shades of politics. The general fear is that the execution has given anarchism a lift up, there being no defence for the act.

Natural Consequence.
Thus, the Conservative Morning Post says:—"Out breaks of violence are the natural consequence of the execution. They cannot be viewed without misgiving and indicate a frame of mind that threatens the order of European society."

The Unionist Daily Express says:—
"An important factor is that Ferrer has become a socialist martyr. The socialist is Europe's worst enemy. His sympathies and enmity are international. The sins of one Government are visited upon another."

The Conservative Yorkshire Post says:—"The execution was unquestion-ably a blunder, and the Spanish Government may find it a blunder of the worst kind. The execution and the resultant demonstrations will encourage the worst political elements in all civilized countries, and this the more so because the elements which make for law and order cannot offer any defence of what has been done."

The equally Conservative Sheffield Telegraph says:—

A Political Blunder.
"It was a political blunder; if not a crime, an act of clumsiness at this particular juncture of affairs would have been worse more to the Spanish throne than the fate of a dozen martyrs. It is a blunder which the King Alfonso has thrown away one of the glorious opportunities of his reign."

The Radical Daily News says:—"No one doubts Ferrer is a martyr of the church. It has been said that the worst thing about Spain is her Government, but behind the Government stands a worse thing still; that is not religion, but the power of the church, laying its dead hand upon politics, finance and the intelligence of the people."

The Socialist Morning Leader says:— "Spain has affronted the conscience of civilized and progressive Europe at a time when it can no longer be done with impunity. It has made Victim already a martyr in France, where he was comparatively little known. What must it have made him among his own people in Spain?"

The Manchester Guardian, one of the leading radical organs of the provinces says:—"It was a judicial murder of a particularly atrocious kind.
No crime ever goes unpunished, and Spain will suffer for this."

CENSOR BANS
LLOYD GEORGE

Minister's Anti-Duke Speech Scores Russia—Held To Be Subversive of Existing Institutions.

CZAR SIDESTEPPING
OPENING OF DUMA

St. Petersburg, Oct. 18.—The censor has taken an unusual step in suppressing the telegraphic reports of the same speech made at Newcastle, England, by Mr. Lloyd-George, the British Chancellor of the Exchequer, on the ground that its sentiments were subversive of existing institutions. Speeches made in the British budget campaign were previously reported telegraphically at fair length in view of the interest in the movement to introduce British capital into Russia. But Lloyd-George's declaration that it was time the laboring masses shook off the tyranny of dukes and ground landlords sounded too much like the Russian revolutionary propaganda of three years ago to suit the censor.

Czar Absent.
The Czar will be absent from Russia at the opening session of the third Duma. This is his own arrangement.
It supports other manifestations of imperial weariness toward the ultra-conservatives, who have been looking to his personal continuance of the empire against the Duma. Their candidates in the recent miniature national elections, comprising St. Petersburg, Moscow and Odessa, polled less than 10 per cent. of the total vote although they officially described themselves as Monarchists. This marks the final failure of the reactionary obstructionists and their friends at court prefer now to divert the Czar's attention from the domestic situation to the question of his international prestige.

One of the first resolutions the Duma will be asked to take is the extension of Russia's military administration to Finland, bringing its nearest province, Viborg, under direct control of St. Petersburg. The leading Finnish writers in the capital are seeking to provoke the Finns to armed resistance.

The Novoe Vremya's political diarist, Mentchikoff, draws a parallel between the Russian military and the that of the Transvaal before the Boer war. He maintains that the Finns have an enormous stock of arms and that the adult male population is organized into companies which can maintain guerrilla struggle for years.

Formidable spiders spread their webs from tree to tree. Flowers, like morning glories, climb over trees twenty-five feet high, while in the deep valleys, all green and shaded by banana trees, are ferns eight to ten feet high. The flowering currant has blossoms of three different colors, and makes the road side beautiful. The ponciana, a tree 30 feet high, throws out great clusters of brilliant red flames. I saw a hedge of silver leaf geraniums six to eight feet high, like young trees. Everywhere is the foliage plant, with all variations of crimson, red and dark purples.

These values make one think of Tempe, and lovers of Stevens can easily comprehend why he sought his rest in the warm luxury of Samoan color and life. The rich terra cotta earth is congenial to the bananas which in all stages of growth are 1 foot to 20 feet high. It rains here about 170 days in a year, and even the Fijians carry umbrellas.

This island of Vite Levu, capital Suva, has an area of 4,200 square miles.
The islands, 200 in all, have about 130,000 inhabitants, many of whom are East Indians. Fiji should, and no doubt will, supply a large quantity of sugar to the world. The Hawaiian group produce about £8,000,000 worth of sugar. Fiji produces less than one million pounds sterling. If Australia is to become a great country of twenty million people, she will need the sugar of these rich islands.
They have the rains that poor Australia so badly needs in the north and centre.

The lack of water is the great problem for Australia to solve. Canada has almost too many lakes. Australia has none. Fiji boasts of a river sixty miles long, and this alone gives you an idea of its importance as a rich tropical land.

Timber is costly here, and British Columbia has already got quite a trade for its cedar both at Fiji and at Sydney. I saw boards made from the Kauri tree that cost $7.50 per 100 feet for hardwood planking at New Zealand.

The shells and corals are very beautiful and can be got cheaply from the natives who line the wharf when the steamer is in port.

Very truly yours,
W. F. HATHEWAY.
