The event of the season took place on Tuesday evening when the play "The Blundering Mr. Brown" was put before the public in Andraleo hall. A very large audience attended and were well entertained, as each and every character was ably represented. Everything was done to make the affair a success in every particular, and the efforts were realized. Mrs. G. Harold Stickney had the direction of the play, and to her is given great credit. To those who took the parts, much praise is due and one cannot justly particularize in such a case. The costumes worn were exceedingly handsome. The young lady ushers, the Misses Eva L. Stoop, Clara Gove, Gwendolin Jack, Bessie Clarke, Alice Grimmer looked very pretty in their light and dainty dresses and performed their duties in a most pleasant manner. The music of the orchestra was highly appreciated, as it was of a classical character. The selection "The kiss of Spring" was very highly spoken of. Mr. G. Harold Stickney is to be complimented on the success of the rendering of the music. The proceeds amounted to $136.00 and will be given toward the cemetery fund.

Langford in All Saints church at 2.45, when the groom, supported by his best man, Mr. H. R. Ross, of St. John (N.B.), entered the chancel. As the bridal party entered the church, the choir sang "O Father all creating," and during the ceremony "Perfect love" and the Deus Misereatur. The bride, who was given away by her father, was elegantly gowned in white chiffon ruchings, also veil and orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses, carnations and asparagus fern. The only ornament worn by the bride was a pendant of diamonds and pearls, the gift of the groom. The bridesmaid, Miss Emily Andrews, sister of the bride, wore pearl grey silk, white "merry widow" hat and gloves to match, and carried a sheaf of "Fair maid carnations" with asparagus fern. The guests were the members of the family, also the Rev. A. W. and Mrs. Mahon, Mr. and Mrs. J. Sidney MacMaster, Mrs. Gifford, Miss Main, and Miss Florence Whitlock. The mother of the bride, Mrs. E. L. Andrews, looked extremely well in black silk with purple hat and gloves. The bridal party left the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, and drove to "The Anchorage," the residence of Mrs. Fred G. Andrews. After a dainty lunch was served, the bride donned a handsome traveling costume of Royal purple chiffon broadcloth, with hat and gloves to match, also grey ostrich boa and was a very handsome bride. On arriving at the depot, they encountered hosts of friends who assembled to speed them on their wedding journey to Boston New York, and Washington. While in New York city, Professor and Mrs. Oastler will be entertained by Captain Andrews, and by the Rev. David Oastler in Harrison (N.J.) The wedding presents were elegant and very numerous, consisting of linen, china, and silver. The gift of Sir William and Lady Van Horne was a costly dinner set, and from the guild of All Saints church, hand embroidered linen. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a signet ring, and to the groomsman a watch fob with masonic emblem. Mrs. Oastler will receive at her home on Minister's Island after May 20th.
