The tenth and concluding volume of this monumental and valuable work, with a complete index (now ready). Uniform in size and price. "The only rival Mr. Kingsford has to fear is Mr. Francis Parkman, and the only writer who has given evidence of being a match for Mr. Parkman is Mr. Kingsford."—London Athenaeum.

- 585a Sir John A. Macdonald. An anecdotal life of the late Premier of Canada, by E. A. Biggar. Royal 8vo, 332 pages, cloth. $2.50.

"Mr. Biggar's idea was a 'happy thought,' and it is well carried out. The author has taken great pains to bring together the jokes and examples of airy persiflage that could be found as Sir John's. It is history, biography, and story book all in one, and presents the great Canadian statesman and many of his contemporaries in a new and interesting light."—J. W. Bengough in Grip.

- 586a Canada's Intellectual Strength and Weakness. A short Historical and Critical review of Literature, Art and Education in Canada, by J. G. Bourinot, C.M.G., LL.D., and author of "Cape Breton," etc. 4to, boards, 99 pages. $1.25.

- 588a Documents Illustrative of the Canadian Constitution. Edited,

- 589a Ontario's Parliament Buildings. 1792-1892. A Century of Legislation, by Frank Yeigh. A handsome 8vo, volume, about 200 pages, illustrated with beautiful photogravures, wood cuts and portraits. $2.50.

"Mr. Yeigh's study is far more than an architectural sketch. It throws light upon many sides of the development of the Province of Ontario, and might well serve as an outline history of her political life, though in no sense an elaborate work. Ontario has reason to be proud of the new structure in which her present parliamentary sessions are held; and Mr. Yeigh has furnished many illustrations of the building and of its humbler predecessors, together with portraits of some of the leading men who have figured in the provincial public life."—Review of Reviews.
