OAKLAWN FARM

The Greatest Importing and Breeding Establishment in the World.

Percherons, Belgians, French Coachers.

GREATEST COLLECTION EVER GOT TOGETHER NOW ON HAND.

Our 1903 importations include 20 first-prize winners from the leading European shows. At the International, Chicago, 1903, our horses won 40 prizes, 21 of which were firsts, including in Percherons, champion stallion, champion mare, champion American-bred stallion, best group of five stallions, best stallion and four mares. Although our horses are better, our prices are lower than can be obtained elsewhere in America. Catalogue on application.

TRADE TOPIC.

A HALF DAY WITH "BEAUTY DOCTORS."—While the sentiments of Solomon, "There's nothing new under the sun," may be echoed by blasé men of the world, yet could my stay-at-home sisters have accompanied me on my visit to the Graham Dermatological Institute, 502 Church St., Toronto, I think they would have said with me that, in their application, some things are "ever new and ever young." Save for its sign, The Graham Institute has nothing to distinguish it from the dwellings around it, but inside I found in active operation all those spells that destroy and conceal the effects of time. In order that my laudable curiosity might be satisfied, the presiding genius kindly allowed me a seat behind the curtain, where, for one forenoon, I was an intensely-interested spectator and listener. The case in hand was the removal of superfluous hair from the cheek of a young lady. The other cheek, having been treated two weeks previously, now presented as fair an appearance as if its surface had never been disfigured by that hirsute appendage. The process, electrolysis, as advertised, had always seemed to me as painful and expensive, but here I found it exceedingly simple. * * * Judging from the merry conversation carried on during the operation, the pain must have been inconsiderable. The skin was left slightly reddened, but it soon took its natural tint.—[Extract from a letter written by a farmer's wife to the Brantford Expositor.]

GOSSIP.

During the only lull of a minute at the late Hamilton Shorthorn sale, Col. Ingram, the witty auctioneer, related the story of a fellow-Irishman, who went to Muskoka on a hunting excursion, loaded for bear. On the second day out, he was more fortunate in finding game of that brand than he had hoped for, coming upon a real live bear, which sat upon his haunches at a respectable distance before him. After looking at each other for a time, as the sportsman made no advances, Bruin got down on his fours and walked towards the man, who, instead of shooting, retired under cover of his gun, the bear continuing to advance, and the man to retreat orderly, till he got within speaking distance of the camp, when one of his companions shouted: "Shoot now, why don't you shoot?" "Begorra," said the Irishman, "I'll not do it. I want to bring him in alive."

One of Governor Hoard's recollections is of a prosperous old German farmer with whom he was once conversing in northern Wisconsin, when the subject of humor came up.

"It has always seemed strange to me," said the Governor, "that you Germans, as a rule, do not appear to understand American humor. You have some remarkably clever humorists in Germany, and their jokes are easily comprehended by the American mind, yet your people do not seem to see the point of our jokes at all."

The German promptly controverted this, claiming that his people were quick to see and appreciate American humor. "You gif me a joke," said he, "and you vill see dat I vill understand it yooast as well as you."

So Governor Hoard told of a man in his county who had feet so big that he had to use the fork of a road as a bootjack.

The German stood smilelessly waiting for the point, when the Governor said: "There! I told you a German wouldn't comprehend an American joke."

"Do you mean to tell me dat dis man haf feet so big dat he haf to go oudt efrey night and pull off his boots mit der fork of der road?"

"That's the idea," the Governor admitted.

"Ven you talk about der fork of der road do you mean der place where one road runs dis vay und der odder runs dat vay?"

"Yes."

"Und you say dis man haf sooch big feet dat he haf to use dis fork of der road for a bootjack?"

"Exactly."

"Vell, dat's no joke. Dat's yooast a tam lie."
