MISSION AT CAMPBELLFORD AND WARKWORTH.

ESTABLISHMENT OF THE LEAGUE OF THE SACRED HEART.

Sunday evening. Oct 19, the Rev. Father Connolly S. J, opened a mission in St. Mary's church, Campbellford, which, continuing during the week, was productive of much good. The large attendance of the faithful at all the ex attendance of the fathful at all the exeroises was evidence of their hearty desire to profit of the season of grace.
The editying spectacle of a full church at half past five every morning, when the early Mass was celebrated, was as creditable to the congregation as it was executive and the rev. missionary. Beencouraging to the rev. missionary. Besides the Catholics of town and country, encouraging to the term management of protestants were always present at the evening services and listened with attention and delight to the instructive discourses of the learned Jesuit. In his sermons Father Connolly explained with clearness and precision the doctrines of the Caurch. Every one seemed anxious to be instructed in those things which tend to save and sanctify the soul. In beautiful and expressive language he placed before the minds of his audience the mercy of God for the sinner in the sacrament of penance, and His unceasing love for all men in the Holy Eucharist. Many were moved and resolved to ist. Many were moved and resolved to lead a better life for the future, as he lead a better life for the future, as he pictured in glowing terms the end of man, the malice of sin, and the just judgment of God, who, while He punished the unrepentant sinner with everlasting fire, rewards his faithful servants with eternal heppiness. The effect of his eloquent words was seen in the great number who went to confession and Communion.

Betore concluding the mission the Rev. Father exhorted the Catholic people of Campbellford to make the graces of the mission permanent. To do so they must be faithful to prayer, to the frequent reception of the sacraments, and to the avoidance of the occasions of and to the avoidance of the occasions of sin. With this aim he instituted the Apostleship of Prayer and the Holy League of the Sacred Heart of Jesus in their parish. He explained how this devotion would assist them to practice these powerful means of perseverance. It would unite them in the fellowship of prayer with seventeen million of associates spread throughout the Christian It would encourage them to fre quent confession and thus renew again and again their good resolutions to avoid ly sin but the occasions of sin. It would also inspire them with love for our Divine Lord and the desire to be united with Him in the sacrament of His Body and Blood. No wonder promoters of the Holy League became numerous, and all were anxious to be enrolled as asso

Father Connolly is in all things practi cal. As intemperance is one of the great est evils of the day, he formed a men's branch of the League, which has for special object to guard against the occasions and temptations to this deplorable vice. The members of this branch prom ise not only that they shall go frequently to confession and Communion and be faithful to their prayers, but also that ency shall not drink intoxicating liquor oney shall not drink intoxicating liquor in raloons, bar rooms or other places where it is exposed for sale. In the words of the Rev. Father: The future men are the boys of to day. They must practice the principles of self-denfal if they are to be true followers of the crucified Saviour. Old men, whose habits are formed—whose ideas of friendship and good fallowship cannot be sally shapped. sre formed—whose ideas of friendship and good fellowship cannot be easily changed, or who have passed through the ordeal of youthful temptations, and survived—do not fully understand the dangers that beset young men in these days, when human respect and self-indulgence form the rule of so many men's actions. Let them look back on their past, count those who began life with them, and see how many have fallen by the way through intemperance, and they shall be appailed at its destructive power. There is a future before our young men their lives. The men's branch of the Lergue is instituted for their special protection against the allurements of this terrible vice. The League will so bind them together, that by mutual aid and example they may the more easily and efficaciously fulfil the inspired advice of St. Paul—not less necessary now than when first enunciated—"Live soberly, justly and piously in this world." nve soberly, we must avoid not only in temperance but the occasions and temp-tations which lead to it. To live justly we must keep curselves in the state of grace through the frequentation of the sacraments, and to live picusly we must be faithful to our daily devotions.

These are the very aims of the Apostle ship of Prayer and the League of the Sacred Heart. The men of the parish particularly the young men, answered his appeal by gladly giving their names to be enrolled in the men's branch of the Laague.

Father Connolly also visited the outlying mission of Warkworth, the pictur-erque situation of which, in the midst of surrounding hills, charmed him of surrounding hills, charmed his artistic eye. There, too, bis words of instruction bore good fruit. The piety of the people was in fact no contagious that' very many from the neighboring parishes came to enjoy the spiritual good things laid before Monday, 27th, was given wholly to the congregation of Warkworth, where the establishment of the League was received with the same enthusiasm as in Campbellford. In the evening the mission closed with a sermon, the Papal blessing and Benediction of the Most Holy Sacrament. The sermon was a doctrinal exposition of Catholic truth concerning the dignity of the Blessed Virgin Mary and of the devotion which all true Christians owe her. From scripture, reason, and the teachings of Fathers of the Church, he proved the fact that Mary was truly the Mother of God, and as we are all members of the one body whose head is Christ so she is also mether of Christians. He exhorted all to honor her whom God hath so of the church and school. He was deand edi'ying manner in which he con-ducted the mission and for the fruit it has brought them. It has been for them truly a season of special grace. Their prayers and good wishes will follow him in his future missionary labors.

DIOCESE OF LONDON.

On last Sunday at High Mass His Lordship Bishop O'Connor preached for the first time in his Cathedral Church. Lordship Bishop O'Connor preached for the first time in his Cathedral Church. A very large congregation was in attendance, as it had been previously announced that the Bishop would most probably deliver a sermon on that day. As His Lordship ascended the pulpit all eyes were turned upon him in loving welcome. He had been appointed their Chief Pastor, and for the first time he was about to break to them the words of life. Having read the epistle and gospel of the day, he proceeded to make special reference to the feast of All Souls. Some of those who had gone before us, he said, were in need of our assistance. They were crying out to us most imploringly to help them in their sore distress. The hand of God had touched them. God is infinitely pure, infinitely holy, and souls tainted with sin were unfit to enjoy His presence. They were condemned to suffer for a time, that they might be cleansed of their imperfections and fendered worthy of God's presence in heaven. Many of us had relatives who were gone before us. We had fathers, mothers, brothers, sisters. We had, too, friends whom we had in this life loved most tenderly. They may be now in the enjoyment of celestial delights, or they may be enduring the terrible suffering of the place of purification. Is it not, then, most tenderly. They may be now in the enjoyment of celestial delights, or they may be enduring the terrible suffering of the place of purification. Is it not, then, most necessary that we should come to their aid? They cannot help themselves. In this respect we are placed in a more favorable position than they. We have it in our power to render them aid, for we can send up our petitions to the Most High in their behalf; beseeching Him to have mercy, to shorten the time of their misery and grant them the joy of beholding the holy of holies. We can render them assistance in various ways. We can have offered up in their behalf the holy sacrifice of the mass, and while God Himself is on the altar the petitions of the priest and the people will be there before Him, begging elemency for the sufferers. We can likewise comfort the departed by offering up fervent prayers to God in their behalf; and most salutary, likewise, will be found works of mercy done here below in aiding God's poor. If we have little, but little is required from us. If we have much, we should bestow much. The prayers of the poor, the lowly, the sorrow-stricken will thus be sent to heaven's throne in our behalf and in behalf of our departed, and surely such petitions will not be vain when addressed to Him Who has promised that whosoever gives a cup of cold water in His name will be rewarded in the next world. We regret we cannot give but a meagre outline of His Lordship's timely and most impressive sermon. Those who were present in the Cathedral on last Sunday could not fail to be traveled with most impressive sermon. Those who were present in the Cathedral on last Sunday could not fail to be touched with its earnestness and sincerity, and doubt-less many holy resolutions were treasured up in the hearts of the congregation. AT Sr. MARY'S CHURCH. St. Mary's Church, Hill street, on Sun-St. Mary's Church, Hill street, on Sunday evening was honored with the presence of His Lordship. This church is attended from the Palace by Rev. Joseph Kennedy. The visitor is always impressed, on entering the sacred editice, by the neatness and order of everything in and about it. On Sunday evening it presented a very beautiful appearance, being brilliantly lighted specially for the occasion. The beautiful arrangement and adornments of the altar showed the exquisite taste of the Sisters of St. exquisite taste of the Sisters of St. Joseph. The choir, under the leadership of Miss Ella Murray, organist, farnished excellent music and singing, some of the choicest hymns of Catholic church music historical statements. choicest hymns of Catholic church music being given with a taste and precision that would be creditable to a large cathedral. "Nearer, My God, to Thee," by Miss May Bergin, was much admired for its rare sweetness and correct rendi-tion. "Ave Verum," by Miss B. Roach, was given in artistic style, her powerful and musical voice showing to good ad-yantage in this admirable piece. Mrs. There is a future before our young men in this world and in the next, and that future depends upon the sobilety of Connor "O, Jesu" in a finished and Connor "O, Jesu" in a finished and brilliant manner. After His Lordship imparted the benediction, Mr. J. C. Loughlin, accompanied by several gentle-men of the congregation, advanced to the altar rails and read the following address

The fame of your Lordship's distinguished career has been studied by us during the years of your priestly labors in your successful administration of the Sandwich College, and, having learned that the mantle of your much-regretted predecessor had fallen upon you, we entertained heartfelt delight at knowing that the diocese was blessed with a most worthy successor to continue the many striking works begun by him.

Your office, my Lord, is one which, on account of its many and grave responsibilities, its many interests, both spiritual and temporal, the vital importance of its many duties and undertakings, requires, on the part of its possessor, not only spiritual and temporal, the vital importance of its many duties and undertakings, requires, on the part of its possessor, not only spiritual and temporal, the vital importance of its many duties and undertakings, requires, on the part of its possessor, not only spiritual and temporal, the vital importance of its many futies and undertakings, requires, on the part of its possessor, hot only spiritual and temporal read, untiring energy and devotion in spiritual matters, but also a high sense of honor, dignity, scholarly attainments and prudence in temporal affairs. The grateful thanks of the Catholics of Campbellford and Warkworth are due to the Rev. Father Connolly for the zealous spiritual and temporal, so well watched

The people were very much impressed by the Bishop's paternal discourse, and his first visit to this parish will for many years be remembered with profit by the faithful in the southern part of the city.

Our representative put the following questions to Mr. Murphy:

Q.—Do you wish to place any statement on record as to the correspondence and what it coutains?

Mr. Murphy.—No, the correspondence is full and will speak for itself. My destre is to put myself on an intelligent footing with my co-nationalists and co-religionists in the Province of Quebec as well as in the Dominion at large, who feel, I have no doubt, acutely on the score of their rights as forming a portion of the English-speaking minority, and I desire that the responsibility for any neglect in recognition of these rights soforming a portion of the English-speaking minority, and I desire that the responsibility for any neglect in recognition of the serving minority, and I desire that the responsibility for any neglect in recognition of the Ret that I, at least, am blameless

MY DEAU AR MURPHY—To my great surprise I found your letter at say office, instead of your presence, according to the special appointment. I need not tell you how I regret the laformation centained in said letter and by which you decline the cacdidatire at Quebec West election, which is to take place immediately, but what surprises me more than anything else is to read in that letter that I am not "holding out hopes of the fulfilment of my repeatedly declared policy in respect to the Interests of the Irish Catholics of this Province."

I was the first Prima Minister since Confederation to give the Irish Catholics a representative in my Cablact, when there was but only two members representing them in the Legislative Assembly, and you know that it is not my fault if there is no Irish Catholic Minister. Now, I told you the other day, and I repeat it to-day, I am always disposed to give a seath the Cablact to one of your contrymen when favorable circumstances will allow me to do so.

But It is not the time to decass that question; time is very precious and I want to know whether you prests in declining the candidature in Quebec West.

Please give the bearer the answer.

Yours truly.

My Dear Sir-I am favored with your letter of the 18th Instant, in rep y to mine of same day. Its contents, combinet with the pleasant interview I had with you in the presence of two members of your Government, Hon. Messrs. Ross and Gagnon, I am pleased to say has led up to the conviction that I was wrongly impressed by the conversation which took place between us at your house, on the evening of Wednesday of the current month. Needless to say with what pleasant at I convey this intimation; it is always a most unpleasant step to break with friends, whether social, commercial or political—particularly the latter. I gave the promised intimation on Saurday that I would be the Government candidate In Quebec West, and touched the wires to you at Montreal to that fifth, which I hope you found satisfactory. I have the fullest hope that you will not seek, beyond the question of principle, for the incidental cause which has led up to our recent relations, and have every hope that your assurances will be put into practical shape in the not far distant future.

Believe me,
Yours very sincerely,

My Dear Mr. Premier.—In view of our beling on the eve of goneral elections in the Province, and the consequent accentuated agitation in the public mand and the present of the consequent accentuated agitation in the public mand and the present of the consequent accentuated agitation in the public mand and the present of the consequent accention in your Carlinel, I am induced, I hope not unjustifiably, in taking up the question, in fact as it were following out the subject, as dealt with in. the correspondence which passed between us last December, on the eve of my contesting the election for the division of Quebeo West; I am the more influenced in writing in view of the record of an interview what with von by a representative of the Montreal Gozette and outlined in that paper on the 22nd instant. The feature of the interview which concerns the question under issue at the moment, is your reply to the following question:

"Is there any probability of the Irish Catholics having a representative in the next Cabinet?" To which you answered:

"Certainly—the only difficulty of the Cabinet, but as soon as they do they will be invited to send a member."

I am to infer that a share of the responsibility for the difficulty of the situation, as appreciated by you, reats on my shoulders; and I am sure you will admit the gravity is one which cannot be over-estimated, and should be disposed of by me with as little delay as possible. Now, my dear Mr. Premier, I will be happy, if you will afford me the opportunity, of furnishing practical evidence of the sincerity of my reported veibal assurances that I have at all times been quite willing to make any sacrifice in my favor, so that those of my faith and my nationality should be worthily represented at the Council Board of the Province, and I am now personal and political friends would give universal satisfaction. DONALD KENNEDY Of Roxbury, Mass., says

Den't write to me when taking the first bottle of my Medical Discovery. I know how it makes you feel, but it's all right. There are certain cases where the Discovery takes hold sherp, but it is the diseased spot in you it has taken hold of, and that's what you want. The Discovery has a search warrant for every humor, from backache to scrofula, inside and out-ide, and of course it makes a disturbance in your poor body, but the fight is short, you are better by the second bottle; if not, then tell me about it, and I will advise. I will, however, in the future, as in the past, will, however, in the future, as in the past, answer any letter from a nursing mother.

Sincerely yours,
DONALD KENNEDY,
ROXBURY, MASS.
