

HALLOWAY CASE IN COURT

Mrs. Thomas Carter Committed for Trial on Charge of Endangering Property

In police court Friday a.m. Annie Carter, wife of Thomas Carter, Halloway, was charged with setting fire to a pile of material, endangering her husband's buildings.

Thomas Carter, the husband, sworn said he lived at Halloway, north of the cheese factory. His wife, the accused, lived with him. There is no family, the children of his first wife living away from home.

On the evening of Nov. 25th, he was in the house for dinner. Dinner not being ready he went over to his son's and afterwards she blamed him calling him names.

He went to a neighbor's and stayed all night. Next morning he went directly into the barn to do his chores. She came down swearing and cursing and started to pick up stones.

He thought the papers were burned to cause excitement. These were from under the carpet. He did not think she intended to set the house on fire.

W. B. Tutts, Halloway, sworn said he heard a racket of pipes or pans falling on the road. Then a woman ran out of Mr. Carter's house about eight o'clock and went up the hill.

She was cursing and swearing about Mr. Carter. She threw herself down on the side of the road making some low and depraved remarks. She returned and went back into the house and said she would burn the whole shack down or something to that effect.

Witness had always found the husband a good neighbor, taking the best care of his wife. He had heard on one occasion, at a distance of 20 rods, Carter fearfully abused by his wife, who said she would cut his throat.

Rev. J. P. McInnes, county constable, testified that Mrs. Carter effected an arrest and after warning made a statement: "I did try to drive the fork through him" and "I started the fire last night to burn up some papers."

Clifford Wilson, a neighbor of Mrs. Carter, told a story like that of Mr. Tutts. On her return down the hill she was singing and then began to use loud talk and kick piles about.

day he went to the neighbors, she said she had been washing. She asked him to get her some water, but he did not get any. He went to the neighbors and got his dinner and she had no bread.

KILLED BY PASS- ENGER TRAIN

Sidney Lady Met Instantaneous Death This Morning Short Distance West of City—Was Crossing Track to Neighbors

Instantaneous death was the fate of Jennie Carleton, an elderly, maiden lady when she was struck by a G. T. R. passenger train this morning in Sidney about one third of a mile west of the city limits.

Miss Carleton made her home at the residence of her sister Ann, formerly owned by Mr. Youker, and this morning about seven forty-five left to go to the neighbors across the track to get some beans.

Dr. W. W. Boyce, coroner, happened to be on the train on his way to Toronto. He got off to see what was the matter and found the fatality.

The death of Miss Carleton was a great shock to the residents of West Belleville and the second of Sidney. She was about seventy years of age.

Rev. David Wisbart, known as "The Bishop of the North," is dead. The "Bishop of the North" is dead. Such was the name by which the late Rev. David Bennett Wisbart, for thirty-nine years Minister of the Presbyterian church at Madoc, Ont.

THE GOOD SAMARITAN OF THE BATTLEFIELD

To the Editor, Dear Sir, In the multiplicity of appeals now before the people of Canada, there is one which is unique in its purpose and therefore has its claim.

The Red Cross Society exists to collect funds and material and to provide assistance to the sick and wounded in time of war, supplementary to that provided by the Civil, Naval and Medical Departments.

There is no need to enlarge upon the claims of the Red Cross or to multiply instances of its usefulness. The Good Samaritan of the battlefield, it seeks a neighbor in every sick or wounded man, binds up his wounds and takes care of him.

WHAT ARE THE NEEDS OF THE SOCIETY? We need funds to purchase surgical and medical supplies of all sorts, including the motor ambulances which are doing such noble work in carrying the wounded as quickly and painlessly as possible to the hospitals.
