Curious Changes In Titles Brought

About by the Public. The fashion of naming railroads has changed considerably in the last quarter of a century. The three and four wordtitles have about gone out of style, and one word names succeed them. For in-stance, the Santa Fe is no longer referred to as the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, although this is the corporation title. The old Chicago, Burlington and Quincy has been contracted to simply Burling-ton by the public decree, and the title

Rock Island has replaced the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific. Many towns otherwise practically un-known are kept before the public because they had the luck to be worked into a railroad title. For instance, who knows the real name of the Monon railway? As a matter of fact it was organized Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville road. The little town of Monon, Ind., gave it its popular name. The Wabash system does not take its name from the river, but from a station of this name on the line. One of the most sensible railroad names was selected for the combination of railroads organized in the south and now known as the Southern railway. The Southern is very fitting, as it enters nearly every southern state. It is also an economical name.

Another name that strikes you is the Cotton Belt. This is how the St. Louis Southwestern railroad has been modernized. As it passes through one of the largest cotton producing regions of the United States it is very appropriate. Because a little road up in Neva Sco-tia with the ponderous title of the Dominion and Atlantic reached the land made famous in Longfellow's poem tourists have given it the title of the Evangeline road, and perhaps this is more appropriate than the other. It is certainly more picturesque.

A change which must have shocked the directors was in the case of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis. This was altogether too much for its patrons and the railway men, and some one thought of the size of the cities named and called it the Big Four.

Down in Texas and the neighboring states they have a habit of handling the railroads without gloves when it comes to giving names. A favorite plan is to take the principal initials of a road and spell them out. Only a native of the southwestern ranches would know Pee Gee stands for the Kansas City, Pittsburg and Gulf railroad. Another Texas road, the Kansas City, Beaumont and Guif, is merely called Kaysee, cutting off the last part of it. Sap is short and sweet. It has been contracted from S., A. P., meaning San Antonio and Aransas Pass, one of the principal lines in Texas. The New York capitalists who built another road thought that Missouri, Kansas and Texas would be a suitable name, but the Texas people reduced it to Katy.

Including nicknames, the shortest name of any railroad in the United States is the Sap, which has already been referred to. It is 637 miles in length. A little road in Mississippi, the Chester, Perryville, Sainte Genevieve and Farmington, has the longest title of any in America. This contains no fewer than 43 letters, but two other lines are close to it, the Richmond, Nicholasville Irvine and Beatyyville and the Southwestern Arkansas and Indian Territory. The Chester line is only 27 miles dong.

LONDON COSTERS. Hinerant Street Venders Who Make

Fairly Good Incomes. It is difficult, if not impossible, to calculate with any degree of accuracy the amount of money turned over collectively in the course of a year by the costers, but interesting figures may be supplied by placing on record the gross receipts of some street traders.

Many will be surprised to learn that coster in the fruit or vegetable line will make a turnover of anything between £8 and £12 per week, a full third of this being profit. The figures vary much, nat urally, with the season of the year and the state of the markets, but he is reckoned a poor fruit coster who cannot make an average of £2 10s. to £3 weekly profit. Despite this income, which many a clerk would envy, tales of distress are frequent among them, owing to their universal improvidence. Fish is not so profitable a line of business, partly owing to the more perishable nature of the stock, and a fish coster who is a "£2 man" after reckoning up on Saturday night has no cause to grumble at his week's work.

The profits of venders of penny toys puzzles and other articles so familiar in the Strand and elsewhere vary according to their cost, which ranges from 4d. to 7d. per dozen. A pound to 25s. is reckoned a good weekly earning, but during the recent button craze energetic workers had no difficulty in clearing double this amount in some instances.

The gutter oilcloth merchant calculates ipon a profit of 6d. to 1s. a piece, according to size, and can dispose of 40 or 50 pieces in the course of a Saturday evening alone, to say nothing of slacker business done during the rest of the week. A street bookseller recently admitted that e had "never cleared less than £2 a week," and on further inquiry that does not appear to be much above the average. The proprietors of those miscella-neous stands to be found chiefly in the East End, where everything from a violin bow to a saucepan lid may be purchased, have a difficulty in telling their profits, as, owing to the nature of their stock, some things sell rapidly while other ar-ticles lie on hand for months. That there is money to be made at this trade is evident from the fact that many of its followers are pointed out by their less fortu-nate brethren as being the owners of the houses in which they live.-London Mail.

The reign of Victoria has often be compared to and contrasted with that of Elizabeth, and it is one of the curious

Elizabeth, and it is one of the curious coincidences of history, as well as another illustration of the continuity of life in England, that each great sovereign at an interval of 300 years had for her chief minister of state at the close of her reign a Robert Cecil, Lord Salisbury.

When Queen Elizabeth had sunk into her melancholy stage, refusing food and sitting up day and night, supported by pillows on a stool, Burleigh's son ventured to tell her she must go to bed.

"Must!" she cried. "Is 'must' a word to be addressed to princes? Little man, little man! Thy father, if he had been alive, durst not have used that word Thou art so presumptuous because thou Thou art so presumptuous because thou knowest I shall die."

FEAST OF HORSES

Very Old Festival Still Celebrated In Dosera, or the "feast of horses," is very old festival in India. The Hindoos say that on a time long ago the god Rama went to war with the king of Ceylen and was victorious because his army had better horses and bullocks than the king's army. So yearly, at the time of a new moon, the Hindoos worship the horses and bullocks.

I had never heard of this festival, and on the morning of Dosera I was sur-prised to find my Arab pony Raja all trimmed with bright yellow flowers. He had a wreath around his neck, long pendants of flowers hung about his ears, anklets of the same bright flowers were tied around his legs just above the hoof and again above the knees, and tiny bou-quets were tied to the harness in many places and on the reins too. It was pret-ty, and I am sure Raja felt "dressed up." for he was dignified and quiet all that day and carried his head a little higher than usual. Sometimes he does frisky things, but we are not at all afraid of him, for he is intelligent, and if we say, "Raja! Raja!" in a decided tone he seems to know that we wish him to be dignified. Raja means king, and we gave him that name because we think him the king of Arab ponies.

At Dosera the bullocks, which are as much used here as horses, had their horns stained with bright colored paints, generally a different color for each hore, and strings of little tassels of many different colors were tied from the tip of one horn to the tip of the other, or bright pieces of ribbon would be used instead of the tassels.

The white horses, of which there are very many here, and the white bullocks, too, were painted, some in stars or in round dots. Others had the rising sun painted on both sides of their bodies in red and gold colors. Some horses had only their tails and manes colored, while a few drivers painted the sides of the cart and the wheels also." After all this decorating was finished the people made pajah to the animals, which means that they worshiped the horses and the bullocks. I could not find any one who would tell me if they worshiped the carts, too, but I think they did. After this is done the people give each other presents, which should be of gold, but as the people are most of them poor to give gold they give the leaf of the "gold" plant, and that answers very

When evening came, and the coach-man who had trimmed Raja with the fresh flowers had not received "back sheesh," he felt very much neglected and sent word to me that it was the custom of the country to give the coachman donation. I sent him a rupee and made him quite happy.

SCAFFOLD POLES TO HIRE. One of Various Interesting Feature of the Pole Yard Business.

"Scaffold Poles to Hire." So read a sign painted on the end of building standing in a pele yard, and a man whose eye chanced to fall upon wondered just what it meant. He had heard of renting steam boilers and pianos and horses and railroad cars and so on and he knew that there is scarcely anything, perhaps nothing, that cannot be rented, but he had never heard before of renting scaffold poles, and it seemed an odd thing to do.

As a matter of fact there are lots of poles rented. It is an old and to those who have occasion to know about it familiar branch of the pole yard

Scaffold poles are rented, of course, most largely to builders, and there are more builders who hire scaffold poles than there are who own them. This for the simple reason that it is for most builders cheaper to hire. The very largest builders who must have a yard anyway in which to keep material and plant of one sort and another own their own scaffold poles and keep them when not in use in their own yard where they have

The smaller builder, having very likely no material yard, has no convenient place to store poles when not in use, and he hires poles, as for that matter some of the larger builders do also.

Scaffold poles are let at so much for a job, whether it is a few days or weeks. but while a builder keeps the poles for one price on one job as long as he may need them he cannot if he gets through with a job early haul the poles off to set up on another job without paving more

The life of a scaffold pole is about six years. A pole yard man said that they could be made to last ten years by care. People always drive nails into scaffold poles. These nails rust, and the wood around them rots, and the pole gradually goes to decay. If the poles were all carefully overhauled and looked after when they came back to the yard from a job and the nails all pulled out, they would last four years longer, but this is not done for the simple reason that it wouldn't pay. The cost of the work would be greater than the gain by it, and so they use the poles as long as they are fit to use and then chop them ap.

Whitewashed. An amusing joke was once played on a post commandant in Cuba who like all other post commandants, was not popu-lar. He had two fads. He believed in whitewash and plenty of it, asserting it to be the most effective preventive of tropical diseases ever discovered, and he was equally attached to a pet flaming who resented being kept in captivity and showed his resentment by nipping at ev-ery soldier who passed his way. On the part of the soldier there was nothing to do but swear under his breath and wai do but swear under his breath and wait for revenge.

On a certain Monday morning an order was issued from headquarters that all articles pertaining to camp which were not sheltered from the weather should be whitewashed. The post commandant's wrath can be imagined when he next gazed on his pet flamingo, who had suddenly become as white as the driven snow. To the sorrow of the soldlers the bird survived the operation.
