Special per G. N. W.
 Toronto, July 1.—11 a. m.—Mostly fair and warm; scattered thunderstorms, becoming more general towards night.

THE LOCAL BUDGET

The excursion to the Eau last evening was well attended.

The City Council are billed to hold another special meeting on Tuesday night.

Capt. Max Fraser leaves in a few days for Mexico on a visit to his brother.

The county and legal offices in Harrison Hall are all closed to-day, it being a statutory holiday.

George Boothroyd, of Thamesville, will spend several days in the city visiting relatives and friends.

The promptitude of the committee was shown when, this morning they asked Wilson & Son to prepare plans for the Central School addition.

Mrs. Emma Jones and daughters Mrs. Williams and Miss Ivy, have returned to Detroit, after visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Peate, Adelaide St.

It is sixteen years ago to-day since Deputy Sheriff Chas. E. Beeson assumed his present office. His many friends are extending congratulations.

A delegation from the Brantford Council are visiting the city to-day to ascertain the workings of the electric lighting system. Brantford is debating installing a municipal plant or renewing their present contract.

Miss Ida Sullivan, a Maple City colored woman, was a visitor at the Police Court this morning. She wanted to enter an action against a neighbor who is in the habit, she says, of calling her ugly names. She was informed that she will have to wait until Judge Houston comes home before she can lay the information.

STILL BRITISH

The Rankin House is flying its big Union Jack to-day.

"Celebrating Jack" queried a passer-by of the deposed hotel man pointing up to the bunting.

"Well, I'm still British, you know," was the proprietor's smiling response.

CHARGED WITH PERJURY

Roy Willer, a young man from Port Alma, was a sorry looking specimen of humanity when he made his appearance in Police Court this morning. Willer was arrested yesterday and he has been so worried over his arrest that he has not eaten anything since yesterday at breakfast time.

Willer is charged with perjury. At the Division Court in Chatham it is claimed that while under oath he swore that he did not receive $85.00 from J. N. Halliday at Merla on a promissory note signed by William Willer. There is also a second charge that he did knowingly negotiate a promissory note purporting to be signed by his father, William Willer, knowing the said note to be a forgery.

Mayor Cowan presided over the Court in the absence of Judge Houston and remanded the young man until the Judge returns. Thomas Southard is acting for Willer.

ALEX. HARDY SHOT.

Toronto Baseball Victim Of An Injurious Husband.

Troy, N. Y., July 1.—Alexander Hardy of Toronto, Ont., one of the pitchers of the Troy Baseball Club, was shot and possibly fatally injured last night by Charles Thero of Danbury, Conn., who alleges that Hardy had been paying attention to Thero's wife.

The latter lives in this city. Thero met Hardy in a gangway and shot him in the back. The bullet lodged near the heart.

Hardy denies paying attention to Mrs. Thero.

Frank Hollingshead shot. Charlton, New Ontario, July 1.—Frank Hollingshead, formerly of Tottenham, Ont., was accidentally shot by Jack Preston, an employe, here a few days ago. He was carried on a stretcher by settlers sixteen miles through the bush, and sent by boat and train to North Bay, in hopes of saving his life. He is a graduate of Queen's University, aged about 35.

DO HONOR TO CAPT. TURNER

Officers of the Regiment and Citizens give Expression to Their Esteem

Capt. Turner's Message of Thanks — Will Follow Chatham's Progress and Development.

That the Maple City delights to honor her esteemed and valiant sons was evidenced last evening, when Capt. J. S. Turner, who leaves tomorrow to enter his new duties as manager of the Standard Bank at Kingston, was signally recognized by his fellow citizens.

During the evening Capt. Turner was summoned to the parlors of the Hotel Garner, where he was met by his brother officers of the 24th Regiment. Major Massey, in the unavoidable absence of Col. Rankin, presented Capt. Turner with a handsome cut glass carafe set on behalf of the officers. In so doing the eloquent Major bespoke the best wishes of the Regiment and the deep loss it sustains in Capt. Turner's departure. He hoped whenever the glasses were in use a silent toast to the health of the 24th would be offered by the departing captain.

In a few appropriate words Capt. Turner expressed his appreciation, after which a pleasant social evening was spent.

On returning home, Capt. Turner found awaiting him at his home a handsome nine-light silver candelabra and a three-light electric newell, accompanied by the following letter:—

Chatham, Ont., June 30, 1905.
 Mr. J. S. Turner, City:

Dear Sir,—Kindly accept this small token of our esteem for your many kindnesses to us during your years in Chatham. We regret very much your departure from the city, but believe you are making a change which will be more advantageous to yourself, and we wish you and your estimable wife a continuation of your successful career.

Capt. Turner, when interviewed, said: "I spent last evening very pleasantly with the officers of the 24th Regiment, recounting good times and telling reminiscent stories, and you can imagine my surprise and pleasure on arriving home to find such handsome gifts awaiting me.

"As time does not permit a personal expression of my appreciation I can only extend my thanks through your valuable paper for the many expressions of kindly feeling towards Mrs. Turner and myself, and I assure you the gifts will ever remind me of the pleasant and profitable years spent in this city.

"I sincerely trust that the prosperity and advancement due to the push and united efforts of the council, business men and manufacturers, which is now so evident, will continue until Chatham has taken foremost place in the cities of this fair Dominion."

HOPE YOUNG CONFESSES

Alone and Frightened, She Evolved Tramp Outrage Ruse.

Says the Babe, May Ward, Died Naturally—Her Story Does Not Implicate Any Other Person, and Protects Her Own Innocence of Crime—But Main Defence Will Be Plea of Insanity.

Halfpast July 1.—Hope Young's confession, made to Detective Polve yesterday afternoon, has created a sensation. Her story, while not accepted in detail, so far as it goes does not implicate any person other than herself and indeed she rested her own innocence firmly as regards any intended crime. Most emphatically does she deny having smothered May Ward and explains that the story first told was concocted because of her alarm at the child having died in her arms when she was alone in the house.

"I was alone," said she, "and I had no help and no doctor. I feared what Kinley Melanson would say when he returned and I thought I would try it would mean the coroner coming to the house. All the neighbors were down on me and I had nowhere to go if I left Melanson's. I cannot remember how I took the children out to the woods. My mind was in a daze and Kingsley left the house between 5 and 6 o'clock in the morning. I lay down on his bed and went to sleep. I had been sleeping with the children on the sofa in the living room for some nights and he had been crying and crying awake me. I took her in my arms and tried to give her hot water from a spoon, but she shook her head and would not swallow.

"She became worse and the children died in my arms. I left her lying on the bed and all day worked about the house doing washing and other housework. As time passed I became more and more frightened because of the child's death. Finally, towards evening, I covered her head up to keep flies off her and took her out. I do not know how I got her back.

"On my return, little Emma was crying. She had been locked in the house. I then thought of the tramp story and arranged accordingly. I fixed her up, putting the rag below her chin, so that nose and mouth would not be covered. I have no recollection of going out with her or of returning.

Questioned as to when she had placed bread and cake in the playhouse near the woodpile she said, "they were always there." Asked if she told Melanson on his return that evening, she said: "I only told him the children were missing. I did not tell him of May's death and my taking them out."

The Crown aims to prove May Ward's death was due to suffocation. Dr. Macdonald in his testimony stated this to be the case, but defence will claim that it is impossible to prove that in the absence of any of the usual tests with lungs having been made; also that a child of seven would not submit to smothering without violent resistance, which could not but leave marks showing violence. No such marks exist. The main defence will no doubt be the plea of insanity.

HUMAN PICTURE GALLERY.

Man Found Drowned at Prescott Librally Treated.

Prescott, July 1.—There was found drowned, floating down the north channel yesterday, a man, aged between 35 and 40 years, weight about 175 pounds, sandy moustache (short and thin), brown hair, black serge suit, tattoo on breast of a lady, on left arm large fish and lady and some flowers; on right arm lady and star; calf of left leg, two ladies' faces; on left hand, a star on right hand, a leaf; above the knees, on both legs, a bow knot. Nothing was found in the pockets to identify him.

WON'T TAKE "NO" FOR ANSWER.

Gaynor and Green Continue in Fight For Liberty.

Montreal, July 1.—Judge Outimet yesterday morning decided that he had jurisdiction to hear the Gaynor-Green application for continuance of habeas corpus in chambers and that the case should go on.

Meanwhile Mr. Casgrain asked for delay, as he was going to appeal to the Privy Council from the judgment of the Supreme Court annulling his appeal from Judge Davidson's refusal of the writ of prohibition.

Couldn't Make Other Side.

Toronto, July 1.—"I'm afraid I can't make it," said the Norman Man, when he was in the middle of the Humber River attempting to swim across at about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He didn't make it. Two hours afterward his body was taken out of 18 feet of water by Charles Nurse, about 150 yards from where it sank. Norman Musselman was in his 20th year. He spoke to his chum Ed Kennedy, who tried to keep him afloat but failed.

Judge Fitzgerald's Sudden Death.

Port Arthur, July 1.—Judge Fitzgerald died here of heart failure early yesterday morning. He retired early to awaken him to meet the morning train, as his niece, Miss Holden, was coming from the west. When Mrs. Fitzgerald went to his room she found him dead. He was born in Hamilton, and studied law with P. B. Oler. He leaves a widow and two children.

Bad Man Locked Up.

London, July 1.—Detectives Rider and Nickle arrested Dave Smith, wanted in Stratford for burglary, on the market square yesterday afternoon. Smith made no attempt to resist arrest, but when searched a heavy 35-calibre revolver and about 50 cartridges were found on him.

Kitchener and Curzon Agree.

Simla, British India, July 1.—Proposals have been submitted to the Indian Secretary, Brodrick, for a modification of the orders regarding the Home Government regarding the administration of the forces in India. It is said that Viceroy Curzon and Gen. Lord Kitchener are in complete accord regarding the plan for modification.

HOG PENS

The Nuisance at the G. T. R. to be Effectually Dealt with—M. H. O. Takes Action.

From time to time a great deal has been said about the G. T. R. hog pens and very little done. The matter is, undoubtedly, a nuisance and no half measures, such as have been indulged in in the past, will ever be effective.

The nuisance is a public nuisance—the remedy for a public nuisance is to have the person committing it enjoined. An indictment is laid by the Crown Attorney acting on behalf of the Government. The matter would come before the Grand Jury at the next session. On their finding the Grand Trunk Railway Company would have to stand trial for maintaining a public nuisance.

Medical Health Officer Hall visited the hog pens on a recent occasion and threatened Mr. Fritchard with arrest. This is preposterous. If he was acting under legal advice such advice was of the weirdest sort. Mr. Fritchard does not maintain this nuisance. He is merely the agent of the company who maintain it. In fact if it were not for his efforts the matter would be much worse.

If the Health Board is earnest in its intentions the only method for them to pursue is to indict the railway company. They would, then, find the company would move the pens and, thus, go away with the unhealthy odor. Don't buzz around in a bottle any longer.
