DANGER LURKS IN EVERY ONE OF US

We Are As Full of Deadly Poisons As A Germ Laboratory.

AUTO-INTOXICATION OR SELF-POISONING

"FRUIT-A-LIVES" Absolutely Prevents This Dangerous Condition.

The chief cause of poor health is our neglect of the bowels. Waste matter, instead of passing from the lower intestine regularly every day, is allowed to remain there, generating poisons which are absorbed by the blood.

In other words, a person who is habitually constipated, is poisoning himself. We know now that Auto-intoxication, due to non-action of the bowels, is directly responsible for serious Kidney and Bladder Troubles; that it upsets the Stomach, causes Indigestion, Loss of Appetite and Sleeplessness; that chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Pain In The Back, are relieved as soon as the bowels become regular; and that Pimples, Rashes, Eczema and other Skin Affections disappear when "Fruit-a-lives" are taken to correct Constipation.

"Fruit-a-lives" will protect you against Auto-intoxication because this wonderful fruit medicine acts directly on all the eliminating organs. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. At all dealers or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa.

SCORN TO WEAR CHEVRONS.

They Say "Safety Firsts" Have a Similar Privilege.

The Canadian Associated Press understands that an effort will be made while Gen. Mewburn is in England to enlist his co-operation with Sir Edward Kemp in attempting to secure from the British War Office better orders of the war regarding the wearing of chevrons. Briefly, the present regulation is that members of any branch of the forces, Imperial or Dominion, are entitled to chevrons for service overseas. In the Dominion troops a special provision was made that service overseas should count from the date of their leaving their own country. This means that Canadians who have only done service in England are entitled to the same mark of distinction as those who spent whole winters in the trenches.

There are many Canadians in England, of course, who have got no further to the actual fighting through no fault of their own, but the following is a glaring example of the present anomalous position: At Argyl House, in London, at this moment there are certain men wearing one red and three blue chevrons, also the order of the British Empire and a Russian decoration, and yet he has spent his whole time at clerical work in England.

There is also a young captain who came over as a private, was wounded three times, earned his Military Cross in France, and yet, following the example of Gen. Turner and others, declines in sheer disgust to put any chevrons on his sleeve.

A recent letter from the War Office intimates that some men of no less than yours, earn chevrons very cheaply. For instance, all those officers in overseas garrisons at the beginning of the war are entitled to chevrons, although they may never have been moved since, and officers of the Indian army on duty in London are similarly entitled.

Catching Up to Us.
The New York Commercial states that the United States is second to Canada in supplying farm machinery to Australia and its position in the trade is steadily improving. Eleven million dollars' worth of such machinery is required annually by Australian farmers, of which seven million dollars' worth is manufactured at home and four million dollars' worth imported.

While the present demand for farm machinery is substantial the fact is that in the normal course of events Australia is destined to become a much more attractive market for such articles. The increasing efficiency of farm tractors should eventually prove a most important factor in developing the agricultural resources of the country. In spite of the present difficulties in the path of the average American manufacturer, the market deserves the utmost attention, especially on the part of those who produce a fair number of the machines most favored by the Australian farmer.
The home manufacturers are favored by the fact that much of the land is not cleared of stumps, so that a stump-jump feature is a necessity in most implements. Canadian and American manufacturers have never been obliged to specialize on such a feature, whereas the Australian manufacturer has given it attention for years. This and other disadvantages and advantages are discussed at length in an American Government report for the benefit of manufacturers and exporters who are planning to extend their Australian and New Zealand trade as soon as normal conditions are restored.

A GREAT FIGHTER.

Sergt-Major Robinson has been Forty Years' Service.
Sergt-Major "Jimmie" Robinson enjoys the distinction of being the first Canadian to win the D.C.M. in the Great War. He is a veteran of veterans, for despite the fact that his abundance of black hair, his ruddy health-betokening face and his alertness and vigor, mark him as a sturdy man in the early forties at most, he is in reality considerably older, with a service record covering about forty years of military campaigning with the colors.

He was through the Zulu War of 1879 with Lord Chelmsford's 94th Regiment, the 2nd Connaught Rangers. He fought also in the Sekakunia campaign of the same year under Sir Garnet, afterwards Lord Wolseley. He went through the first Boer War of 1881, including the siege of Pretoria, with Gen. Buller. He was in the South African war of 1899-1902 with a Natal Indian regiment, with the Imperial Light Infantry and with the Prince of Wales' Light Horse. His peace-time service includes soldiering with the 2nd Royal Dublin Fusiliers in India, from 1884 to 1889; in the Rocky Mountain Rangers at Nelson, B.C.; with the 104th New Westminster Fusiliers; and with the Hart-McHarg Company with the 6th, Duke of Connaught's Own Rifles at Vancouver.

He went out for the first time in the present war with the 7th Battalion of the 1st British Columbia Regiment, 1st Canadian Expeditionary Force, under Hart-McHarg, succeeded by Brig-Gen. Odium. He was also with George McSpadden, 11th Irish Fusiliers of Canada, being twice in France and in the thick of events. His D.C.M. was won at Ypres in April, 1915, two months prior to which he was mentioned in despatches, Feb. 15, for conspicuous daring and gallantry.
"The Old War Horse," as Sergt-Major "Jimmie" Robinson is affectionately christened in the West, was born on Oct. 31, 1857, at Port a'Down, in the County Armagh, being the oldest son of the late John Robinson, and, like his father before him, he has been prominent in Orange circles all his life. He was first a member of No. 417, Lord Ranfurly's Purple Banner Lodge, and later with Britannia L.O.L., Vancouver, B.C., which has been the principal speaker at this year's 12th of July gathering, the associated guest of honor being Gen. John Robinson, the distinguished

(1) View from the Chateau verandah.
(2) Giant Steps in the Paradise Valley.
(3) At Lake Louise.

Nobody ever gets accustomed to Lake Louise. You come down in the morning, thinking of canteloup and coffee. And at the stairhead you have your first—yes, it is a smashing glimpse of the lake. No water could be so greenly-blue, so shot with amethyst half-shadows, so blent with undersurface diamonds and banded agates and shivering sapphires. The slender cliffs to the left make a frame for it—the jade slopes to the right give it fire by their sombre contrast. But that dazzling, unbelievable whiteness that froth over the top of the world at the lake's end—that soaring, ringing, living wonder that somebody tethered to the earth by the process of naming it the Victoria Glacier—it's unrealer than Louise itself. But the artist looks at it with just the same worshipful hopelessness, at least so says Walter D. Wilcox, P.R.G.S., who got his first sight of Louise in 1891, and has been an annual pilgrim ever since. It was just an annex of Banff then, this wonder-lake, and there weren't a hundred people in the east who had ever seen it.
"You can't paint it," declared Mr. Wilcox this year, out of twenty-seven season knowledge of its dancing medleys. "You get your clouds and your rock colors in. Then you try for the water. But the clouds you painted are gone and this lake is quite different in tone from the lake that went with your light effect. You might work for years and never see the precise combination repeated that you tried to get—and got a maddening half of."
Mr. Wilcox made his second visit with some college friends in 1893, and this time he brought a camera, a little 5 x 7, that laid the foundation for all his future reputation in the world of films and plates.

In addition to the delicacy and correctness of his photographs, Mr. Wilcox can claim to have taken the largest picture ever achieved in Canada at a height of 10,000 feet. This is his panorama from Mt. Niblock with an IXX 14 camera, and so real looking that a hot day makes you want to put it up beside the electric fan as a chill-producer.
Mr. Wilcox's famous Lak' O'hara study in another bit of wizardry. "It took me just four years to get that one," he told me. "I believe I brought the camera back at least ten times, and when I finally had a promising day, I waited from eight till twelve o'clock for the psychological moment that brought the light I wanted on the water and the mountains."
Another scene the picture-maker coveted was the sparkling Giant's Steps in Paradise Valley. "You worked on that falls for two days and I had a man to help me. We cut down a tree that interfered with the camera and we tied up heaven knows how much rubbish. I don't believe in making a scene artificially—but I do believe in making it artistically natural."
The beginner doesn't get one plate of your job.
