The majority in parliament can do more to purge the departments of government by passing a vote of want of confidence in the administration than by amendments to the criminal law. Where are our representatives and what is parliament doing? The time was when it was supposed that incompetency, not to speak of crime, was a sufficient reason for displacing one government and trying another. Has that time gone by? RACED FOR A HOME.

Exciting Scenes Follow the Signal to Start.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Sept. 22.—The great day has come and gone; another epoch has opened in the history of the wonderful territory of Oaklahoma, and to-night 1,250,000 acres are as thickly settled as New England, that at sunrise this morning was a total wilderness. Ten thousand people have acquired a home and a farm. and a half-score of cities have sprung up as if by magic. Your correspondent went to the Iowa eservation at daybreak this morning, and in a drive of 25 miles along the line $2500 did not find a space of a hundred yards where there was not from 50 to 100 people camped. All night last night horsemen crossed the line and disappeared in the interior, there being fully 2000 'sooners" on the land at sunrise this morning. Some of the scenes along the line were very pathetic.

The first place visited was the negro settlement of Langston. Here were 2,000 negroes. Most of them were on foot, being too poor to buy a conveyance, and having walked the 18 miles from Guthrie over rough roads under the hot southern sun. All ages and both sexes were repre-

At another place was found an old colored woman with two children in arms that she had carried 15 miles, having become lost from her husband in the crowd at

Scores of women of all ages were found waiting patiently on horseback and in wagons and carriages, and everywhere the men accorded them every courtsey, always allowing them to take the best starting points.

At the point where the old Sac and Fox trail crosses the line about 500 people were assembled, and at 10 o'clock a singer of Winfield, Kan., walked into We would suggest that the agent of that camp, having footed the entire distance from Guthrie. Two minutes later two shots were fired at the trail crossing below the hill, and 500 people rushed up one hill and down another. Far in the lead were the horsemen. In a line in the trail followed the wagons, and across the gulleys and into the timber went the people on foot. Every claim along the line was jumped by from six to twenty people. It was but a few moments after signal was given when the last wagon disappeared over the hill, and, with the exception of the few people on the border claims the country looked as deserted as it did early in the morning. In the interior, however, a wild scene was being enacted. Up and down every valley and on every ridge dashed horsemen and wagons, and through the draws hurried the claimants on foot. Half of the good claims were already taken by 'sooners," however, and within an hour will end in feuds and murder.
