TALK IS CHEAP.

Lowest Priced
House in Charlottetown
"My Store."

The numerous Clothing dealers of Charlottetown are just now telling in glowing words about their underselling, how they are almost

Giving Goods Away

And naming prices that no other store on earth can match. Now, if it were not undignified in "My Store," we would be tempted to remark that "talk is cheap." Mark our word,

Trade is influenced less by what is said than by what is done,

And that is why so many observing and thoughtful people say

"MY STORE" is the Lowest Priced House in Charlottetown.

When in doubt I go to "My Store," none just as good as "My Store" for the money. "My Store" deals in good low priced goods and from that up to the best, but they don't keep shoddy. Here's a piece of goods I bought at "My Store" nearly two years ago, and it's good yet.

We could go on and on, enumerating Good Words that have been said to the writer, during the past week, of "My Store," but the few mentioned are sufficient to plainly show why this is

Charlottetown's Busiest Store

Ah, but there is so many chances to hide defects in Clothing. However, when you buy of "My Store" and your purchase does not please you, get your money back, that's our way.

THE lifeless body of Mr. William Gill of Union Road was found Monday afternoon in his field. He appeared to be in good health up to the time of his death, and that morning had gone to the city and brought home a load of ashes. About two o'clock in the afternoon he left the house to come home across the field. This was the last seen of him alive. About four o'clock, his dog was seen watching beside his dead body. He had apparently fallen on his way to work as his body was quite cold when found. Mr. Gill was in his 79th year.

Ellsworth was arrested last week and was found to have over twenty new pocket knives, a shaving brush, and some confectionery and out tobacco in his possession, which probably came from the same stores. THE WAR!

The following was received from Lord Roberts on Wednesday last:

PRETORIA, June 5.—I regret to report that the 12th Imperial Yeomanry had to surrender to a very superior force of the enemy, May 31st, near Lindley. On receiving information of the battle, the 12th Imperial Yeomanry, Lord Methuen proceeded with all speed to its assistance. Methuen was on march on the 1st of June and had marched 44 miles in 25 hours. But he was too late to rescue Colonel Sprague's Yeomanry. Methuen attacked the Boers who were between two and three thousand strong, and after a running fight of five hours completely routed the enemy. It is a very regrettable circumstance, but it will not be very long before the Imperial Yeomanry are released from captivity.

The following cable, delayed in transmission, was received in Montreal on Friday from the Star's Correspondent:

PRETORIA, June 6.—Pretoria surrendered last night, after the Boers had been bombarded all day with siege guns. Gen. Hamilton on the left seized a ridge of hills at Witwatersburg in the extreme right of the enemy's position. The Gordons and Cornwallis held a ridge at the west of the enemy's position. The Australians, Australian lancers and mounted infantry galloped down a ravine between the ridges and turned the Boer flank. Two hundred British officers who were prisoners were released. It is reported that the rest are at Waterfall. This afternoon Field Marshal Lord Roberts made his formal entry into the Transvaal capital, and was well received by the citizens. A portion of the army, including the Canadians, marched past the court house. It was a magnificent spectacle. Gen. Botha with two thousand burghers left last night for the mountainous regions east of Pretoria. President Kruger left here four days ago. It is reported that he took $2,000,000 in gold with him. Twelve hundred British prisoners have been removed to Comatien. The Boers are still at Waterfall. The prisoners say that the Boers will fight to the bitter end. It is understood that the Royal Canadian Regiment will be released from service here.

A telegram from Bennett Burleigh states that a number of Boer officers and guns were captured in the fighting between the city, but according to another report the withdrawal of the Boers was accomplished successfully by Lord Roberts. The Boers and stores were got away before the capitulation. It is evident that about 1,000 British prisoners have been released. The Boers have been peened in a barbed wire enclosure of four acres in extent and uncovered on the open veldt. Two other train loads of prisoners were sent by Lord Roberts to the Cape. According to the Central News correspondent, Gen. French attempted to break the Boer line, but was unable to do so.

According to the correspondent of the London Daily Express the one thousand prisoners who were deported from Waterfall were told that they were about to be given to Lord Roberts. They entrained cheerfully and no doubt they were released. General Louis Botha, with a rear guard of two thousand, left Pretoria during the night. The British advanced guard on entering was upon the very heels of the retreating Boers. Botha has sworn to carry out a desperate struggle. The Boers are now in the hands of the British.

The Express correspondent at Lourenco Marques has obtained an interview with Kruger at Mashodop. The president of the Boers is now in the hands of the British. Kruger was not the end of the war. The Boers would never surrender while 500 armed men remained in the country. Kruger denied that he took two millions of treasure with him and that he was contemplating refuge in a Dutch war vessel. The Boers, he added, had only now begun. One of the inscrutable mysteries of the week was explained when the war office closed at midnight on Friday.

This was Buller's share in the final work of the campaign. After sending two divisions against the Buffalo river at Utrecht and Vryheid, he recalled them and made a close approach to the Boer position. The Boers were defeated. Operations began on Wednesday with the seizure of Vanwyke hill by the tenth brigade. After sharp skirmishing heavy guns were sent to the crest of the hill, and to the spur of Ikewille mountain, and yesterday Hildyard's division, formerly commanded by Venter, carried the mountain heights between Botha's Pass and Ikewille. These heights were to the west of Laing's Nek and Mafaba, and when taken involved the retirement of the Boers from strong positions where they were entrenched. Buller's men had done some fine mountain climbing and while their casualties were light, they had gained positions from which he hoped to render Laing's Nek untenable. If this result be secured, it will be a brilliant achievement, and the Boers will be driven back into the Transvaal and forced to retreat toward Ermelo and Lydenburg.

The following despatch dated June 11th has been received from Buller's headquarters in Natal: "Our force concentrated with the junction at the Klip river and Gaudel last night. We anticipated finding 2000 Boers there, but they retired as soon as our heavy guns opened fire. Our casualties are six killed and seven wounded. The Boers suffered 100 killed and 200 wounded. The Boers are now in the hands of the British.

Buller evidently is pushing offensive operations, and is apparently almost through to turn the Boer's right. A despatch received on Monday from Sir Forester Walker, in command of the British guarding lines of communication, reports that the 1st Battalion of the Derbyshire regiment met with a disaster at Rooval on Thursday last. Colonel Douglas and Lieut. Hawley were killed. The Boers were in the hands of the British. The Boers are now in the hands of the British.

THE capture of this disaster are not yet to hand. It is known, however, that in this case, as in the capture of Sprague's Yeomanry, Lord Methuen was unable to come up in time to prevent the disaster. Twenty miles of railway between America Siding and Rooval are said to have been almost completely destroyed.

But reports that on Monday he forced Almondo Nek near Charleston Flats. The Boers had several heavy guns in position, but the Dorset Regiment carried the position at the point of the bayonet. The Boers are now in the hands of the British.

THE Boers have been driven back into the Transvaal and forced to retreat toward Ermelo and Lydenburg. The Boers are now in the hands of the British.
