

POETRY

A poet's love.

I've been writing to the love:

In the which write to me.

And the love answer'd me through,

As I thought love to me.

But my dream of love is over,

I will trouble you no more.

The appointment was right,

And the time was fit.

But my dream of love is over,

The day is clear.

Will delight you no more.

When my love has seen,

She will be gone.

For she is gone.

The perfume of flowers is a valuable distinction of the girl who wears them.

The girls are wearing long sailor neckties

in pink dots, etc., tied in knot knots.

Footlets are not so fashionable as formerly,

and large brooches are the things of the day.

Many fashionables dresses are made with the fan waist, in favor many years ago, and so becoming to slender figures.

The favorite bedding dress are orange,

yellow, green, blue, etc.
