LONDON, May 7.
An attempt to wreck St. Paul's Cathedral, was made yesterday. The verger, who conducts night-services through the edifice, when making his rounds, noticed a ticking sound near the High Altar. He found a heavy parcel done up in brown paper, and immediately placed it in water. It was passed to the police, who found a suffragette paper wrapped up with the bomb. Two other bombs were found elsewhere in the city. Shortly after the St. Paul discovery, a similar bomb was found on the steps of a newspaper office in Fleet Street, and a canister, believed to contain explosives, was picked up on the steps of a wholesale drug establishment near St. Paul's. The arson squad this morning burned down the pavilion in the cricket field at Bishop's Park, Fulham, also set fire to an occupied house in Finchley. No trace of the criminals who set fire to St. Catherine's Church, has been found. A woman arrested was discharged for want of proof.

LONDON, May 7.
To-day's bulletin says that the Duchess of Connaught had a better night, and her condition this morning was somewhat improved. The Court is in gloom over the admitted relapse. The Duke had great difficulty in persuading the King to keep his engagements at the Newmarket races, where he had promised to pass three days.

LONDON, May 7.
The debate on the Franchise Bill, yesterday, which resulted in its defeat by 47 votes, showed that the suffragettes had done great harm to women's franchise so far as Parliament is concerned. Last session's conciliation Bill was rejected by only a small majority compared with yesterday's. Previous bills have passed the second reading, though they never reached a further stage. Recent police court disclosures of plans by the so-called militants, far surpassing in magnitude anything yet attempted, and the burning of St. Catherine's Church, undoubtedly influenced many members to vote against the Bill.

PARIS, May 7.
King Alfonso arrived this morning with Premier Count di Romanones, President Poincaré and Premier Barthou, with all the members of the French Cabinet, were present to receive the royal party at the station. The King and President drove to the Palace d'Orsay, talking animatedly. The whole route was lined with troops, 20,000 infantry and 5,000 cavalry being on duty. Immense crowds greeted the King with loud cheers. The visit is regarded as a political event of great importance, as it may be a prelude to a Franco-Spanish alliance. Seven arrests of men who cheered for the anarchist Ferrer, shot in 1906, were made.

LONDON, May 7.
Miss Cross, whose Pekinese spaniel was poisoned, received a post card from Southampton on May 6th, saying: "We are very sorry your pretty dog must be sacrificed, but our rules are inexorably forced. We are resolved to stop at nothing now. Every valuable prize-winner and race-horse, such as the Derby winner, shall be maimed or destroyed until we get votes for women. You and other owners of valuable property can only enjoy peace by helping us get votes. Signed, Monkrood. Miss Cross sent full particulars to Scotland Yard in an endeavor to trace the sender of the postal card."

NEW YORK, May 7.
"Hanging is the best and only cure for troublesome people," declared Sir Eric Swayne, "and that is why British Honduras is the most peaceful country in Central America." Sir Eric has been Governor of British Honduras for seven years. With Lady Swayne he arrived here on the s.s. Carrillo. Hence they go to Canada and then to England, as Sir Eric has been recalled. He suggested hanging English suffragettes who threw bombs.

LONDON, May 7.
Dr. Fletcher Little introduced a "no treating" resolution at the National Liberal Club annual meeting. The members received the proposal coldly, many pronouncing it an insult. After a short discussion the previous question was put and carried by a large majority. So the question is shelved for another year.

LONDON, May 7.
H. F. Bayndale, managing director of the Postmen Wireless Syndicate, said that although the contract with Canada for a wireless service between Britain and Canada must be in operation within twelve months, he had no doubt that it would be in working order in September.

SYDNEY, May 7.
The painters who struck last week for $3 and a 9-hour day, went back to work this morning at the old wages, $2.75. The carpenters are still out; and there is little prospect of settlement, each side expecting the other to give in.

LONDON, May 7.
Lewis Harcourt, who is spoken of as the Duke of Connaught's successor, at Ottawa, is descended from the Plantagenet monarchs. He was born in 1869, and was married to Miss Burns, a niece of Pierpont Morgan, in 1899.

WASHINGTON, May 7.
Ambassador Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, was formally presented to President Wilson to-day by Acting Secretary Moore. Sir Cecil read a brief address and the President made a short response.

Secinded Paths.

Restless and unsatisfied. "Of what use is life?" I cried. "All my wishes are denied.

All my duties trivial seem; I have energies, deem; What I could be—oft I dream;

Yet I cannot see my way From this spot; whereon I lay; So hope fadeeth day by day.

Then a voice was at my side; "Let my conduct by thy guide; 'Twas His voice, the Crucified.

"Thirty years unknown I trod Gallies's sequestered sod; But my life was known to God.

Daily work at Joseph's call, Daily life 'mid duties all; Yet I was the Lord of all.

Loved one, if thy life be true, Thou a blessed work shalt do, Though unseen to mortal view.

I shall know it, I shall see, When with willing heart and free Thou obedient art to Me.

All thy quiet life I know, For I planned it long ago, Wouldst thou that it were not so?

I have given all for thee, Live thy quiet life for Me, So it shall transfigure thee."

Now on these sweet words I rest, And have ceased my anxious quest, For the Master knoweth best.

Write Exams In Dress Suit.

Paris Has Similar Tyranny Regarding Civil Service Posts.

London, April 26. — Outside the waiter's profession one does not associate any high degree of industry with evening dress, and few men would care to assume this garb when sitting for a stiff examination, says the Daily Chronicle. However, the "Cri de Paris" reports that at a recent competition for posts in the "Inspection des Finances" all the competitors appeared in dress suits. It seems that for some unknown reason evening dress has come to be regarded as indispensable at these examinations, and no candidate has ever proved bold enough to run counter to the tradition. Yet the commencing salary for those who prove successful is only £72 a year.

We have had the same tyranny of dress at Oxford, where it was compulsory to sit down and write for public examination six hours a day in a black coat, a white tie and a gown in order to achieve a degree. It took me half the time in laughing at myself properly gowned, with a white tie and waiting lambs in Greek.

Incongruities.

The man who pays a trifling tax is always out with it h battle-ax, condemning this, denouncing that, and talking wildly through his hat.

The man who doesn't pay his debts, whose creditors in sorrow sweat, is always finding signs of graft in public men, and guile and craft.

The man who lets his weary wife do washing to sustain his life is always active with his jaws discussing needful helpful laws. The man who has no trap to guard has fifteen watchdogs in his yard which howl all night till neighbors weep or call for poison in their sleep.

The man who fails in all he tries on some high office has his eyes; oh, he could guide the ship of state, although he cannot pay the freight.

The man who has a private jug too often roasts the thirsty plug who boldly seeks the shining bar where fortyrod and bitters are. The man who plays a quiet game in some resort unknown to fame is angry when he hears of chaps who waste their substance playing craps.

And some who preach the love of man, the helping hand, the kindly plan, expounding divers creeds and gods, are stuck like beeswax to their wads.

Self-Told Fairy Tales.

Baltimore, April 23 — That many normal people indulge in what he termed "autistic thinking," or seeing life in fantastic pictures, was the statement made by Professor E. Bleuler, of Zurich, Switzerland, at the Henry Phipps psychiatric clinic to-day.

"The normal man has his fairy tales when he has withdrawn from the world, when he dreams day dreams. At other times he hides the fairy tale, not only from strangers, but from himself.

"To the insane man the fairy tale is real. He lives it. The understanding of autistic thinking is necessary to the study of morbid mental conditions. If we cannot heal the defective brain like we can a broken bone, we can at least send it out into the world improved and able to earn a living."

Giant Sunfish Captured
Is 50 Years Old, 10 Feet by 9 Feet, and Weighs 2,000 Pounds.

One of the largest and most astonishing marine wonders seen for some time has recently been brought to light from ocean depths. This is a remarkable specimen of a giant sunfish. It measures 10½ feet from tip to tip of his fins, is 9 feet long, and weighs nearly 2,000 pounds. The great fish was captured in the Pacific Ocean off the California coast, and the skin has just been mounted in New York for museum exhibition, says the Scientific American. Such huge fish are rare, though some weighing from 500 to 800 pounds have been obtained occasionally. The great fish are three feet long, and when swimming the upper one protrudes high out of the water. From certain ridges and folds developed on the body it is thought this specimen is about 50 years old.
