Bob Fitzsimmons Still Middle-weight.

"And if I Don't Stop any White 'Ope in Four Rounds I won't Ask You to Let Me Fight," "Battling Bob" Told New York Boxing Commission When Refused Permission to Again Enter Square Circle.

Bob Fitzsimmons, "Battling Bob" of the '90's is still the world's champion middleweight pugilist.

The New York State Boxing Commission says so, and what the N.Y.S.B.C. says about pugilism seems to amount to something, not only in New York, but in other places.

Fitzsimmons was middleweight and heavyweight champion at the same time and never lost the former title.

Now, at 51, heroic "Battling Bob" wants to fight. "I'm not quite so good as I was, but if I couldn't dispose of these white hopes I've seen I'd be ashamed of myself. They're getting money by false pretences."

Until a few weeks ago Fitzsimmons was content to rest on his well-earned laurels, but when he saw Jim Flynn and Jim Coffey flounder through ten rounds like a pair of half-trained seals he jumped into the ring and, after stilling the tumult of cheers, said:

"After watching the exhibition here to-night, I feel it my duty to re-enter the ring and dispose of some of these so-called 'white hoppers'."

Next day Bob was signed by one of the Gotham fight clubs to meet an unknown "hope" on January 6. Fitz, weighing about 200, began training.

Then the N.Y.S.B.C. applied the brakes and barred the veteran. Fitz pleaded in person, but the commission was obdurate. They told "Battling Bob" he was of a vintage too rare.

"I'll fight any of them in private and if I don't put him away in four rounds I won't ask to box in public," Bob offered, but the commission was deaf.

It was said the commission handed Bob in the shape of a declaration that he was still middleweight champion. They might have added he would die champion, as they won't let him box.

"A lot of good the title I won from Jack Dempsey does me when I can't follow my line of business to make a living," said Fitzsimmons lugubriously.

Fitzsimmons hopes he will not be barred in other states. He says he only wants a "chawnee" to prove that at 51 he is several hundred per cent. better than some of the jakes now collecting the money.

And, at that, it isn't difficult to visualize Carl Morris, Polkey, Jesse Willard, Jim Flynn and a few more of the punk crop, standing bewildered before the foxy Fitzsimmons executing one of his famous shifts.

Lord Kitchener's Power.

In Egypt Lord Kitchener exercises unfettered power, and so is wholly unconcerned about the views of the Imperial Government, for, unless they coincided with his own, he simply would not carry them out.

Lord Kitchener understands that the Egyptian native is impressed by pomp and trappings, and so he always drives in an open victoria, preceded by running sevens (grooms), in gorgeous liveries and accompanied by outriders. His lavishness with Government money, it is said, is only equalled by his frugality with his own. Kitchener does the whole work of the Egyptian Government himself and ignores the Khedive's existence. He works 15 hours a day and rarely, if ever, accepts social engagements.

He is a terror to his subordinates, judging them solely by results, without fear or favor. He gives only the curtest acknowledgment when they do well and is severe when they fail.

To Try Suit Against Senator.

$50,000 Suit Filed by Oklahoma Woman Against United States Senator to be Called Next Week.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 28.—When the District Court of Oklahoma County convenes for the February term next week, one of the first cases that will be brought up for trial according to present expectations, will be the $50,000 suit filed by Mrs. Julien R. Bond, of this city, against United States Senator Thomas P. Gore, Oklahoma's "blind man eloquent." Both sides in the case hint that the trial will develop some sensational features that were not brought to light when the charges against Senator Gore were aired in Washington a year or more ago.

Mrs. Bond, the plaintiff, is thirty-one years old, and is the wife of Julien R. Bond, of this city. She is of medium size, and rather striking appearance. Her first husband was a dentist, whom she married at 19 while he still had another wife. After her first marriage had been annulled she became a teacher of shorthand and was thus employed when she met and married Bond.

In her suit against Senator Gore the woman asks $50,000 for alleged damages to her reputation following alleged advances made to her in Washington when she called to see the Senator in the interests of her husband's candidacy for the position of internal revenue collector.

Mrs. Bond said that when she first saw Senator Gore in his private office he seized hold of one of her hands and her mesh-bag, and that when he seized hold of one of her feet, as she sat talking to him she thought it time to go. He told her to see him again, she said. The second time they met in a room at her hotel she said. At that time he attempted to seize hold of her as she sat on the bed, she testified, and that when her glasses had been broken in trying to avoid him she called for help and left in company with men who came to her assistance.

Friends of Mr. Gore have not hesitated from the start to declare their belief that the whole affair as described by the woman in her testimony in Washington, was a "plant" framed up by the political enemies of the blind senator to ruin his public career. Others ascribe the woman's action to a desire for revenge upon Senator Gore because he did not secure for her husband the political appointment he sought.

In view of the fact that Senator Gore is now a candidate for re-election the approaching trial and its outcome are awaited with keen interest in political circles in Oklahoma. Many persons well known in Oklahoma's political circles are involved in the case. James Jacobs, formerly chairman of the Democratic central committee of Oklahoma, and who has been prominent in politics for more than twenty years, is one of the chief witnesses against Senator Gore. Another is Kirby Fitzpatrick, land title attorney to the State board of public land commissioners and a brother of the late Congressman Fitzpatrick of Tennessee.

The Lace Veil a Spring Necessity.

The lace veil must not be overlooked for Spring. It is a natural accompaniment of the lace-trimmed hat, and the trend in lace in the fashion in veils. It therefore goes without saying the newest veils is the Chantilly, since Chantilly lace is and has been the favorite for hat trimming for some time.

The Chantilly veil is most becoming in the new range of colors, among the smartest of which is "dead leaf" brown, a color which is, by the way, very strong this season in all dress and hat accessories. Taupe, while no longer a novelty, is still excellent for veiling and is selling well for early Spring trade. One of the newest meshes is illustrated. It will be observed that while the net is figured, it has none of the absurd designs which disfigure rather than beautify the wearer, but has a well designed border and a small unobtrusive design at intervals over its entire surface.

Shadow lace veils will continue strong, particularly in colors to harmonize with the costume, and of course the well dressed woman who is wearing a lace or lace-trimmed hat will be sure to see that her veil will harmonize not only in color, but in texture with the lace on her hat.

The proper style of hat is greatly improved by the addition of a smart veil, and the new colored veils are so much more becoming than black ones that it is obvious that veils will play an important part in the fashions of Spring. The Illustrated Milliner, New York.
