The Westminster Gazette says: We have ample confidence in our Navy's ability to withstand the submarine menace, but we are entitled to expect that consideration which we have shown neutrals in the exercise of our sea-power shal not be audaciously turned to our disadvantage. The Pall Mall Gazette says: Washington must either put a preemptory stop to proceedings in this area, over which it claims special concern, or must withdraw her protest against surveillance exercised by British warships, and recognize that its diplomacy showed lack of foresight and deficient grasp of practical conditions.

Incandescent Gas Lighting.

readily recognized by those who have had experience with the gas mantle lamp.

In its general effect upon bodily health and comfort, the use of incandescent gas lighting is decidedly favorable. The currents of air set up by the burning gas improves ventilation, tending to expel the air vitiated by respiration and draw in fresh air to replace it. Harmful or dangerous disease germs are instantly destroyed in the flame. The extent to which this effect takes place may be verified by placing a gas lamp close to a ceiling with the up-rushing air currents. The charred particles which collect immediately above the lamp are the remains of dust particles which before passing through the flames were laden with germs and microbes. Actual experiments have shown that the burning of gas lamps in rooms previously containing bacteria, resulted in absolute sterilization of the air.

Contrary to the popular notion the temperature of rooms lighted by incandescent gas lamps is seldom markedly greater than under incandescent effectic light, even under unfavorable conditions of ventilation, while in rooms provided with the ventualing facilities required by the demands of hygiene, the temperature in gas-lighted rooms is frequently lower.

The British Parliament assembled to-day for the autumn session. There are few matters of importance to come headings of 'Blackmail' and 'Defiance' the morning newspapers print every scrap of news obtainable, accompanied by plentiful comment. The general sentiment of the press is that Germany is challenging the United States, with a conviction that the challenge will not be taken up, and that neutrals must see to-day that they acted unwisely in not nipping the submarine warfare on commerce in the bud.
