To Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to make. Cures about $2.

You know that pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several peculiar elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and sugar. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup. To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2 1/2 ounces of Pine in a 16-oz. bottle and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make 16 ounces—more than you can buy ready-made for $2.50. It is pure, good and pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—infamed membranes—and this Pine and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pine is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs. Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pine" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute relief of money—money refunded. The Pine Co., Toronto, Ont.

Peter Pig was busy hauling wood from the Shady Forest to his little house on the hill. Donkey Longears was a bit tired. And why shouldn't he have been? All day long, from early morn, he had pulled the creaky cart with its load of wood up the hill and around the little house to the woodshed.

"We'll have enough firewood to last all winter," said Peter Pig, wiping his forehead with a red cotton handkerchief, as he tossed the last stick from the cart. Mr. Merry Sun was going down behind the Western Hills, and the wind blew cool and frosty across the meadow. But although it was cool, Peter Pig was warm. Yes, indeed. He had worked hard and fast all day, and was now ready for a good supper.

As soon as he had stabled Donkey Longears, he hurried to the kitchen where Mrs. Pig was bustling about, setting the table with good things to eat.

"I hear that Mr. Wicked Wolf has been seen about," said Peter Pig, as he seated himself at the head of the table. "I'm glad the wood is all here. Like as not to-morrow I'll run right into him. Shan't go to the Shady Forest for a while, although I'd like to bring home a load of beech nuts."

"Yes, they would come in mighty hand," sighed Mrs. Pig, "but if that old wolf is prowling about, you'd better keep near home." Peter Pig answered with a nod. He was too busy with the boiled cabbage to speak a word.

Just then a knock came at the door. Rap rap, rap! rap! rap!

"Who can it be?" whispered Mrs. Pig, all tremble. "It's pretty dark for a friend to be calling," answered Peter Pig in a low voice. Then, uttering over to the window, he peeked out from behind the shade. Goodness me! There on the back steps stood Mr. Wicked Wolf himself. Yes, there stood that old robber, a large empty sack over his shoulder and a big stick in his right front paw.

Valediction

TO THE OLD STREET CARS OF ST. JOHN'S ON THE POINT OF RETIREMENT.

Farewell, ye from servants one and all. At last ye've heard well earned retirement's call. No more thy welcome comings shall we greet. Or restful, journey home upon thy seats.

Ah, we who loved ye well nigh three decades. And watched ye grow to youth, from youth to age. Our children's playmates, our own honest friends. Are sad to see our long acquaintance end.

Come shed a tear, ye that have tears to shed. For ancient friends, the wheels of whom are sped. Remember not their wee eccentric ways. Allow them all the peace of waning days.

For ever hoary age must give to youth The right of way, and liberty forthwith. And passing leave them in their place for its prompt effect upon coughs. Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pine" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute relief of money—money refunded. The Pine Co., Toronto, Ont.

And if the new who come to take the place, Of those who, this to their life must trace; Shall prove but half as worthy as the last. They shall do ample honour to the past.

A Mystery of the Sea

An inquest was conducted at Brixham the other day on an unknown man whose body was washed up at Broadlands. Dr. Thompson expressed the opinion that the body had probably been in the sea quite six weeks. Death was apparently due to drowning, for no marks of violence were noticeable. Deceased had a remarkable set of teeth. There was none missing from the bottom jaw, but on the upper, the eye-teeth on the left side was gone and that on the right side was filled with gold. He was a well-built man, quite 6ft. in height, with a large round head. There was an old scar on the right side of the head above the ear. This was an old injury, and might have been caused by a bullet—P.S. Dart mentioned that the man wore a fawn mackintosh buttoned from collar and a white silk handkerchief showed that such was cut to obliterate the name—Coroner, Edmunds recorded a verdict of "Death from drowning" with no evidence to show who deceased was or how he was drowned.

Lovely Skin —by simplest care!

A VERY simple secret is responsible for millions of beautiful, school-girl complexions today. You can employ it tonight.

So delightfully easy—so inexpensive.

Correct cleansing

Before retiring, see that your skin is perfectly clean. Use powder, rouge, all you wish. But see that they are removed from the pores—along with dust gathered from the air—before you sleep.

Left in the skin they deaden and injure it. Eruptions, blackheads often follow.

Begin cleansing the skin correctly and see how quickly it improves!

But observe this:

Do not be misled into using just any sort of soap for this cleansing. Skin is amazingly sensitive. Harsh cleansing injures it.

Millions of women have found it best to use Palmolive Soap—a perfect blend of soothing, gently cleansing oils. Simply wash well with it at night—massaging the pleasant lather well into your skin. Then rinse. Again wash and rinse. Then apply good cold cream if skin is dry.

That is the whole secret. No expensive treatments necessary.

Avoid this risk

In Palmolive Soap there are no other oils than those from the African palm, coconut palm and olive trees. These—and nothing else—give Nature's green color to Palmolive Soap. Science has never discovered better cleansers for human skin. So it does not pay to run the risk of unknown soaps!

And Palmolive Soap is so inexpensive that you may well use it in the bath—letting it do for the whole body what it does for the face.

This simple method shows happy results quickly. In one week you will see them. Obtain a cake today. Have your first correct skin cleansing tonight!

Save Canada's Forest Wealth

Manager of Forestry Association Says Forests Cannot be Saved by Planting Little Trees.

OTTAWA, Oct. 28.—"Forest restoration will not be done by replanting," said Robson Black, manager of the Canadian Forestry Association, in an address here last evening when he pleaded for conservation of Canada's vast forest wealth.

"The forests are not restored by obliging lumbermen to fill their pockets with little trees and to plant two for every pine or spruce felled," he declared.

"Under average conditions the forests can be made to perpetuate themselves, to reproduce from their own seed without spectacular and costly efforts by gangs of tree planters. It requires, of course, right protection from fire and above all the co-operation of every man, woman and child who has occasion to go into or near the woods."
