Miss Abba Cornell, of Peterboro, spent the weekend at the home of Win. Grant and family. Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Sidmore, of Tillsonburg, were the guests of the latter's sister, Mrs. E. Holman, over Sunday.

L. S. Johnson spent the weekend with Mrs. Johnson at London. She is doing as well as can be expected.

Mrs. Truman is enjoying a visit from her sister for a few days.

On Saturday a surprise party was held at the home of Gifford Hills in honor of his birthday. A most enjoyable time was spent by all.

C. H. Morrow spent Sunday with friends out of town.

They started to make cheese at the factory on the first day of April. They are getting a large amount of milk.

The sale of horses held at the farm of Warren Wilson was a success. They were all sold and fair prices were realized. D. Stratton, W. Laur and J. W. Sweet each bought a team; G. Garret, one horse. Lindsay & Pound, were the auctioneers.

On Sunday the funeral of the late Melvin McAllister, Sr., formerly of Griffin's Corners, was held at his late home in South Dorchester. He had been ill for some weeks, but would improve and be able to work until about four weeks ago he was taken to bed and never regained his strength.

He suffered during the latter part of his illness, but was ready to meet the Master when the call came. He leaves to mourn, a widow, five brothers and four sisters: David, Robert, James, of Bayham; John and William, of Sombra; Mrs. Stratton, of Frankfort, Mich.; Mrs. Cappler, of Ann Arbor, Mich.; Mrs. Fleming, of Cornua; Mrs. Frank Anderson, of Bayham. Rev. Creagh, of Springfield conducted the services at the house and John McQuiggin at the grave. The bearers were C. D. Coyle, S. Palmer, E. E. Smyth, Bolt Tate, R. P. Draper, Wm. Berdan. The brothers and sisters were all present except John and William who were ill. Interment was made in the Claus cemetery, Griffin's Corners.

Lakeview

The Women's Institute held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. H. Moore last Thursday afternoon. Despite the extremely muddy roads there was an excellent attendance, many walking rather long distances to be present. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. R. McConnell. It was arranged to have the members piece a bed quilt for sale to add to the fund. It was also arranged that a speaker be arranged for from the government to give an afternoon demonstration on needle work, in the near future. An interesting program of music and readings followed. Mesdames M. Chute and Ney Chute gave humorous readings. Miss Ida Haggart sang, Canio's love song, "O Fair O Sweet, O Holy," in fine voice and also played Hady's Allegretto in "E" with good time and expression. Little Nellie Farnley played with much spirit and decision a bright duet with Miss Chute. Owing to severe colds two singers could not perform. Mrs. H. Bate thought the paper she was to have read, "Too serious and sombre for a Monday" and substituted a drawing match when several members drew such apparently well known animals as cows, pigs, etc., which the rest of the audience guessed which quadruped it seemed to be. Many of the drawings seemed able to stand for several animals in one. The prize was won by Mrs. S. McConnell. Another funny stunt was played which brought the meeting to a close. The next meeting will be held at Mrs. Tom Bennett's.

Miss Margaret McDermid is laid up with measles in London, but is progressing very favorably.

The sale advertised by Wm. McKibbin for Saturday was postponed owing to the bad weather.

Andrew Bandow, of Luton, has moved on the farm vacated by L. Garnham.

There was no service here Sunday owing to the roads being nearly impassable.

Saturday's electric storm was accompanied by hail. No damage was reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Dark gave an All-Fools Party on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Geo. Woodworth returned from a fortnight's visit with her parents at Oil City, Pa. Her mother is very ill.

On Tuesday afternoon last week, Earl Woodworth went to Port Burwell to take his sister-in-law, Mrs. Dennis and Mrs. Leta Raymond to the station. His horse took fright, running away, breaking both lines and breaking the buggy. In jumping out he sprained his ankle and twisted the muscles in his leg. The horse was caught. Some friends brought him home and he will be laid up for some time.

Mrs. Ney Chute received a large case of oranges from her brother, Judge Teetzel, who is wintering in Miami, Florida. He likes Florida much better than California.

while the shade of the cedar tree to whirl about him. "I love Mescal. You are mine—I will have you—I will keep you—I will have you!"

He vibrated to that like a keening wire under a strong touch. A flash of the trembling, shame-stricken girl was transformed. She leaned in his arms, supple, pliant with a new life, and for the first time in his wide-open level eyes, he saw there were now no tears, no fear, but a dark smiling fire.

You do love me, Mescal?" "I—I couldn't help it!"

There was a pause tense with feeling. "Mescal, tell me—about you being married," he said, at last.

"I gave him my promise because there was nothing else to do. I was obliged to—to him in the church. I hate him. It can't be changed. I want to marry—Father Naab's eldest son."

"Eldest son?" echoed Jack, suddenly mindful of the implication. "What's Snap Naab. Ah! I begin to get it. That—Mescal!"

"I hate him."

"You hate him and you're pledged?"
