What is Scrofula

It is that in purity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes paintuly running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which developes ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of plimples, cancerons growths, or many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors." It is a more formidable enemy than consumption or cancer alone, for scrotula combines the worst possible features of both. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How can it be cured? By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. For all affections of the blood for this disease. For all affections of the blood for this disease. For all affections of the blood thood's Sarsaparilla unequalled, and some of the cures it has effected are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrotula in any of its various forms, be sure to give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial.

ROMING PIGEONS.

PHILADELPHIA, March II.—Three homing pigeons died last week. One, Young Benny, owned by Henry Wagner, Roslindale, Mass., went out one morning with the rest for exercise and has not been seen since. This bird, besides being considered the handsomest blue checker in New England, was one of the winners of the George W. Childs prize in 1889. In 1887, the year it was hatched, it made the journeys from 140, 136 and 375 miles. The next year it returned in all the journeys up to and including that from 465 miles. In 1889 it returned from 150, 246 and 375 miles and finally from St. Thomas Ont., 525 miles, making the journey in less than 11 hours and 50 minutes. The second loss reported is the Wonderful Bird of the Royal Blue line flight of Theodore P. Green, Woodburg, N. S., died of "going light," a disease popular to pigeons. The third is Gustave, and its loss is reported by J. Skelton, of the Bellevue Club, of this city. THE COLOR LINE IN SCHOOL True Heroism of a Little Philadelphia Blonde.

True Heroism of a Little Philadelphia Blonde.

[From the Philadelphia Presa.]

Among the pupils who attend the Elisha Kent Kane public school, Twenty-sixth and Jefferson streets, is a small colored girl. Her appearance in the yard at recess recently created somewhat of a sensation among the other pupils, who held aloof from her. The little girl stood nervously clutching the iron railing of the fence, and it was evident from her dejected appearance that she keenly felt ber position.

Suddenly the door swung open and a tot with wealth of golden hair, twisted into curls, a pair of large blue eyes, and a face as radiant as a sunburst, rushed out. It was evident that she was a favorite with the other children, for her appearance changed the scene to one of the liveliest animation.

In a moment a ring was formed and the girls whirled around to the music of sweet voices. Meanwhile, the colored child stood silently alongside the fence, and tears of disappointment coursed down her cheeks. When the game was ended, the tot with the golden curls saw the child of color evidently for she first time. With that innocence born of a noble spirit, she left her playmates and crossing the yard to where the child stood alone asked if she would like to play.

"We don't want to play with her," pretested one of the girls, and her sentiment was echoed by most of the others.

"Uny!" asked the mediator, as her big blue eyes expanded with surprise.

"Cause she's black," was the reply.

"But the black don't come of," persisted the other, as she touched the hand of the colored girl, rubbed it, and then exposed the palm of her hand to convince her playmates that such was the case.

"Well, we don't want to play with her," came the answer.

"Well, we don't want to play wish her," came the answer.

"Well, we not the wast of the yard. The other children felt ill at ease and it wasn't long before the little rebels deserted in ones and twos and joined the sisters and their colored companion. Now the little colored girl, as they call her, participat

Departmental Report on the Wheat

washington, March 11.—The Department of Agriculture's report for March estimates the corn now in the hands of farmers at 36.4 per cent. of the crop, in comparison with 45.5 per cent. last year, or 542,000,000 bushels, against 970,000,000 last year. The percentage retained in the seven corn surplus States is less than in others. The percentage retained in consumption Athletic Association held their annual meeting on Friday last, and the officers were elected as follows: President, D. Smith; vice-president, Jos. The quantity shipped or to be shipped from the function of the crop only 18,000,000 bushels, or least than half the surplus of last year. The proportion of the crop merchantable is 79.5 per cent. against $5.7 per cent. last year. The average price of mechantable corn the benefit of east end bicyclists.

the crop on this basis is $761,000,000, neerly $7,000,000 more than the December valuaation, an advance of about 1 per cent.

The proportion of wheat still in the hands of fatmers is $2.5 per cent., or 112,000,000 bushels less than last year. It has been lower only in two years of the last ten, after the meager crops of 1881 and 1885, which were smaller than that of 1890. Including the visible stocks, the supply is 135,000,000 bushels. The consumption of the last twelve months is estimated at 299,000,000 bushels, seed used, 53,000,000 bushels, and the exports have been about 98,000,000 bushels from March 1, 1890. The low percentages of the spring wheat States are especially noticeable. Half of the present stocks will be required for spring seeding. The proportion of crop estimated for consumption within the country is 52. Pper cent., against 48.1 last year. The average weight per measured bushel is 57.2 pounds, which was the precise average of seven crops from 1883. In bushels of 60 pounds the aggregate is 381, 000,000 or 90,000,000 less by weight than the preceding crop. the preceding crop.

Mrs. —, living near Stratford, Ont., has had an experience worth relating; and her plain, trushful story may, in some measure, be the means of guiding aright other women who now suffer as Mrs. — once did. In her letter to us she says "Eighteen months ago my health began to fail. I was nervous, and always felt weary and worn out; I did not sleep well, and got up in the morning almost as tired as when I went to bed. I was assisted in the housework by my daughter, a girl of 17, who, owing to my continued weak condition, was obliged to work a great deal, and neglect her studies. A relative from Toronto paid us a visit, and was surprised to find me so changed. Without asking my permission she drove to Stratford, and came back with a bottle of Paine's Celery Compound, which she told me I must commence to use. I had often heard of it before, even in this neighborhood, but had not thought of using it for my own troubles. I commenced its use, and in two weeks felt much stronger and slept better. After using it for about five weeks I was as well as ever before. Now my appetite is good, I sleep soundly, rest as peacefully as a child, I am fatter and my digestion is perfect."
